150,000 Added To Strike Army; 610,000 Are Out

Conference May Add 200,000 Workers in Silk Trade.

Mediation Board Being Considered

Union leaders yesterday ordered 150,000 wool and worsted employes to join 460,000 cotton textile workers in a nation-wide strike tonight at 11:30 o'clock.

Other developments included:

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the strike committee, announced that a conference with silk employers would decide whether the walkout should be extended to that branch of the industry, with 200,000 additional employes.

A sympathy strike by 250,000 cotton garment workers was predicted in Chicago by Morris Bialis, vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The National Labor Relations Board, unsuccessful in earlier settlement efforts, considered appointment of a three-man neutral mediation committee.

Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, blamed the union for collapse of peace negotiations and criticized suggestions that the Government feed needy strikers.

Reminded of hints of violence, Gorman conceded he expected fights between unionists and "hired thugs" of employers. He said he anticipated trouble from Communists.

A crowd blocked a freight train at a mill in Macon, Ga. Earlier, 14 persons were arrested after a clash between pickets and nonsympathizers there.

Wool Head Rejects Peace.

Gorman issued the call for the woolen and worsted strike after Arthur Besse, chairman of the wool code authority, in a caustic telegram from New York, rejected a union request for a conference.

The woolen and worsted tie-up will involve 350 plants, increasing to more than 1,500 the total number of mills affected by the two strike orders.

Besse informed Gorman his industry "can not appoint representatives to confer with your committee, especially in view of your announced intention to threaten coercion in the form of a strike." The code authority chairman insisted wages and employment conditions in his industry were above the average.

"If there are certain local and isolated instances where conditions should be improved," he added, "machinery has already been pro-

Foe Kills Head Of Closed Bank

A. P. Borger, for Whom Oil Town Was Named, Shot by Official.

Borger, Tex., Aug. 31 (AP).—A. P. Borger, president of the defunct Borger State Bank, was shot to death today in the Borger postoffice. Arthur Huey, county tax collector, walked out of the postoffice carrying two pistols, and said: "Call the sheriff."

"They kept on until they made a criminal out of me," police quoted Huey as saying as he was taken to the city jail.

Borger, for whom the mushroom oil town was named, was shot four times, once through the heart. A bystander, Lloyd Duncan, was wounded in the hip.

Miss Katherine Haidy, a witness to the shooting, was quoted by investigators as saying Borger was standing at his box getting his mail when she heard Huey command Borger, "Get your gun!"

"Borger dropped the mail and started backing away," she said. "Almost simultaneously eight shots rang out.

"Borger fell to the floor near the table. Huey then went over to him, partly raised him from the floor, and said, 'Well, I got you this time.'"

Officials reported Huey had sought to have Borger prosecuted in connection with the bank failure.

Bird Dog Saves Boy Attacked by Wasps

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 31 (AP).—Wasps hold no terror for "Cap," a bird dog, who today was credited with having saved his 4-year-old master, Joseph Smith, from serious injury.

One of a swarm of the insects alighted on the lad. He screamed. "Cap" rushed to the rescue, striking at the insect and the oncoming swarm. He got their attention while Joseph toddled into the house. He also got several stings on the nose.

Bar Censures Securities Act Of New Deal

S. M. Loftin, Jacksonville, Named New President of Association.

Milwaukee, Aug. 31 (AP).—The American Bar Association today closed its fifty-seventh convention with an assault on the New Deal.

Following routine of previous years the convention accepted the nominations offered by its general council, suspended all rules and unanimously elected Scott M. Loftin, of Jacksonville, Fla., president.

William P. MacCracken, jr., Washington, former Assistant Secretary of the Department of Commerce, was reelected secretary, and John H. Voorhees, Sioux City, S. Dak., was reelected treasurer.

Loftin, a corporation lawyer and legal head of the vast Flagler holdings, the largest combination of interests under single management in Florida, was a retiring vice president of the association.

A parting shot at the Washington Administration program came in the form of acceptance of a committee report on the securities act of 1933.

The report declared the act "rides rough-shod over legal principles" and "imposes drastic liabilities, in essence in terrorem, which are regarded by those made subject to them as unfair and unjustified."

This action followed on the heels of a decision to investigate the effects of the New Deal. The incoming president was instructed to name a committee to investigate and submit a report at the next convention.

The resolution calling for the inquiry asserted there has been "rapid development in recent months of novel legislation and governmental trends" which affect "the rights and liberties of the American citizens and our constitutional form of government."

Attacks on the New Deal and defense of Administration policies during the assembly somewhat overshadowed demands that the association be cleaned of dishonest practitioners, and that a relentless war on crime be waged.

The retiring president, Earle W.

Son of Utility Chief, 3 Others Flee Prison

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 31 (AP).—G. Gilbert Alton, 19, son of Ralph Alton, Uxbridge, Mass., utility executive, escaped with three other prisoners from the Buchanan County Jail tonight. Alton was held on a Federal motor car theft.

The prisoners slugged a jailer to make their escape, and fled in a motor car seized from a young couple on a street near the jail.

New Orleans Invaded by Long Troops; Two Seized

Governor Widens Rule by Force

Angered Citizens Meet in Protest on Street Corners.

New Orleans, Aug. 31 (AP).—Sweeping into the city with armed troops who used violence to clear a path, Senator Huey P. Long set out tonight under a proclamation of martial law to investigate his political enemies—the heads of the municipal government.

An automobile cavalcade with shrieking sirens brought the Senator from Baton Rouge, where Gov. O. K. Allen had issued an order calling the militia into active service to protect the legislative investigating committee.

Through the streets the cars sped. They roared along Audubon boulevard, where Long—the State's political dictator—has a palatial residence.

Two Newsmen Attacked.

In front of the house the soldiers saw Frank Allen, night city editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, and E. E. Agnelly, a photographer for the paper.

With drawn guns the troops charged the two men. They grabbed Angelly's camera, tore away some of his clothes and threw him into a truck.

Other troopers seized Allen. In 15 minutes they freed him with a warning for all newspapermen to "keep clear."

Agnelly was held for half an hour and then ordered to leave the neighborhood.

Long rushed into his home. Quickly a line of soldiers, armed with machine guns and rifles, was spread around it. Two boxes of ammunition and additional guns were carried into the house.

Walmsley Assails Tactics.

When informed of the incident near the Long residence, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, against whom Long is pointing his investigation, commented:

"It is a fine commentary for soldiers of the National Guard who have been instructed to preserve peace and order to enter a city by committing assault. What can the people expect under these circumstances?

"However, let me assure the people of this city that I will render every protection to our citizens, militia or no militia."

Members of the inquiry committee, approved by the Legislature early this month, met at a downtown hotel to await instructions from the "kingfish."

Long secluded himself. Before he left New Orleans, he said the investigation would start at once.

Citizens Voice Anger.

Crowds of citizens, learning of his dramatic arrival, gathered on street corners, and angry voices were raised until the entire city was in a state of excitement.

More National Guardsmen, some reports said, were to be brought here from other communities. Supplies of machine guns and am-

Capone's Miami Home Searched for Bandits

Miami, Fla., Aug. 31 (AP).—The island home here of Al Capone, imprisoned former Chicago gang leader, was searched last night by a squad of 18 Federal agents, police and deputy sheriffs, it was learned today.

The search followed reports that three men, reputedly living in the house, had boasted of coming from Brooklyn—scene of a $427,000 robbery last week—and displayed bundles of banknotes.

Russian Alien Sets Afire Picture Assailing Roosevelt

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 31 (AP).—The lampoon on the New Deal under President Roosevelt, drawn by the mysterious "Jere Miah II," was ruined today by an unnaturalized Russian who tossed naphtha, which burst into flames, on the painting.

"I did not like the idea of holding up the Roosevelt family to ridicule," said John Thompson, who was sentenced to six months in Westchester Penitentiary after his arrest for ruining the picture, which hung in the Westchester Institute of Fine Arts.

Thompson, who said he was 26 and lived in New York, declared his only reason for attacking the painting, entitled "Nightmare of 1934," was to efface the part which caricatured the President's wife.

The painting, which caused considerable comment and protest since the exhibit opened Monday, was badly damaged—particularly the parts depicting the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

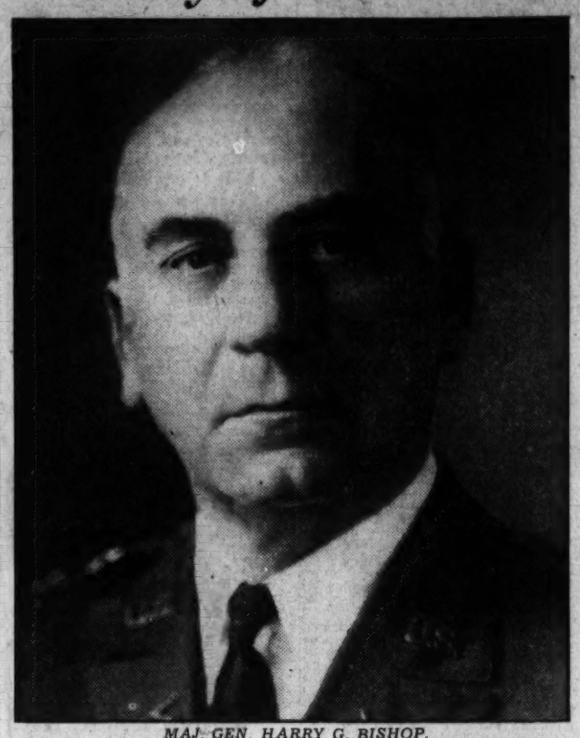
Thompson, police said, paid 25 cents admission to the exhibit, and after walking about for a few minutes suddenly took the bottle of naphtha from his pocket and tossed it at the picture.

The liquid burst into flames as it struck the painting in three places. As spectators shouted, gallery attendants lifted the blazing picture from the wall and threw it, face downward, on the carpet floor, smothering the flames.

Attendants grabbed Thompson, who later admitted he entered the country illegally when he jumped ship in New York nine years ago, and held him until police arrived. He was sentenced on a charge of malicious mischief.

The identity of "Jere Miah II" remains undisclosed. Officials of the gallery said the painting would not be rehung but that it would be returned to the painter.

Gen. Bishop a Suicide On Day of Retirement



MAJ. GEN. HARRY G. BISHOP.

Maj. Gen. Harry G. Bishop, 59, former chief of Field Artillery, U. S. A., shot himself to death at his home, 6314 Sixteenth street northwest, late yesterday. He had been retired from active service for disability only a few hours before.

Only Gen. Bishop, his wife and the maid were in the house at the time. Mrs. Bishop was asleep in a bedroom when she heard the report of a pistol.

She rushed to the sleeping porch and found Gen. Bishop slumped in his bathrobe in a chair, an Army service revolver at his side. The Former Saarlander Says He Was Offered Free Trip to Elections.

Hitler Combs U. S. in Quest Of Saar Votes

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—The German effort to regain the Saar Basin in the plebiscite to be held in January has reached across the Atlantic, it was learned today, and efforts are being made to send back to Europe all former residents of the disputed territory who are eligible to cast a vote.

Alfons Wens, secretary of the society of former Saarlanders, admitted that his organization was registering prospective voters. All persons who were of age when the Treaty of Versailles was signed and who at that time lived in the Saar are eligible, he said.

"And if they have the right to vote, why shouldn't they vote?" asked Wens.

Wens was reluctant to discuss the question of who would pay the steamship fare of the prospective voters and recompense them for lost time.

Wens said no former Saarlander in the United States would be asked how he would vote in the plebiscite, "but we suppose they will vote for Germany and not for France. We are Germans. We speak the German language."

At the German consulate general it was said all that was known about the matter was that former Saar residents were being registered by the society.

The Saar plebiscite was decreed under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, and it is to decide

Emergency Council Head Retained for 30 Days.

Hyde Park, Aug. 31 (AP).—President Roosevelt tonight reappointed Donald Richberg as chairman of the Emergency Council and of the Executive Council for a 30-day period. His original appointment expired tonight.

Richberg, who also is counsel of the NRA, was named temporarily to the council directorships last summer by the President upon retirement of Frank Walker.

Paroled Felon Finds Cell Beats Joblessness

Convicted of chicken stealing, May 12, 1933, and sentenced to one to two years imprisonment, he served time until paroled about three months ago. Unable to find work or get relief because he was a paroled prisoner, Dappen called State Probation Officer N. T. Harmon and asked if he could go back to his cell.

65,000 Jews Leave Germany, Nazi Report

Berlin, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Nazi press office said officially today that 65,000 German Jews had emigrated from Germany since January 30, 1933.

The office stated that 3,000 had gone to the United States, 21,000 to France, 10,000 to Palestine and 8,000 to Poland.

Ickes Studies Airship Base Near District

Akron Concern Would Buy U. S.-Owned Site on Mt. Vernon Highway.

A proposal of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. to establish an airship base on the Mount Vernon Memorial highway a short distance below Washington-Hoover airport was taken under consideration yesterday by Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

For two weeks the Akron (Ohio) corporation has been negotiating for the Government-owned site at Norton Point between the boulevard and the Potomac River, it was learned by The Post.

The plan is to erect a hangar which would accommodate small airships of the blimp type, build a suitable landing field and grade, landscape and beautify the entire operating area. Between $40,000 and $50,000 would be spent on preparing the site, giving employment to about 25 workmen.

It is proposed to use the Goodyear blimps which would be based there for sightseeing, advertising, aerial photography and such purposes. The concern points out that establishment of an airship base on the site would call the public's attention to the desirability of Gravelly Point as a municipal airport.

The location is part of the general chosen site for the projected Gravelly Point airport and indorsed by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. It was learned the commission, which probably will take up the matter formally at its September meeting, subscribes unofficially to the company's proposal chiefly because an airship base would demonstrate the area's aviation possibilities.

K. L. Fickes, assistant manager of airship operations for Goodyear, and who has been conducting preliminary negotiations with the office of National Capital Parks, also has

Consul in Manchukuo Is Expected to Act Today.

Harbin, Aug. 31 (U.P.).—U. S. consular action was expected today in an effort to locate two American motion picture officials, feared in the hands of bandits who wrecked the Harbin-Hsinking night express before dawn today and made off into the wilds of North Manchukuo with scores of victims.

The missing men are Robert L. Dana, Manchukuo representative of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Co., and John Johansen, Far Eastern manager for the same company. J. J. Russell, Tokyo manager, escaped.

The bandits, after robbing the passengers, were said to have abducted about 80 travelers, most of them Orientals.

Dying Woman to Say Farewell Over Radio

Pinckneyville, Ill., Aug. 31 (AP).—On her death bed in a hospital here, Isabelle Flowers, 26, believed fatally ill of tuberculosis, will broadcast what she considers her farewell message to friends by remote control over the Harrisburg, Ill., broadcasting station tomorrow afternoon.

Announcement of the unusual broadcast was made by the Rev. A. D. Vanhoose, pastor of the First Apostolic Church of Herrin.

U. S. Orders Bond Refund To End Cry Of Inflation

$1,724,700,000 Is Falling Due

Morgenthau Confers at Hyde Park With Roosevelt.

Steps to head off currency inflation rumors that have threatened to undermine the United States Government bond market were taken late yesterday in a Treasury statement announcing that the Government's $1,724,700,000 September and October maturities would be paid off with new securities.

The statement was calculated to set at rest rumors following Secretary Henry Morgenthau, jr.'s, speech earlier this week of impending new currency inflation through the paying off of Government maturities through a portion of the $2,800,000,000 gold devaluation "profits."

Falling due September 15 are $524,700,000 of 1½ per cent Treasury certificates of indebtedness and on October 15 are $1,200,000,000 of called Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ per cent bonds, a total of $1,724,700,000 in all.

The Treasury statement said these securities would be refunded with another issue of securities to be announced a week from Monday.

To Be Refunded.

Reports had been widely circulated that these maturities would be met out of the $2,800,000,000 gold "profits" which would have had currency inflation implications. Instead they are to be refunded with other securities "in the regular manner," thus blasting inflation talk.

News of the prospective refunding was revealed by Treasury officials on orders from Secretary Morgenthau who, with Undersecretary Thomas J. Coolidge, the Government's bond expert, discussed the financial situation at length with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park yesterday afternoon.

Final decision to carry out the refunding operation was believed reached at that meeting, but no explanation was given at the Treasury for the seemingly premature announcement of the prospective financing. It was believed, however, a surprise move to head off the rumors of impending inflation.

The domestic security market has been sensitive recently to inflation talk, with a tendency to depress prices.

Initial efforts toward the September-October refunding to give the Government the best prices obtainable were taken earlier this week in Morgenthau's speech in which he set the ultimate cost of the New Deal up to June 30, 1934, at only $505,000,000.

Little difficulty in refunding the September-October maturities is expected. As a matter of fact, it was believed the Government would be able to refinance the maturities at lower interest rates, thus

Gulf Storm Hits Coast of Mexico

Erratic Hurricane Strikes Below Brownsville.

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 31 (AP).—The desolate stretch of Mexican coastline between Soto la Marina and Jerez Point was struck this afternoon by a tropical storm—apparently the same disturbance that has been moving erratically about the Gulf of Mexico for several days.

A 50-mile wind was reported blowing between Tampico and the fishing village of Soto la Marina, which is 180 miles south of Brownsville.

The barometer at Tampico was reported down to 29.27.

Pastor's Daughter Shoots Banker Dead, Kills Herself

Morristown, Tenn., Aug. 31 (AP).—A woman of 29, described as "very pretty" and identified as a minister's daughter, walked into the Hamblen National Bank today, fatally wounded the president, Jess C. Shelton, 35, and then shot herself to death in his private office.

Shelton, who was unmarried, died within less than an hour, refusing to name his assailant.

The woman had registered at the Kingmeyer Hotel here Monday as Miss Mary Sam Bruce, of Nashville, but a note in her handbag gave her address as Lebanon, Tenn., and asked that her father, the Rev. W. J. Bruce, a Presbyterian minister, be notified.

The note indicated that a thwarted love affair was the cause of the double tragedy. She had told friends several years ago that she and Shelton were engaged.

"I loved Jess better than life," the note read. "He was fine and honorable in every respect, but life to me is meaningless without him. Please notify my father, Rev. W. J. Bruce, Lebanon, by telegram. Will you do it tactfully?"

Mayor J. E. Burke telephoned word of the tragedy to the Mayor of Lebanon, who informed the family. The minister was too upset to make any statement. His daughter, a school teacher, left a few days ago on a vacation and the family did not know her whereabouts.

Shelton was shot once near the heart. The girl died almost instantly from a pistol wound in her right temple.

Lebanon friends of Miss Bruce described her as a very beautiful brunette. In 1925 her beauty and popularity won her the title of college sponsor at Cumberland University. She had taught school for several years.

Miss Bruce and Shelton met in 1929 when she was teaching Latin in the high school at Chickamauga, Ga., just across the State line from Chattanooga, when he was cashier in a Chickamauga bank.

Douglas Quits; Bolts New Deal On Fiscal Policy

LEWIS DOUGLAS.

Refuses to Agree With Leftist Trend

Believes Outlays Give Too Little Work to Warrant Budget Peril.

Out of sympathy with New Deal financial policies, Lewis W. Douglas, Director of the Budget, has tendered his resignation to President Roosevelt, it was learned last night. It was accepted.

Mr. Douglas was a visitor Thursday at the summer White House in Hyde Park, N. Y. He is believed to have submitted his written resignation to the President during his half-hour conference then.

One of the prime reasons for Mr. Douglas' action was understood to be his belief that the securities act passed by Congress in the early days of the Roosevelt Administration was a check on recovery. He is said to have been chagrined because the act was not amended drastically at the last session.

Another contributing cause was Mr. Douglas' belief that huge public works outlays provided insufficient employment to warrant delay in balancing the budget.

Dislikes Leftist Trend.

The budget director is understood to have informed the President he disliked left wing tendencies of the Administration and felt the only alternative was for him to retire.

Observers recalled that Mr. Douglas, a conservative Democrat from Arizona, who relinquished his seat in the House to become budget director, was of great assistance to the President in obtaining passage of the economy bill soon after advent of the New Deal, despite the opposition of a strong veterans' lobby.

He was put out when Mr. Roosevelt subsequently compromised by relaxing the economy bill.

The youthful budget director was a familiar figure at the White House during the first year of the New Deal. For a time he attended the celebrated bedside conferences with the President at which many of the Administration's important policies were shaped.

Mr. Douglas has had comparatively few conferences with the President, however, since collapse of the London economic conference last fall. Nevertheless, he risked his political future by joining hands with those who urged Mr. Roosevelt to stabilize the dollar.

Known as the spearhead of the right wing within the Administration, Mr. Douglas remained in his Treasury post after his close friend, Dean Acheson, was removed as Under Secretary of the Treasury for opposing the gold purchase plan. He also stayed after Dr. O. M. W. Sprague resigned as Treasury financial adviser in protest against the same policy.

At that time the President made clear he would be glad to have Mr. Douglas continue in office so long as he confined his activities to handling budget affairs. Mr. Douglas was represented by his friends as feeling he could afford to remain if his own work were not repudiated.

It was considered significant, however, that Mr. Douglas was not at the President's side in January when he called in newspapermen and discussed the two-year budget plan.

Again at the close of the last Congress there were indications that the Administration's $1,000,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill was submitted to Congress without the approval of Mr. Douglas—perhaps without his knowledge.

Letter Irked Roosevelt.

Later the so-called "watchdog of the Treasury" wrote to Chairman James P. Buchanan of the House Appropriations Committee, sharply criticizing passage of such a measure because of its huge supplement to the Federal recovery fund. He demanded to know the source of the prospective outlays.

The Douglas communication found its way to the White House and is said to have irked the President. Although an open break between the President and Mr. Douglas apparently was averted through the intervention of a mutual friend, Senator James Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, Mr. Douglas obviously lost favor at the White House and has not been consulted since by the President.

Cost of NRA Codes Hits $15,091,891

Incomplete Total Omits Number of Largest Industries.

By Raymond Clapper.

The cost of administering NRA codes, which is borne directly by assessments against business houses, is mounting into big league figures, with increasing demands for deflation of these costs.

Annual budgets drawn by 105 code authorities and approved by NRA total $15,091,891, according to figures made available at recovery headquarters yesterday. This total is incomplete because it omits a number of the largest industries such as automobiles, cotton textiles, retail lumber, steel and hotels.

It would not be surprising, in the opinion of some informed persons, if the cost of supporting code authorities does not exceed $20,000,000 a year. Figures now available cover only 105 codes out of 514 that have been approved by NRA.

Expenses of code authorities have been a subject of controversy for months. In the early stages business men complained of excessive salaries which code authorities were drawing and of heavy expense items, all of which were reflected in assessments passed on to firms operating under the various codes. Complaints became so vigorous that NRA finally ruled that all budgets of code authorities must be filed and approved by NRA.

Of the code budgets approved thus far, that of the general contracting industry is the largest, amounting to $2,750,200.

Only a few days ago NRA issued a ruling relieving small business concerns from having to pay more than one code assessment. Firms operating under several codes were harassed by all of their code authorities seeking to collect assessments. Under the new order they will contribute only to the code

Girl, 15, Ordered Held In Slaying of Parents

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP).—A coroner's jury which heard Anna Maietta, 15, tell how she came to kill her parents while attempting to end a family fight, today recommended that the girl be held on a charge of murder.

"I meant to kill my father," the girl calmly told the jurors. A few minutes later the witness went into wild hysteria, shouting pleadingly for the mother she also killed while trying to save her from a beating.

Motor Trouble Balks New Endurance Flight

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP).—Jean La Rene and Mary Owens, Texas girls who hope to set a new women's endurance flight record, were forestalled in their third assault upon the record by minor motor trouble tonight as they were tuning up their motor preparatory to a take-off.

They said they expect to go up tomorrow.

150,000 More Workers Told To Join Strike

Addition of Wool Mills Brings Walkout Total to 610,000.

"I further regard your suggestion for a joint conference as impractical and inadvisable because individual mills should not be asked to delegate to any committee their responsibility for dealing with properly accredited representatives of their own employes.

"It is obviously impossible to force into any such conference those mills where few if any of the employes belong to the United Textile Workers and likewise impossible for any committee such as suggested either to represent a particular group of mills or to presume to speak for the entire industry in a matter of this kind."

Told of reports that a Southern worker has been struck by a blackjack wielded by a policeman, Gorman frowned and observed:

"We'll have a lot of that opposition to fight. Most of it will be brought on by the employers with their detectives and hired thugs. We're not only going to have to fight employers, but Communists. They are going to take advantage of this situation to advance their philosophy."

Army Discipline for Unions.

In anticipation of disorder, Gorman announced, all union lodges have been instructed to form squads of ten, each squad under a captain.

"Our purpose," he said, "is to bring about the highest possible degree of organized responsibility. We know perfectly well the tactics that will be tried by reactionary mill owners who cling to the old ways.

"We want to have some designated person responsible for the conduct of every member of our organization so that there can be instant response to necessary orders and so that there can be disciplined restraint in the face of provocation."

The Macon train halting episode, one of the first disturbances reported, occurred at the plant of the Bibb Manufacturing Co. Associated Press dispatches said the crowd mased in front of the locomotive and refused to move.

Gorman cited the Bibb concern as a "flagrant example" of how many companies "pay low wages and yet manage to pile up big profits." He charged the firm had paid six stock dividends in 11 years.

"The man who originally held 100 shares of their stock," he said, "now has 1,600 shares."

About half a dozen union lodges in scattered localities, Gorman disclosed, already have been authorized to strike without awaiting the appointed hour "because some manufacturers are intimidating their workers into taking strike votes within the plants."

Charles E. Green, commander of the New Hampshire American Legion, assailed Communists for planning demonstrations and announced his organization would aid local authorities in maintaining order.

More than 15,000 persons are expected to hear Gorman outline the union's case in a speech tomorrow at Charlotte, N. C. He will return to Washington in time to confer Tuesday with Peter Van Horn, chairman of the silk code authority. The outcome of that meeting will decide whether the silk workers shall be called out.

A statement by Gov. Blackwood, of South Carolina, that the union could not expect to win the strike, drew a sharp telegraphic reply from Gorman.

"You are quoted," Gorman wired the Governor, "as expressing opinion strike can not be won after receiving petition signed by 557 Arcadian cotton mill employes.

"You must know petitions signed in mills and votes taken in mills under employer domination are worthless and done under duress.

"The strike itself will be proper answer to fake petitions and ballots. We are glad you do not question right to strike and must ask you to suspend judgment as to wisdom of strike until you inform yourself about the terrible lengths to which the stretch-out has increased the machine load per employe in your State and generally, and the uncompromising refusal of most of your State's mill owners to abide by guarantees of Section 7 (a) of recovery act (the collective bargaining clause)."

Gorman added the average wage of mill workers in South Carolina stood at less than $10 a week.

"You fear a strike will hurt trade," Gorman protested, "but let us say the poverty wage has prior guilt in hurting trade whereas achievement of our goal will revive trade on permanent basis, bringing benefit to all merchants and to manufacturers in other lines * * *

"We have sought every available means of maintaining peace, but we have been met by an unbelievably arrogant attitude on the part of an industry that has lived and grown through the years on exploitation and on the labor of children."

Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for President, was among numerous persons offering support to Gorman.

"Textile workers," he wired from New York, "have been patient under abuses of stretch-out, 'chiseling' under the codes, low wages and blacklist of active unionists. Your victory will both help yourselves and check effort of tyrannical capitalism to establish itself more firmly under banner of codes. Shall be glad to help."

Jury Urges Boy, 16, Face Murder Charge

Morris, Ill., Aug. 31 (AP).—A coroner's jury today recommended that Stephen Maracek, 16, who yesterday shot and killed his guardian, Herman Doerris, 40, be charged with murder. Maracek was being held in the Kendall County jail.

The youth, who was taken into the Doerris home about a year ago, after he had been deserted by his father, shot Doerris after the latter had asked to read a letter Maracek received from his brother.

Georgia Textile Workers Strike in Advance

English-Born Spinner to Lead 600,000 in Textile Walkout

"Sure, We'll Win," Says Francis J. Gorman Before Strike.

At 11:30 o'clock tonight Francis J. Gorman becomes sole arbiter of the destiny of enough people to make up a city the size of Buffalo, N. Y.

These people have voted to make him their dictator. It is not a compact empire over which he holds sway, for his subjects are scattered from New England to South Carolina—Lawrence, Pawtucket, Danville, Marion and all other towns where the spindles whir and cloth rolls off the looms like a gray glacier.

Gorman is chairman of the special strike committee of the United Textile Workers. A man whose first glimpse of the world was of the lazy roll of the Yorkshire Hills in England hands down marching orders to 600,000 Americans.

At the age of 13 he was aboard ship, straining his eyes for the rocky shore of America, where other Yorkshiremen landed years before in a ship called the Mayflower. Gorman has travelled far in time and space since the day his parents landed in Rhode Island and he trudged off to a job in the mills. Now he sits in a piano-box room at Tenth and K streets with power to tell men and women when to work and where; power to call them away from their livelihood on the strength of nothing but his word that everything will be all right; power to tell them to fight and even die, if necessary.

Forty-four years of life have brushed gray into Gorman's hair, but his eyes are as quick as those of a youth of 18. So is his tongue. Yorkshire is still in his speech as it clatters out of the corner of his mouth and somehow gets past the cigarette that usually hangs on his lips.

Strikes are an old story to him. He was at Marion, N. C., where violence flamed in the 1930 strike, and when he thinks of it he rubs his head.

"Bricks bounced right off of it," he says.

For 20 years Gorman stood at the looms in Rhode Island before his ready tongue talked him into bigger things. Somewhere and somehow—he can't explain it himself—he picked up the vocabulary of a college graduate and the platform ease of a polished orator. His speeches are models of concise English, every sentence parses and he never fumbles for a word.

Twelve years ago he became an organizer for the United Textile Workers. He led strikes in Lawrence, Mass., and Pawtucket, R. I. He calls textile workers in Danville, Va., by their first names. They call him "Frank."

Tonight he starts his biggest job. Were there any before-the-battle statements?

"Sure," he said. "We'll win."

Riot Precedes Cotton Strike At Macon Mill

Pickets Hold Up Freight Cars; Score Arrested, Several Hurt.

Macon, Ga., Aug. 31 (AP).—The Macon mill district enacted a disorderly prelude to the general strike called for Saturday night by the United Textile Workers and then closed all plants today for the Labor Day holiday with more than a score of strikers under arrest and several minor casualties reported.

Most of the day was marked by disturbances, and shortly before the Payne mill of the Bibb Manufacturing Co. began its holiday this afternoon a group of from 40 to 50 pickets, many of them women, crowded onto railroad tracks at the plant and held up a switch train for more than an hour.

The pickets sat on the rails and refused to move out of the way of the switch engine which sought to move several cars of finished products from the mill. County officers were forced to take some of the pickets forcibly from the path of the train.

It was at the Payne Mill yesterday that pickets clashed with workers attempting to enter the gates and a woman was said to have been struck on the arm with a blackjack. As shifts chnged early this morning strikers around the gates taunted the 50-odd workers who went to their places.

A scuffle occurred at the Bibb No. 2 plant when a group of strikers blocked nonsympathizers from entering, but police quickly quelled the disorder. A heavy guard was maintained at all mills this afternoon until after the pay-off of workers.

Pickets around the mills laid down their clubs this afternoon—most had been armed with homemade bludgeons—when Sheriff James R. Hicks, jr., told them such weapons might be the cause of serious trouble.

There was picketing, but little of aggressive nature, at Bibb Mill No. 1 today and the majority of the workers were at their places, officials reported. At Payne Mill, the situation was more tense, however, and some of the workers, several of them Negroes, were escorted into the plant by officers.

Paris Wants Faster War Planes to Avert Disaster From Air

Paris, Aug. 31 (AP).—An invading air fleet would wipe Paris off the map unless France gets faster fighting planes, the French air staff believed tonight.

Officials said the four-day aerial maneuvers ending today showed conclusively that the capital, with present effectives, could not be defended from air raiders and emphasized sharply the urgent need for speedier aircraft.

A force of rebuilt pursuit planes failed to match the speed of heavily loaded bombers, comprising the "attacking fleet," the average speed of which was 140 miles an hour.

The maneuvers revealed that the fleet had only two swift pursuit planes capable of 235 miles per hour, which, it was said, will be the prototypes for future equipment.

The fleet of 120 observation planes, which average nearly 200 miles an hour, showed efficiency in spotting the "invading" bombers, but were helpless to prevent the attacks on Le Bourget Flying Field and Paris which, theoretically, were destroyed.

Full Operation Is Expected in Virginia Mills

Employers' Spokesman Says Union Strike Call Will Be Ineffective.

Richmond, Aug. 31 (AP).—Frank Louthan, secretary of the Virginia Manufacturers Association and the spokesman for the State's larger industrialists, today envisaged Virginia as an island of textile activity in the midst of the general cotton mill strike which begins officially at 11:30 tomorrow night.

Between 8,000 and 10,000 Virginia workers might come under the scope of the general strike call, Louthan said, but a walk-out was not expected in any Virginia textile plant.

Only the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills, Inc., at Danville, are immediately affected under the present strike call, he said, and workers there were not thought to be strongly unionized.

Other Possible Centers.

Other plants which might be included are George Brasfield Co., Petersburg; Consolidated Textile Corporation, Lynchburg; Halifax Cotton Mills, South Boston; Marshall Field & Co., Fieldale; Martinsville Cotton Mills Co., Martinsville; Virginia Textile Mills, Inc., North Emporia, and Washington Mills, Fries.

Louthan said that his pre-strike information was that in none of these plants was there a strong union organization and workers in none of them were expected to quit.

Louthan's forecast of Virginia textile conditions under general strike conditions in the industry was similar to that of Gov. George C. Peery, who said yesterday that no trouble was expected at Danville or other Virginia centers.

Rayon Mills Unionized.

Unionization is stronger in rayon and other textile mills than in the cotton yarn and cloth industry, it was admitted.

Should the strike call be extended to include the rayon plants and knit goods factories a long list of plants here might be tied up.

Most strongly unionized is believed to be the Viscose Corporation of Virginia, at Roanoke. It manufactures rayon yarn. Other rayon plants include Du Pont units at Richmond and Waynesboro and the Industrial Rayon Corporation of Virginia at Covington.

Mills at Charlottesville, Buena Vista, Orange, Rocky Mount, Martinsville, Altavista, Culpeper, Blackstone, Danville, Edinburg, Fredericksburg, Grottoes, Norfolk, Covington, Waynesboro, Harrisonburg and Lynchburg would be affected if the strike call is enlarged to include silk and rayon goods.

U. S. to Open Tannery At Springfield, Mo.

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 31 (AP).—A Government tannery will start operations in Springfield in about ten days. J. Warden Sanders, work relief projects director for the FERA here, said today.

An old tannery has been leased for a year; machinery has been ordered, and other equipment is under construction by relief workers in the FERA shops. About 50 men will be employed.

Harriman Opposes U. S. Relief Being Given Striking Workers

Chamber Leader Flails Suggested Aid; Labor Hit in Walk-out.

Sharp criticism of suggestions that the Government support textile workers expected to strike tonight was voiced yesterday by Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

He charged the walk-out order amounted to "repudiation" of NRA code provisions and upbraided the union for failing to accept mediation offers of the Textile Industrial Relations Board.

"The textile controversy," Harriman commented, "has brought to a focus fundamental questions as to governmental methods of administering relief.

"Federal appropriations for unemployment relief are intended to provide for the care of persons in distress because of loss of employment and inability to find other work. But the Federal Relief Administration has refused to distinguish between those who are out of work without their own volition and those who are out of work of their own free will, through strike.

Should Investigate First.

"It has been suggested by the Relief Administration that relief should not be afforded strikers if the Department of Labor or the new Federal Labor Relations Board found that the strike was not justifiable.

"I submit that, in the first place, there is no authority for any Federal agency to say whether a strike is justifiable or not and that if there were it would be impossible for any branch of the Government to reach a fair decision concerning the merits of such a complicated issue without full time for a careful study and I should certainly doubt the propriety of any agency passing upon such a problem * * * without legal authority."

In any event, Harriman added, there is no reason why Federal agencies should "support" persons who refuse to accept the mediation of another agency set up for that purpose."

Hails Code Achievements.

Harriman declared accomplishments of the cotton textile code were "remarkable." He said the pact reduced working hours from an average of 54 a week to a maximum of 40, brought wage increases of approximately 70 per cent, caused reemployment of more than 100,000 workers and abolished child labor.

"The textile union strike committee," he protested, "has ignored the findings of NRA and has refused to accept the mediation services of the Industrial Relations Board of the cotton industry.

"Labor does not need to strike to eliminate improper working conditions or to secure improvement in terms of employment that may be warranted, under current business conditions. Announcement of an intention to strike means repudiation of the provisions of the code inserted to protect the interests of labor."

Harriman objected the strike would constitute a serious threat to peaceful settlement of other disputes between employers and labor "under the orderly processes set up by NRA."

Guns of Long Take Command In New Orleans

munition were trundled into Jackson barracks during the day.

Troops have been quartered in the barracks since the Governor's original proclamation ordering them to hold the city registration office, center of the fight between Long forces and Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

Text of Governor's Order.

This afternoon the Governor ordered:

"I hereby call the militia or such parts thereof as may be necessary into active service to protect the committee appointed by the legislature at the extra session of 1934 to investigate into and examine the administration and conduct of the city of New Orleans and the courts sitting in said city.

"This protection to be extended to the members of the said committee, their counsel, witnesses, employes and agents whether in actual session or otherwise at all hours of the day or night.

"To place a commanding officer in supreme command and to call into active service such troops of the militia as may be necessary."

Senator Long at Baton Rouge declared he would have Mayor Walmsley out of office in 30 days. There are enough witnesses, he said, to convict the whole city administration of misconduct in office because of alleged associations with the underworld.

Mayor Quietly at Work.

Meanwhile the Mayor quietly kept at work in city hall. During the morning he presided at a council meeting which drew up an ordinance making it illegal for anyone to be accompanied by an armed bodyguard.

The ordinance—it was no secret the move was aimed at Long—will come up next week for action.

Some city officials have asserted they will not submit to an investigation of their personal affairs. Such an inquiry, they insist, invades their rights as American citizens.

Although Mayor Walmsley and his organization some time ago swore in 500 special policemen, these officers have not seen a great deal of active duty in recent days. The Mayor has 1,500 armed policemen to use in the event of a clash with the militia.

Registrar's Records Seized.

Shortly after the Governor first proclaimed martial law the troops broke into the city registrar's office and seized the records. Long said the action wa staken to prevent stuffing the roll for the election of September 11 with bogus names.

The mayor, on the other hand, asserted the books were seized so Long could strike out names of persons he knew would vote against his ticket.

In New Orleans the Long slate carries two candidates for United States Representative, a judge and a member of the State Public Service Commission.

The legislators on the investigation committee were picked by State officials friendly to the Senator. ne member, Senator F. E. Delahoussave, commented:

"The resolution (setting up the committee) gives up the right to conduct an open or secret investigation. We never have stopped investigating since the resolution was passed."

Gen. Blatchford, 75, Dies in California

Soldier Served in France Under Pershing.

San Francisco, Aug. 31 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Richard M. Blatchford, 75, retired, died today.

Gen. Blatchford served under Gen. John J. Pershing in France and later was commanding officer of Camp Lewis in Washington.

Gen. Blatchford was born in New York, August 17, 1859. He was named a second lieutenant of infantry October 10, 1893. In May, 1917, he was named a brigadier general. He retired from the Army as a major general in December, 1922, having reached the statutory age limit. Gen. Blatchford was a graduate of the Infantry and Cavalry School and the Army War College.

Sinclair to Use Rental Plan First

California Reformer Says Seizure Report Faulty.

Ash Fork, Ariz., Aug. 31 (AP).—Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee for Governor of California, said today the rental method of acquiring land and factories for his "end poverty" plan would be preferred in the event of his election in November. Sinclair is en route to New York and Washington to see President Roosevelt nad Federal relief officials.

Although his official campaign literature stated directly the plan involved the taking over of idle land and factories by the State under eminent domain for the benefit of the unemployed, Sinclair said the term "seizure by condemnation proceedings" in published reports was inaccurate.

"We plan purchase or rental," he said today, "the latter method being preferred at the outset to avoid delay."

Former Convict Slain In Fight With Police

Tabor, Iowa, Aug. 31 (AP).—A man found shot to death in an abandoned car today was identified through fingerprints as Henry Cross, 29, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, a former convict.

Glen Craven, Burlington Railroad agent, said Cross was the man he killed in a gunfight at Payne, Iowa, yesterday when he surprised a gang of boxcar thieves.

Mortgage Plan Revised by FHA

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Housing Administration told home owners yesterday it had arranged for them to obtain repair loans from so-called mortgage institutions without having to fear foreclosure of their mortgages put up as security.

The move was designed to open up the facilities of institutions whose charters under State laws restrict their lending on mortgage securities. Under the plan, the FHA will permit the institution to take a mortgage—to satisfy that technicality—and will insure the note, but in case of default promises not to look to the mortgage for reimbursement, require foreclosure or assign the mortgage in case of claim for loss.

"Through this method," the FHA explained, "the mortgage is relegated from its place as principal security to one of security in legal form only."

Reserve Board Sets 25-45% Stock Margin

(Associated Press.)

An intention by the Federal Reserve Board to supervise with microscopic minuteness the margin operations of brokers and stock traders was revealed yesterday in a copy of the board's preliminary draft of regulations.

The draft contents itself with stating actual margin requirements as cited in the securities exchange act. These provide for extension of credit to traders of from between 55 and 75 per cent of stock prices. That is, margin requirements would range between 25 and 45 per cent.

These figures, however, were said by an official to be tentative. Contrary to previous reports, they may be changed, or made more detailed to cover margins for various price groups of stocks. That is, for instance, margins for stocks selling under $10 may be stiffened by the board.

The draft itself, entitled "Regulation T, Series of 1934—Extension and maintenance of Credit by Brokers, Dealers and Members of Securities Exchanges," is in such detail it is being vigorously criticized by brokers.

Brokers are instructed to obtain the margin required for the initial extension of credit before the close of business the second day following the execution of the transaction. However, if the customer can not be reached in case of difficulty, the Federal Reserve agent or any assistant agent may extend this time an unstated number of days in such "exceptional cases."

The amount of credit which shall be deemed to be outstanding at any given time after the original sale of purchase, "shall be deemed to be the adjusted credit balance."

Balance Further Defined.

This balance is further defined to mean that if the customer is short, the balance is the current market value of the securities plus the margin requirements of the exchange or the broker.

If the account contains future commitments in commodities or foreign exchange or unissued securities, the balance must also include at least the margin requirements of the exchange or brokers.

To this must be added any amount to be paid for securities bought for the customer but not yet paid for by broker; and minus any amount to be received for securities sold for the customer for which payment has not been received by the broker.

To this is added the net debit balance of the account, or the net credit balance is subtracted.

Market Value Is Limit.

Brokers may not lend in excess of the current market value of exempted securities. Money may not be withdrawn by customers from undermargined accounts, nor may securities be withdrawn or substituted.

Neither may an undermargined customer buy securities except for equal substitutions, or to cover a short sale, without providing additional margin. Short sales in an undermargined account are banned.

GarmentGroup Pay Increased

Code Chiefs Also Grant Cut in Hours to Infant's Wear Workers.

The code authority for the infant's wear industry last night announced it would approve a 10 per cent wage increase and a reduction in working hours from 40 to 36 for the 50,000 employes in the industry. The new scale would become effective October 15.

The action follows signature by President Roosevelt of code modifications for the cotton garment workers who on October 1 will go on the shorter hour, increased wage basis.

Ultimately, recovery Administration officials said, more than 1,500,000 employes in related industries will come under the same scale. Among others they named fur manufacturing and dressing, millinery, bituminous coal, undergarments and negligee, men's clothing, women's clothing and pasted shoe stocks.

Yesterday's action grew out of lengthy conferences among industry officials and Sol A. Rosenblatt, division administrator, who said other code changes are under way.

Germans Comb U.S. For Saar Voters

whether the territory, rich in coal and ore, shall be returned to Germany or go to France.

Since Adolf Hitler came into power his Nazis have waged a determined campaign to assure a German victory in the plebiscite.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 31 (AP).—Eduard Marburger, who left the Saar basin seven years ago to seek a home in America, said today a German organization offered him a free round-trip to the region if he would vote for the Saar's return to Germany at the January 13 plebiscite.

Marburger, however, said that he would not accept the offer.

"I have no interest in that now," said the 31-year-old brewer. "I'm not going to do anything that might endanger my citizenship."

The offers of free transportation to the Saar and back have been coming for more than a month from the Verein der Saarlaender, with headquarters in New York City, Marburger said. The letters, he added, did not say whether the club is a Nazi organization, but they contained patriotic appeals.

Suspect in Roosevelt Threat

Benjamin Franklin Varn (in felt hat), held in the Roosevelt kidnap threat case, on his way to court with a police official yesterday after he was taken into custody on a charge of violating the Lindbergh law by sending a letter threatening to harm President Roosevelt and kidnap his grandchildren.

Roosevelt 'Extortionist' Tells Weird Tale, Goes to Bellevue

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—Benjamin Varn, the writer of a clumsy letter threatening harm to President Roosevelt and his grandchildren, was committed to Bellevue Hospital for observation today by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey.

Varn was arraigned before Judge Caffey under the Lindbergh kidnaping law, and was ordered held under $25,000 bail.

Judge Caffey was told by Assistant United States Attorney Joseph E. Brill that Varn had attributed inspiration for the letter to one "Svengali," whom he had met in Central Park.

Varn was quoted by the prosecutor as saying Svengali had "come right up through the stone floor into my room a night or two ago and said the letter must be written at once." Svengali, Varn told Brill, "was dressed in black, with a sort of veil," and threatened bodily harm as the penalty for not writing the letter.

The letter was addressed to Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House. It said that unless she paid $168,000, "Buzzie" and "Sistie" Dall, children of the President's daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and the baby of Elliott Roosevelt would be kidnaped, and that injury would be inflicted on the President.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt never saw the letter, but Secret Service men did, and they started an investigation that led to Varn's arrest last night.

The letter writer included in the kidnap note a telephone number by which he could be reached.

Scores Freed In Rum Cases Now Face Jail

Terms Will Be Finished if U. S. Appeal Is Successful.

Hundreds of liquor law violators, freed from prison following repeal of the eighteenth amendment, may have to return to jail to conclude their sentences, if an appeal taken by United States Attorney Leslie C. Garnett in the case of Jack O'Hearne is successful.

Garnett, through his chief assistant, Harry L. Underwood, yesterday filed in the District Court of Appeals a request that the release of O'Hearne be reviewed. O'Hearne was released by Justice Daniel W O'Donoghue, of the District Supreme Court, several months ago when he filed a writ of habeas corpus alleging he was being detained illegally.

Justice O'Donoghue held that the overwhelming vote for repeal was a mandate from the voters and he directed the release, not only of O'Hearne but of many others who were "doing time" for violating the Volstead law.

O'Hearne was sentenced to ten months and fined $1,000 for contempt of the District Supreme Court. He had been enjoined by the court from violating the liquor law, and when he was apprehended in an alleged violation after the issuance of the injunction, he was tried before Justice Jennings Bailey and found guilty.

After serving part of his sentence, O'Hearne applied for release on the ground that the repeal amendment acted as a "pardon" for him. After a brief hearing, Justice O'Donoghue agreed and released him not only from the imprisonment but the fine also.

In asking a review, the Government alleged that "the twenty-first amendment is not retroactive, but prospective. Immediately upon its ratification no further powers could be exercised which were dependent solely upon authority given by the eighteenth amendment or the National prohibition law, but it did not make innocent past acts which were crimes when committed, nor pardon those who had committed them, but merely made acts of such character noncriminal in the future."

"The twenty-first amendment has no retroactive application and does not affect a judgment which had become final prior to its effective date," it was declared.

Vienna Citizens To Name Most Popular Girl

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 126-J.

A popularity contest will be the principal attraction of the community night celebration to be held tonight by the Parent-Teacher Association, of Vienna, Va., on the school lawn. The contest is under direction of Mrs. Nancy Faulkner, chairman; Mrs. George Manvel, Mrs. W. W. Louck, Mrs. L. E. Wright and Mrs. Chester Denham.

Votes will be cast for the most popular young woman of the community. Candidates include Miss Dorothy King, Miss Polly Reid, Miss Dorothy Bingham, Miss Ann Stuntz and Miss Renna Manvel.

The guest of honor will be Edgar T. Bennett, who assumes the office of Mayor today.

The Ladies Aid Society, of the Herndon Baptist Church will have an ice cream festival this evening on the porch of the Herndon Hotel. The committee in charge includes Mrs. William Kephart, chairman; Mrs. Edgar E. Gillette and Mrs. Russell A. Lynn assisting.

The Lee District Improvement Association of Fairfax County, Va., meeting in the community hall at Burke, unanimously indorsed the plan for a large Federal game preserve and public park in Lee and Mount Vernon magisterial districts along Accotink Creek. The property, owned by Frank Gillingham and former United States Senator Joseph L. Bristow is east of the Southern Railway tracks and west of Rolling road and contains several thousand acres.

Senator Bristow told the association the Government might establish such a project in Maryland or Virginia in a heavily wooded section not too far from Washington. He also suggested a CCC camp in that section of Fairfax County for building roads through the dense woods as an aid in forest fire fighting.

Dr. A. L. Carson, health director of Fairfax County, has announced that 25 adults and 55 children of the county were given an X-ray examination during the tuberculosis clinic held in the count courthouse under auspices of the local tuberculosis association, the State and county health departments.

Five were found to have positive and 26 suspected cases of tuberculosis.

The examinations were conducted by Dr. Charles Savage, of the State health department, assisted by Mrs. Fannie Lou Seamons, county health nurse, and Mrs. Nina Moore, assistant county nurse.

Election of Robert L. Inske, of Lorton, Fairfax County, as commander of the American Legion, Department of Virginia, is virtually assured at the State convention in Lynchburg, Va., tomorrow.

Inske has long been active in legion affairs throughout the State and particularly in northern Virginia. He served as State vice commander in 1932-33, and this year was chairman of the State membership committee. He is a member of Buck Keys Post, Quantico, Va.

Strong Protest Provoked.

Originally the trucking code authority sought a budget of $3,000,000, provoking strong protest from truck owners. NRA finally approved an annual expenditure of $1,714,158, to be raised by charging owners trucking for hire an assessment of $3 per vehicle. Indignant truck owners appeared before NRA, declaring the proposed assessment was like the head tax of the Caesars.

Vigorous protests were raised in a number of other industries, including the retail solid fuel groups.

Assessment plans vary. The bottled soft drink industry charges its members $2.50 an employe per year with a minimum charge of $10. Other businesses charge a percentage on sales, usually one-half of 1 per cent or less. The hotel code authority levies 15 cents per room on its member hotels, plus local code authority charges, which may not exceed 50 cents a room. Food and grocery dealers must pay $1 an employe. The wide variation in the costs, indicating efficient management by some code authorities and free and easy salaries and expense accounts in others, may lead to overhauling of the code charges when NRA finishes its reorganization turmoil and is able again to concentrate on details.

Hope Diamond Foments Hate, Mrs. McLean Finds in Russia

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—Russia—"poor, dismal Russia"—was given a thrill with an eyeful of the famous Hope diamond, Mrs. Edward B. McLean, its possessor, reported today upon her arrival in New York aboard the liner Berengaria.

"There can be no surprise after me," she stated, dangling a diamond-studded purse from its diamond loop.

Reporters blinked at the dazzling display, augmented by several diamond bracelets and a cigarette case liberally set with diamonds.

The wife of the former Washington publisher said she was warned not to wear her jewels while in Russia. But out of curiosity one night, she asserted, she arrayed herself in all her jewels, including the Hope diamond, which is supposed to bring misfortune to its wearers. Then she made a round of night clubs in Moscow.

"I wanted to see what the reaction would be to a woman wearing jewelry, and, while it was a bit bloodcurdling, I went throug it," she said.

"There was no envy of the gems in the eyes of those who observed my jewelry. There was only hate.

"I seemed to revive for them the memory of old Russia, and often during that interesting evening in Moscow, I could almost feel the blade of the guillotine at my throat.

"They hated me. That was obvious. I stood for all that women who wear jewels represented. Yet they were fascinated.

"I have a passion for jewelry. Every one knows it. I make no defense about it. From my viewpoint I was doing nothing more than what I would do in any country I visited.

"I was particularly interested in wearing the Hope diamond because it had formerly been a jewel in the possession of Catherine the Great. This was the first time it has been in Russia since it escaped her possession."

Mrs. McLean said she was watched constantly by two special Soviet police when she refused to put away her jewelry.

Mrs. McLean was accompanied by her son, E. L. W. McLean, and her daughter, Eleanor.

King Faces 4 Foes In Utah Convention

National Committeeman Also Fights to Keep Office.

Provo, Utah, Aug. 31 (AP).—Senator William H. King and Orman W. Ewing, Democratic National committeeman from Utah, go into the Democratic State convention here tomorrow to fight for retention of their offices.

Senator King faces four opponents for the nomination to the seat he has held 18 years. Other aspirants are William R. Wallace, Herbert B. Maw, Hugh B. Brown and Ora Bundy.

Ewing denies the authority of the State convention to unseat him. He has been at odds with many of the Utah party leaders for years and the convention call included the election of a new National committeeman.

Baruch Joins Fight For Fortune in Oil

Financier Seeks Part of $50,000,000 Stocks.

Los Angeles, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Times says Bernard Baruch, Wall street operator and unofficial advisor to the Roosevelt Administration, has associated himself with pending litigation to recover a $50,000,000 fortune in petroleum lands in the Kettleman Hills of central California, scene of many a stirring account of over-night riches.

Baruch, the newspaper says, is a former stockholder in the Medallion Oil Co.

The Medallion Oil Co. has filed suit against the General Petroleum Corporation, controlled by the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co.; the Continental Oil Co., controlled by J. P. Morgan, and the three widows of Washington Henry Ochsner, once head of the Stanford University geological department.

Support of Collins Given to Stephens

Latest Returns Show Bilbo Second by 600 Votes.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 31 (AP).—The first major development in Mississippi's Democratic senatorial runoff campaign between former Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo and Senator Hubert D. Stephens was recorded today when Representative Ross A. Collins, of Meridian, defeated in Tuesday's balloting, swung his support to the incumbent.

Coming as the run-off candidates were preparing to launch their respective drives for the nomination, which will be determined September 18, Collins' announcement blasted hopes of Bilbo followers that the defeated candidate would remain neutral.

Latest unofficial figures showed Stephens leading Bilbo by slightly more than 600 votes, with Collins trailing by approximately 20,000.

Dry Gain Seen As Wet Groups Abandon Work

Militant Anti-Prohibition Societies No Longer Operating.

By Robert C. Albright.

Retreat of the wets from militant agitation of the liquor issue following repeal has left the moist cause without a single National continuing organization in the field, a survey here indicated yesterday.

As drys campaigned for a comeback in nine States voting on the issue this fall, the bristling bulwark of antiprohibition societies, grown up overnight to promote repeal, had dwindled to the vanishing point.

Ever-exuberant drys and few disappointed wets forecast a long swing of the pendulum back toward prohibition, pointing to local option gains, a large dry vote in South Carolina and dry victories in Mississippi and North Dakota.

Have Ceased Work.

A check of the once-imposing file of powerful antiprohibition societies indicated that virtually all folded their tents once repeal was achieved. On the list of such organizations now inactive were the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers, the Moderation League, the Congressional District Modification League, the League for Modification of the Volstead Act and a host of lesser local units.

With most of its local battalions disbanded, the once mighty Crusaders, which played a leading role in the knifing of prohibition, still cling in precarious existence, but with its old liquor standard long since hauled to the ground.

Lacking a wet issue, the organization since repeal successively has gone on record against high taxes, crime, kidnaping and in opposition to importation of liquor from defaulting nations. Fred G. Clark, who continues as National commander, about a month ago hit on an idea for an organization nebulously similar to the American Liberty League, later organized by Jouett Shouse.

Repeal Associates Operate.

When the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment disbanded, its founder, Capt. William G. Stayton, organized the Repeal Associates, a statistical and fact-finding agency which supplies information on various State laws, that is still functioning.

The mushroom growth of local wet organizations, which at one time reached an estimated total of nearly 1,000 units, has vanished. These included such organizations as the Cork Poppers Legion, and the Camels, of Oklahoma, organized "to laugh prohibition out of existence."

Nowhere could be found a strong continuing antiprohibition group similar in character to the Australian Temperance Association, which for years has kept prohibition away from Britain's island dominion. Following repeal, there was much talk of forming such a group in this country, but the idea collapsed for want of financial backing.

A great many Washington wets, including some civic leaders formerly active in the antiprohibition cause, believe the reaction back toward prohibition already is under way, and before two more decades, the country will be actually as dry as it was just prior to repeal.

Sentiment Runs in Cycles.

They attribute this view in part to the fact that no strong permanent organization has been developed to hold ground already won by the wets and in part to the plain statistical fact that prohibition sentiment in this country always has run in cycles.

"I think prohibition is coming back," Rufus S. Lusk, former Washington executive of the militant Crusaders, told this reporter yesterday.

"Local option, which always is the first manifestation of prohibition, already is beginning to be exercised in the States. And I wouldn't be surprised if Washington went entirely dry again in another 20 years.

"We probably never shall see National prohibition, as such, again. But, when the cycle starts swinging the other way, we may look to see 80 per cent of the States eventually go dry. It may take years to come to pass, but I think it is inevitable."

Carried on Fight.

With John F. Dryden and Carroll Morgan, Lusk played an important role in crystallizing all repeal sentiment of various antiprohibition organizations in the United Repeal Council. It was his idea. And it was this central clearing house that carried the fight to the National conventions of both parties.

The full story of this phase of the repeal fight has never been written. There was a moment of indecision when the United Repeal Council was not in agreement about asking the Democrats for outright repeal. Commander Clark, of the Crusaders, was one of those who believed the group should ask for something less. Friction became so great at one time that the entire Washington group of the Crusaders threatened to secede. Commander Clark changed his stand and the fight was won.

The wets have little hope of developing the strong National organization they say is now necessary if prohibition is to be kept forever away from the Nation's door. The great mass of people are not now interested enough to contribute the funds that are needed. Strong liquor interests are willing to put up the money, but the taint of their contributions, local wet leaders say, would impair the effectiveness of any oganization formed.

U. S. Orders Bond Refunding To End Rumors of Inflation effecting substantial interest savings.

If the $1,200,000,000 of 4¼ per cent bonds can be refunded with new 3 per cent bonds, an annual interest saving of $15,000,000 could be accomplished. Three per cent Treasury bonds sold by the Government last summer are currently selling above par, indicating that the Government might refund its securities at or near a 3 per cent interest cost.

Roosevelt Maps Money Plan With Morgenthau

By Leon Dure, Jr.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt surveyed the monetary situation with Secretary Morgenthau and three other Treasury officials today preparatory to the forthcoming big fiscal operation, in which $1,724,700,000 of bonds and certificates will be refunded.

Then he welcomed to Hyde Park House two of the most active New Dealers—Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, and Rexford Guy Tugwell, Undersecretary of Agriculture, who heads the "brain trust." In the quiet of the "Summer White House" they will discuss social legislation and other problems over the week-end.

Details of the Treasury's plans to meet the heavy maturities will be announced September 10, it was decided at the monetary conference. Indications have been that the refinancing will be along orthodox lines, in accordance with past performances of the Treasury, but somewhat better terms are looked for in view of recent sags in the market.

Loan to Be Refinanced.

In the operation, $1,200,000,000 of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, bearing 4¼ per cent interest, will be refinanced October 15 through another bond issue at a lower rate of interest. The Treasury also must make provision for about $525,000,000 in certificates falling due September 15, either by a bond issue or further short-term notes.

Attending the conference, besides Mr. Morgenthau, were Undersecretary of the Treasury T. Jefferson Coolidge, Herman Oliphant, legal adviser, and Jacob Viner, expert on fiscal affairs. The conferees were uniformly silent on the meeting, but it was understood the President considered the whole monetary question, including the nationalization of silver.

The foremost "young liberals" of the Administration — Mr. Hopkins and Dr. Tugwell — arrived late in the day, accompanied by Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Tugwell, to remain as guests of the President through Sunday. As chairman of the President's committee on "social security," Mr. Hopkins will report on studies of unemployment insurance, old-age insurance and public works.

These will form the basis for legislation to be asked at the next session of Congress, meeting in January. So far details of the committee's recommendations have been closely guarded, and they are not expected to be disclosed until after the President, himself directing the survey, makes the announcement.

Democratic Leader Calls.

Another caller at the "Summer White House" was Edward J. Flynn, Democratic leader of the Bronx and an Administration patronage representative in this State. Although less than 48 hours ago announcement was made that the President will rule out all conferences on politics, apparently an exception was reserved for New York, his home State.

Furthermore, it was explained in one quarter that the restriction was intended to apply chiefly to candidates for office. In this connection, a conference has been arranged for Tuesday with Upton Sinclair, former Socialist, who ran away with California's Democratic primary for Governor. But talk of politics in this meeting has been banned.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt found time this afternoon, between his conferences, to order out his small runabout and go for a long ride about his mother's estate. Calling off his regular Friday press meeting, he sent word to correspondents that he had nothing to say on any subject.

Undoubtedly, the cotton textile strike constituted a major worry to Mr. Roosevelt, but White House headquarters gave no indication of it. He is following events closely by telegram and telephone, but so far no formal request for Presidential intervention has been made, it was said.

Police Warn Preacher Against 'Snake' Gospel

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 31 (AP).—Fear that a Holiness preacher may let his 10-year-old son handle rattlesnakes and possibly be bitten by them in a revival meeting here a week from next Sunday brought a storm of protest and warning from juvenile court and police officials tonight.

It was all right with one official if the Rev. Dewey Dodson wants to be bitten by rattlesnakes, as an evidence of the power of "faith," but the possibility of arrest loomed if he let his son, Dewey, jr., handle a rattler.

Clifton Church Is Host Today At Tournament

Knights Will Joust for Honors in St. John's Church Event.

The annual tournament, supper and ball for the benefit of St. John's Church of Clinton, Md., will be held today at 2:30 p. m. on the grounds.

State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer will be the orator of the day. Frank Small, jr., will marshal the knights, assisted by Mrs. Louise Edelen, Mrs. Julia Hungerford and Miss Hilda Blandford, aids.

Tilting for gentlemen will be followed by a ladies' tournament. There will be music and sports.

United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran will speak at the coronation ball, when, in addition to the gentlemen, a queen and maid of honor will be crowned.

Airship Base Near D.C. Urged on Ickes

set forth other municipal advantages he claims would result from granting of permission to build the blimp station. Among them are:

Development of Washington's potentialities as a future terminus in the operation of large dirigibles, comparable to the Graf Zeppelin, in transatlantic commerce.

Addition of a desirable tourist attraction. Similar bases, Fickes said, are established in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Miami and St. Petersburg.

Could Be Emergency Landing.

Opportunity of the developed site to serve as an emergency landing field for airplanes.

Availability of the project for military purposes in the event of war or National emergency.

The hangar, which it is planned to construct if Secretary Ickes gives permission, will be 160 feet long, 65 feet wide and 65 feet high. The blimps will be inflated with noninflammable helium gas.

Norton Point is less than a mile below Washington-Hoover Airport. The site desired for the airship base adjoins the one where formerly stood the old Norton reduction plant, razed several months ago by CCC workers. The land is Federal property under immediate jurisdiction of the Office of National Capital Parks, local unit of the Interior Department's National Park Service.

Bulk Milk Retailing Is Banned by Illinois

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP).—Microscopic examination today resulted in a ban on the retail sale of bulk milk in Illinois.

Horace I. Lepman, superintendent of the State department of foods and dairies, said milk with a bacteria count as high as 7,000,000 to the cubic centimeter—Chicago considers a maximum of 100,000 safe—had been sold in the 50 to 60 bulk stations in and near the city.

Gen. Bishop Ends His Life On Retirement

bullet entered his skull behind the right ear, and then imbedded itself in the wall. Only one shot had been fired. A private physician was summoned. He pronounced Gen. Bishop dead and notified Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald, who said the death was suicide.

For the past two years, Gen. Bishop had been suffering from heart disease. Last March he went on disability leave and ended his tour of duty. He had been a patient at Walter Reed Hospital.

Gen. Bishop had seemed normally cheerful yesterday, his wife told officials. He left no notes to explain his act. Shortly before she retired, Mrs. Bishop said, her husband put on his bathrobe and went to the sleeping porch, where he shot himself.

One of the Nation's most distinguished soldiers, Gen. Bishop served with valor in the Philippine Insurrection and World War. During the World War he served as commanding officer of the Third Field Artillery Brigade of the Third Division in France.

He was awarded the French Legion of Honor and the United States Distinguished Service Medal for "exceptionally meritorius and distinguished services."

He commanded the Third Brigade in the battles of the Meuse and Argonne, and later in the advance on Sedan.

Since the war, Gen. Bishop served at the Army War College, on the War Department General Staff, and as chief of staff of the Philippine Division. He also served as commanding officer of the Fifteenth Field Artillery, Second Division, at Fort Sam Houston, and the Sixth Field Artillery, Fort Hoyle, Md.

While in command of the Eighth Field Artillery in Schofield Barracks, Gen. Bishop was appointed major general and Chief of Field Artillery February 16, 1930.

First Duty in Philippines.

Gen. Bishop was a native of Grand Rapids, Mich., where he was born in 1874. He entered West Point in 1893, and was graduated in 1897. In April, 1899, he sailed for the Philippines. He returned to the United States in 1901.

In 1901 he was promoted to captain and assigned to duty at Fort Adams, R. I., with the Coast Artillery. From Fort Adams he was transferred to Fort Totten, N. Y., where he was adjutant of the post. From July 1 until August 9, 1906, he was on duty as artillery engineer, Artillery District of the Columbia.

He then was transferred to Fort Stevens, Oreg., where he remained until August 6, 1908, being ordered to Fort Sam Houston, Tex. From there he went to Fort Leavenworth as a student officer, School of the Line. He was promoted to major August 26, 1912, and transferred to Fort Sill, Okla., and then to Fort Riley, Kans., in October, 1914.

He returned to Fort Sill in December of the same year, and remained on duty with his post until July 1, 1916, when he was promoted to lieutenant colonel of Field Artillery.

On July 11, 1916, Gen. Bishop was ordered to duty at Fort Bliss, Tex., and he remained until November of the same year. On May 15, 1917, he was promoted to colonel in the Field Artillery, sailing for France in August, 1918, with the rank of brigadier general.

Gen. Bishop is survived by his widow, the former Ella Van Horn Foulois, divorced wife of Brig. Gen. Benjamin Foulois.

Strike Depression Hits Cotton Mart

The general strike hovering over the cotton textile industry already has placed a depressing finger on the cotton market.

The cotton market review of the Department of Agriculture yesterday noted that prices closed Wednesday 26 points below those of August 24, although 20 points above the season's low on August 3.

The slump was attributed to a week's uneasiness over the strike threat, culminating in the actual strike call issued Thursday. Domestic mill buying continued light. Buying interest in New England was confined to small quantities of spot cotton, while in the South the week was quiet, with inquiries limited to small lots for prompt shipment.

Reed Declares U. S. on Trend To "Old Deal"

Pennsylvanian Hails Turn in California; Opens Third Campaign.

A definite swing back toward conservative "old deal" policies, with Democrats on the defensive for the first time since the 1932 landslide, yesterday was seen by Senator David Aiken Reed, Pennsylvania's selection for the Republican Senatorial nomination.

Loosing a few opening campaign blasts at the Democrats, Senator Reed stopped over in Washington long enough to do a little plain and fancy crowing over Upton Sinclair's victory in the California's gubernatorial primaries.

"I think the Democrats are reaping what they've sown," said the man most talked about as the Republicans' 1936 nominee for President.

Sinclair Is Outspoken.

"Sinclair expresses in plain language what is implied in the policies of most of these Administration professors. Now they've got everything they've been begging for.

A reporter asked how the Senator sensed a Republican advantage in Sinclair's nomination.

"The tide is swinging conservative," said Senator Reed. "Just wait until the November election. Sinclair will be snowed under."

The veteran of 12 years in the Senate, who only Thursday launched his Pennsylvania campaign for reelection, said President Roosevelt is still "bewildered" about Sinclair's nomination.

"He says he won't take sides," a newspaperman ventured.

"That shows he's bewildered," Reed declared.

He said he expected to win in Pennsylvania by "over a million" and the whole Republican ticket to win "by a big majority."

"The people of Pennsylvania have made up there minds that the Old Deal was a squarer deal than the New Deal," he said.

Senator Reed told newspapermen the NRA has collapsed, and farmers are disgruntled at AAA processing taxes.

Raps NRA as "Failure."

"Mr. Roosevelt said he would be the first to confess it if any of his experiments failed," he said. "He had better hurry up, because the NRA certainly is a failure."

Reed said he is willing to stake his political future on his opposition to the New Deal in general and the NRA and the AAA in particular.

"The people of Pennsylvania have had a chance to try it out," he said. "They were enthusiastic before they found it was a mass of fallacies. They know now it hasn't helped the small business man, and the only aid to large industries has been through repeal of the antitrust laws.

"Food prices have been rising in my State, and they are higher now than at any time since 1931. It might be different, if the farmers were getting any benefit out of it. As it is, they are paying out 10 cents for every 1 cent they get back."

Senator Reed, just back from several weeks in Michigan, said he "talked the same way there I did in Pennsylvania, and they seemed to like it."

He predicted the reelection of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, and gains in Michigan's Republican House delegation.

Speaking for the country as a whole, he said Republican Presidential chances in 1936 "are excellent."

Asked about money paid out by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, he said:

Less severe comment on the nomination of Upton Sinclair was voiced at the Capitol by Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota Progressive Republican.

He said the nomination indicated to him a trend toward more liberal policies and a willingness of the people to experiment.

Tells About Huey

Bachrach Photo.

"RED" McCLELLAND.

(Associated Press.)

The National Capital got a load of information yesterday on just how things are going in Senator Huey P. Long's Louisiana domain.

Out of a hurrying street crowd today popped "Red" McClelland, sorrel-pated Senate page, small suitcase in hand, breathlessly back from a hitch-hiking trip to Louisiana.

Red's the lad, 15 years old next Thursday, who won fame as an Arkansas tree-sitter, came to Congress as a page boy, and won the personal friendship of Vice President Garner and Postmaster General Farley.

"I went to New Orleans and Shreveport both," he related, "and practically all I heard talked about down there was Huey, and everybody who picked me up coming back asked me what I thought about it. I told them all that Huey sure had his thumb on things."

Library to Close for Week-End.

All branches of the Washington Public Library will be closed over the Labor Day week-end, it was announced yesterday by Clara F. Herbert, acting librarian. The central building at Eighth and K streets will close at 4 p. m. today, the four major branches at 1 p. m. and the five sub-branches at noon today, Miss Herbert said.

Permits Denied 94 Distillers

Board Cancels Five Others to Keep Rum Output Even With Demand.

Pursuing its policy of discouraging expansion of liquor production beyond market capacity, the Federal Alcohol Control Administration announced yesterday it had denied applications for 94 distillers' permits and canceled five since June 1, according to The Associated Press.

The announcement by the FACA added that "it is likely there will be a sharp reduction in the number of permit holders among the rectifiers and importers during the fall."

Proceedings against a number of distiller permit holders have been instituted on the ground that they were not being actively used as required by regulations.

NewDeal Securities Act Scored by Bar

Evans, led the parade of speakers urging the bar to put its house in order.

"It needs it," he said, bluntly.

Paul V. McNutt, Governor of Indiana, addressing this afternoon's session, said the legal profession does not receive the approval of the ordinary man. "He is not satisfied with the present day administration of justice, and does not hesitate to say so."

McNutt said the objections to electing judges are that political influence outweighs merit, that in urban centers it is not possible for the voter to estimate the qualifications of the candidates, and that elected judges are subjected to attempted intimidations on the part of political leaders.

President Loftin announced he would name the committee to investigate New Deal legislation and policies within the next two weeks. The executive committee which will select the 1935 convention city tomorrow also will decide on how many men shall serve on the committee.

Loftin said he would canvass the membership to obtain expert legal minds, yet variant enough in opinions to procure a thoroughly nonpartisan inquiry into new legislation.

Confession of Murder To Free Innocent Man

Andalusia, Ala., Aug. 31 (AP).—Deputy Sheriff Tom Head announced today that Reuben Alford, former convict, had confessed to the slaying of Will Turbeville, forest ranger, a year ago, and exonerated W. E. Jordan, who was convicted of the crime and sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment.

Jordan, who police said would be released as a result of Alford's confession, is in Covington County Jail here pending appeal to the Alabama Supreme Court.

9 Councilmen In Alexandria To Be Inducted

E. C. Davidson to Be Given Gavel as Mayor at Ceremony Today.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The nine newly elected members of the Alexandria City Council will be inducted into office at noon today in the Corporation Courtroom, the oath of office being administered by Judge William P. Woolls, of that court. The meeting will be called to order by Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the court. The gavel which will be used is a replica of the one used at the laying of the cornerstone of the United States Capitol.

E. C. Davidson, former coucilman from the Sixth Ward, will assume the office of mayor, and on behalf of the machinists employed at the Washington Navy Yard he will be presented with a gavel made of wood taken from the frigate Constitution, wood from Mount Vernon and cocobolo wood from central China. The presentation of the gavel will be made by Andrew McNamara, representing the Navy Yard employes. Mayor Davidson, who is general secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists, will then deliver an address.

After the ceremonies, the council will elect a vice mayor, and Mayor Davison will name a committee on rules, composed of three members, who will later submit a set of rules governing the workings of the new council.

There are three members at large of the council—Mayor Davison, A. Slater Lamond and Dr. John T. Ashton. The representatives of the six wards are: First, John D. Matter; Second, Louis C. Barley; Third, Percy E. Clift; Fourth, George K. Bender; Fifth, Henry O'Bannon Cooper; Sixth, Charles L. Burgess. Messrs. Davison, Barley and Cooper are the only members of the old council who were reelected. The members at large will serve three years, while those representing the wards will have two years to serve. The mayor is, according to the new city charter, the one of the members at large who receives the highest number of votes in the general election.

Attend Legion Meeting.

A delegation numbering between 75 and 100 legionnaires and members of the American Legion Auxiliary will leave Alexandria tomorrow to attend the sixteenth annual convention of the Department of Virginia, American Legion, at Lynchburg. Alexandria Post, No. 24, will be represented by these delegates and alternates: Hannon E. Norris, Frederick Link, Miss Bess Fain, Jones Cox, H. M. Jones, Howard L. Arnold, G. Raymond King, Everett Hellmuth, Herbert Cady, Sidney Weil, W. G. Sellers, Franklin DeDier, Richard B. English, J. Hamilton Nugent, Turner Anderson, Joseph B. English, O. Ashby Reardon, Halley Dove, H. A. Carter and Herbert Blunt.

The delegates of Rappahannock Post, No. 125, are J. T. Preston, jr., Clyde B. Lanham, Paul C. Lindsey and T. M. Hamilton.

The Drum and Bugle Corps of Alexandria Post, No. 24, also will attend and participate in the parade on Tuesday.

Edgar Warfield, Sr., Honored.

Edgar Warfield, sr., of Alexandria, has been announced as the winner of the annual Bauer & Black contest for the oldest active pharmacist in the United States. Mr. Warfield is in his ninety-third year, has been in the retail drug business for 78 years, and compounds prescriptions daily. His nearest competitor for this unique honor was B. T. Davis, of Huntington, W. Va., whom he defeated by six months of service. Mr. Warfield has received a certificate issued by R. A. Whidden, president of Bauer & Black, which reads: "Edgar Warfield, sr., is adjudged the active retail druggist with the longest record of faithful service in the profession of pharmacy in the United States on August 1, 1934."

The personnel of the two Virginia ABC liquor stores in Alexandria has been further reduced, in the interest of economy. Both stores are now under the management of E. E. Lawler, jr., and each has an assistant manager and one clerk. The services of two employes were dispensed with yesterday, and Mr. Lawler will divide his time between the two stores.

Shenklin Winner In Clerks' Tennis

Defeats Phillips, 6-1, 6-4, Gains Quarter-Finals.

Portly Herbert Shenkin, seeded No. 5, lumbered to a 6—1, 6—4 victory over arry Phillips in a fourth round match in the annual Government tennis championships yesterday. Shenkin became the seventh man and the sixth seeded player to reach the quarter-finals.

Harry Goldsmith, seeded No. 9, faces Ira Rogers in a fourth round match today at 3 o'clock, and is expected to grab the sole remaining quarter-final rung. The match will be played at Henry Park.

In the doubles yesterday, Stan Haney and John Ladd, No. 4 seeded team, advanced to the semifinals with a 7—5, 7—5 win over Shenkin and Mariana Erana. The winners trailed in both sets but pulled up from 5—3 to win the first and from 4—2 for the second and the match.

Ralph McElvenny and Phillips, the defending champions, went to the quarter-finals with a 6—0, 6—1 win over Harold Weiss and Fred Hagar.

District Building Staff To Change Hours Today

The new schedule of work for 1,200 employes in the District Building goes into effect this morning. They will report at 8:45 a. m. instead of 9 a. m. as heretofore and quit at 12:45 p. m.

The 15-minute change was ordered by the Commissioners in hope of relieving traffic congestion around the District Building.

Rather Moist—But a Tasty Snack

It was a rather large morsel to get one's teeth around, but persistency achieved victory which is reflected in the grinning faces of Jean Connors, of 3439 Forty-first street northwest, and Charles Johnston, of 5310 Forty-first street northwest. Firemen Open Sessions Today In Alexandria

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The third annual meeting of the National Firemen's Association will convene in Alexandria today, and reservations indicate it will be the largest ever held. A number of fire companies arrived yesterday and last night and are quartered in several of the public school buildings and in Portner's Arena, on North Washington street. Many other delegations will arrive today.

The feature of the convention will be the parade Monday, in which it is estimated between 5,000 and 6,000 persons will participate, one of the largest delegations being 1,000 men from the Civilian Conservation Corps camps in this section.

The convention committee has placed 7,000 open circus seats on Washington street, tickets for which are on sale at all the principal drug stores. The reviewing stand is at the intersection of Washington and Queen streets.

The Navy destroyers Fox and Humphreys arrived and anchored off Alexandria yesterday afternoon. These vessels, together with the United States Coast Guard cutter Apache, will be open for inspection daily from 1 to 5 p. m. until Tuesday.

The convention opens at 10 a. m. today, when officers and members of the association will journey to Mount Vernon and place a wreath on the tomb of George Washington. At 11:15 a. m. they will go to Arlington National Cemetery and place a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Plan Special Services.

Special services will be held in the several churches tomorrow, including Christ Episcopal Church, where George Washington was a worshiper, and where his pew is maintained in its original condition.

Memorial services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple, where the sessions of the association will be held. The Rev. Norman Roberts, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, and also president of one of the Alexandria volunteer fire companies, will speak.

At 4 p. m. tomorrow the United States Army Band will give a concert on the steps of the Masonic Temple.

The convention will open at 8 p. m. tomorrow, with an address by State Fire Marshal Sherwood Brockwell, of North Carolina.

The parade will start promptly at 11 a. m. Monday, and will traverse 15 squares on North Washington street. In addition to the fire companies, with their apparatus, and the ladies' auxiliaries, many military and civic organizations will participate, and there will be a large number of decorated floats. Following the parade there will be band and drum corps concerts on Baggett's Field, at the head of King street.

Woodrum Retires In Speaker Race

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 31 (AP).—Representative Clifton A. Woodrum today eliminated himself as a candidate for the Speakership of the House of Representatives to succeed the late Henry T. Rainey.

He said that he had received a great many letters from "friends, citizens and a few members of Congress," all of which I appreciate, but I am not a candidate for the Speakership." Among the "few members of Congress," were Representatives Bankhead, Alabama, and Rayburn, Texas.

The Roanoker, who recently attacked the new American Liberty League, said that he sincerely hopes "the matter will be settled without an unseenly fight just prior to the opening of Congress and I have no doubt that it will be settled without such a fight."

Woman Robbed of $20.

"Guess I'll Leave Town, Too," Mayor Decides in Crisis.

Peaceful Falls Church is rulerless.

Even Town Police Sergeant Alton Shumate can't round up the wandering councilmen.

"The meeting will be in order," proclaimed Mayor L. P. Daniel as he rapped his gavel on the table in the town hall.

To his surprise, only two councilmen answered "present"—not even a quorum.

A half-hour passed.

"They are all out of town, sir," Shumate reported.

The situation was a problem. It was to be the last meeting of the old council to wind up the administration. The new council is scheduled to take office today.

Another half-hour intervened.

"They, too, are out of town, sir," was Shumate's report.

"What are you going to do, Mayor?" asked an apprehensive townsman.

"Guess I'll go out of town, too."

Suspension of Music Publishers Code Asked

Suspension of further consideration of the music publisher's code was asked of Recovery Administrator Johnson yesterday by Oswald F. Schuette, copyright adviser of the National Association of Broadcasters.

He suggested this action, he explained, to prevent a possible grant of immunity from prosecution under antitrust laws to the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and the Music Publishers Protective Association against whom the Government filed suit Thursday in the Federal District Court in New York, alleging antitrust law violations.

The Federal Diary

(Trade-mark Applied For)

During Morgan Baker's vacation the Federal Diary is being edited by Robert F. Whitney.

OTIS SHEPARD HILL (*), mathematician of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, was retired yesterday after 23 years' Government service. Fellow employes yesterday presented him with a desk, a lamp and other gifts in a final ceremony in his office.

Mr. Hill, a nephew of Herbert Putnam, the Librarian of Congress, was born in 1868 at Waltham, Mass. He studied at Harvard University, where his father, Thomas Hill, was the twentieth president, and then at the School of Classical Studies, Athens, Greece.

He was in the lumber business in Boston, New York and Burlington, Vt., until 1911, when he entered the Naval Observatory as mathematician. In 1912 he entered the Coast and Geodetic Survey. In addition to his regular duties, Mr. Hill has been valuable in the translation of many technical and scientific papers for the survey.

A pleasant holiday to all Government workers, whether they belong to the fortunate groups who took a day's leave or to the less lucky who have to work this morning and whether they go to the seashore or stay in town for Monday's parade, is the wish of the Federal Diary.

Congratulations are in order to C. Marshall Finnan, superintendent of National Capital Parks, likewise to Mrs. Finnan. They are the parents of a 6½-pound girl, born yesterday. The new arrival is the couple's third child. He was superintendent of Mesa Verde National Park before taking over his present post in October.

Yesterday was Col. Henry M. Waite's last day as deputy administrator of the Public Works Administration. Col. Waite will go to his new post with Secretary Ickes' praise, "his splendid contribution to the recovery program," ringing in his ears.

Col. Waite is leaving PWA to return to Cincinnati, where he will take charge of the Department of Economic Security, an organization designed to cope with unemployment and rehabilitation problems. He will be mised by his subordinates and associates.

Edward H. Nunnally (*), Bureau of Standards, president of the West Virginia Society, will head a reception committee today to meet "Miss West Virginia," beauty contest winner, when she arrives at Washington Airport at 2:30 p. m. today.

The contest winner is Miss Rudy Miller, of Parkersburg. She will be entertained by the society tonight at 7 o'clock with a banquet at the Raleigh Hotel. The second prize winner, Miss Peggy Crosley, will also be a guest of the society.

Diary Guest Tickets.

If your name is followed by (*) call in person on the Federal Diary Editor. You will receive tickets to Loew's Columbia (Robert Montgomery in "Hideout") or to Loew's Palace (Joan Crawford and Clark Gable in "Chained") or to Loew's Fox (screen, David Holt, Lee Tracy and Helen Morgan in "You Belong To Me," Frolics of 1934 with Joe Morrison).

Diary office hours are daily, except Sunday, 12 noon to 1 p. m. and 4:30 to 6 p. m.; Saturday, 12 noon to 2:30 p. m.

Postettes.

Fred Finley (*), Division of Investigation, Justice, has returned to work after a vacation spent at Atlantic City, N. J.

Court Orders Kelley to Prove Official Fitness

Arlington County Leader's Demurrer Rejected by Judge Coleman.

Lyman M. Kelley, youthful chairman of the Arlington County Board and leader of the younger Democrats in the county, must appear in Arlington Courthouse on October 16 to show cause why he should not be removed from office for "misfeasance, malfeasance and gross neglect."

Kelley was so ordered yesterday by Judge Frederick W. Coleman, of Fredericksburg, who was appointed by Gov. Peery to assume jurisdiction in the matter after Judge Walter T. McCarthy had disqualified himself. The young man's lawyers, Edmund D. Campbell and former Assistant Attorney General Leon Bazile, of Richmond, entered an immediate demurrer on the ground that Judge Coleman was without jurisdiction to enter an order on his own motion. They contended that he was delegated to sit on the case, but that there was no case pending before the court.

Judge Coleman overruled them with the abrupt statemnt that "I'm judge of this court now."

Kelley, who sat in court yesterday as the order was handed down, has been accused of "wilfully soliciting and obtaining" a $200 bribe from a local contractor, of soliciting other bribes and of participating in the profits of his father's bonding firm, which did county business. There is no criminal charge against him. A special grand jury investigated his case recently and handed down a presentment containing the charges, together with the recommendation that he be removed.

When Kelley's lawyers entered their demurrer yesterday, with the plea that the motion for the order should have been made by Commonwealth Attorney Lawrence Douglas, or some interested citizen, Judge Coleman turned them down with the statement that there will be "no whitewash of this case." The justice declared further that it will have a "full, open and square hearing."

Ordinarily, the order would have been returnable in ten days. Counsel for both sides agreed to a delay until October 16, however, after Commonwealth Attorney Douglas revealed one of his key witnesses was in Europe.

Purse, Cash Taken From Bench.

Cecelia M. Pitkin, 1474 Chapin street northwest, an employe of the General Accounting Office, told police yesterday that she left a purse containing $35 in cash and a check for $64 on a park bench in Pension Square. When she returned the purse was missing.

Own Economic World Planned By U.S. for Destitute Thousands

(Associated Press.)

Creation of an almost separate economic world for thousands now destitute is under contemplation by Federal relief officials for inclusion in President Roosevelt's new social security program.

Plans to this end are being shaped to complement the program of unemployment insurance and old-age pensions that would fortify those now holding jobs.

Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, who has gone to Hyde Park, N. Y., to confer with the President dropped a few broad hints in advance as to what he has in mind. Present policies of the Relief Administration point to more.

Lawrence Westbrook, assistant relief administrator, reported that 80,000 destitute farm families were being helped to "land ownership" by relief agencies. He called relief officials and AAA representatives in 30 States to regional conferences designed to expedite this work.

"Most of the 80,000 families," Westbrook said, "have been placed on farms leased until the end of next year, with the understanding that they will be given the privilege of buying this or other land on long-time payments, if they had demonstrated their fitness for ownership at the end of the present lease.

"Rural relief rolls are now being checked to obtain additional families for this program next year."

Another straw in the wind is the activity of State relief administrations—financed largely with Federal funds—in having more of the unemployed produce goods for themselves.

Administration spokesmen recently predicted a steady increase this winter in "work relief" projects, in which they said the destitute would have a chance to resume their former occupations.

Assurance has been given repeatedly that products made by the unemployed in projects of this type, which include the slaughter and canning of more than 1,000,000 head of cattle from the drought belt, would be distributed among their comrades and none of it allowed to enter regular commercial channels.

Hopkins himself declared it was safe to predict the social security program recommended to President Roosevelt would include compulsory unemployment insurance, old-age pensions and additional public works.

Gas Men Irked By Price Zones In Montgomery

Dealers Discuss Desertion of Major Oil Firms for Independents.

Possibility of deserting major oil companies and going independent was discussed at a meeting of the Independent Gas Dealers Association of Montgomery County at Rockville, Spencer J. H. Brown, secretary, announced yesterday.

Incensed by the allegedly unfair price zones fixed by the gasoline companies, the dealers have been up in arms for weeks. For the last two weeks they have taken advantage of the Washington price war and have purchased gasoline at District retail prices from a suburban dealer to be resold at the Maryland price. The dealers have hauled the gasoline themselves.

The dealers in the Ashton, Sandy Spring, Norbeck and Colesville Pike section point out that Rockville stations have district prices while they are expected to charge an even higher price than dealers in the extreme northern end of the county.

Since the oil companies ceased making an allowance to the dealers of this section, they have been selling gasoline at 16 8-10 cents a gallon, while paying 14 6-10 for it, leaving too small a margin to make the business profitable.

The dealers contend that a uniform rate should be established for the entire county or that Rockville at least should have the same prices as nearby towns.

Prince Georges Candidates in Sharp Debate

States Attorney Defends Record at Meeting of Democrats.

First guns in the Democratic primary election contest for State's attorney of Prince Georges County (Md.) were fired at an overflow rally held under auspices of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Prince Georges County at Odd Fellows Hall, Hyattsville.

Alan Bowie, State's attorney, who is the organization candidate for reelection, and Robert W. McCullough, of Bladensburg, who also seeks the nomination, engaged in sharp verbal debate.

Bowie defended his record in office and praised the county's organization leaders. McCullough rapped the action of the party's State central committee in "tagging" certain candidates for nomination, though he pledged loyalty to the party whether he wins or loses in the September 12 primaries.

Smith W. Purdum, of Hyattsville, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, was the guest speaker. He traced the growth of the postal service since Benjamin Franklin, the first Postmaster General. He said that Upper Marlboro and Bladensburg were the first postoffices established in Prince Georges County, but the records failed to show which was the first.

Purdum praised Postmaster General Farley for getting the department "out of the red" financially in the fiscal year, 1933-34.

Referring specifically to the host club, Purdum said that parents should be grateful for young people's political clubs in which their children have an opportunity to learn about the forms of government and the people running it.

Most of the Democratic candidates in the coming elections spoke. Besides Bowie and McCullough, the speakers included State Senator Landale G. Sasscer, seeking reelection; Kent Roberts Mullikin, Charles C. Marbury, Egbert F. Tingley, John S. White, Lansdale G. Clagett and L. Sothoron, candidates for the House of Delegates; Brice Bowie, candidate for clerk of the circuit court; R. Ernest Smith, candidate for county treasurer; Perry Boswell Vinton D. Cockey, James B. Berry, Joseph H. Blanford and Harry W. McNamee, candidates for county commissioner; J. Guy Bell and Roger B. Oursler, candidates for sheriff; John B. Beall and Millard Thorne, candidates for judges of the Orphans' Court; Frank B. Smith and Cornelius S. Ryon, candidates for the State central committee, and Daisy F. La Coppidan, W. Elmer Hutchinson and Noah Joffe, candidates for delegates to the State convention.

Other speakers were T. Howard Duckett; J. Errington Lloyd, secretary of the Seat Pleasant Democrats Club; Judge W. McD. Lindsey, president of the Lanham Democratic Club; Dr. John W. Klemm, candidate for United States Representative from the Fifth Maryland Congressional District; George Merrill Harrison, who has withdrawn from the contest for county commissioner, and Mayor Lloyd V. Moxley, of Brentwood.

PWA Pay Scale In Va. Assailed

(Associated Press.)

Wages paid carpenters on the construction of the Richmond Art Museum and school buildings in 29 counties of Virginia erected with Public Works funds were attacked before the PWA's board of labor review yesterday by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters.

J. L. Butcher, business agent of the Richmond local, and H. W. Blumberg, of the National organization, told the board that instead of receiving the minimum of $1.10 per hour set for skilled labor, carpenters on the school projects were paid only 60 cents an hour.

Walton Hall, superintendent of schools of Hanover County, told the board the new school at Ashland, one of those involved in the complaints, had been completed and that no public funds were available for paying the difference in the scale.

He said all estimates had been made on the basis of the scales paid, had been approved by State public works authorities, and that if the $1.10 scale had been included in the estimates the project could not have been carried out.

L. P. Hartsook, architect of the school, said only one union carpenter was available in Hanover County when the school was erected and this workman had been paid the skilled labor scale. The others, he said, were classed as "local skilled labor"—men who, while not fully qualified carpenters, were for the most part able to do the work required.

In the case of the museum, it was brought out, carpenters building forms for concrete were classed as "rough carpenters" and were paid an intermediate rate of 80 cents an hour—the prevailing rate for carpenters in Richmond—in place of the $1.10 rate for skilled labor set by the public works regulations.

The case was taken under advisement by the board.

Scenic Highway To Be Dedicated By Roosevelt

President to Deliver Main Skyline Drive Address, Ickes Announces.

President Roosevelt will deliver the main address dedicating the Skyline Drive, the scenic highway along the crest of the Blue Ridge Mountains in the heart of the Shenandoah Valley, Inc., which tary Ickes, of the Department of Interior, announced yesterday to Senator Byrd and a committee from Shenandoah Valley Co., Inc., which promoted the National Park movement, composed of Gen. H. L. Opie, A. T. Moore, Senator Percy T. Loth, of Staunton; John R. Crown, of Harrisonburg and Peachey Menefee, secretary to Representative Robertson.

The dedication address, Mr. Ickes told the delegation here yesterday, will be delivered either September 15 or 16.

At the same time Mr. Ickes told the delegation that arrangements virtually are completed for opening Skyline Drive from Panorama to Big Meadows, a distance of about 20 miles, on the date the dedicatory speech is delivered by the President. He added every effort will be made to have the southern end of the drive from Big Meadows to Swift Run Gap opened on that date, and if not, the road work will be pushed to pave the way for opening as soon as possible. He said the section of the Skyline Drive opened to the public in September will remain open.

Peery to Preside.

While the program for the dedication of the Skyline drive has not been completed, it is expected that Gov. Peery of Virginia will preside. Short addresses also will be delivered by Mr. Ickes, Senator Byrd and Chairman William E. Carson of the Virginia Conservation Commission.

Mr. Byrd and members of the Shenandoah Valley, Inc., committee, who have been working a year to have the Skyline drive opened to the public, called upon Secretary Ickes yesterday to discuss removing the gates on the mountain highway. Mr. Ickes told the delegation that he and the President are anxious to permit the public to enjoy the beautiful scenic mountain highway, one of the most attractive features of the Shenandoah National Park, as quickly as possible.

He declared he had discussed the matter with the President and regrets the delay in opening the drive. He hopes arrangements can be made to open the road from Panorama to Swift Run Gap on the same day, he said, and intends to urge the Federal Bureau of Public Roads to make every effort to have the 40-mile stretch ready for motor traffic when the President delivers the dedicatory address.

Work Will Be Pressed.

After leaving Mr. Ickes' office, Mr. Byrd called upon Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, in charge of constructing the Skyline drive, who informed Senator Byrd that part of the drive from Panorama to Big Meadows will be ready for opening by the middle of September and every effort will be made to have the remainder also in shape for public use. He was in doubt whether this can be done.

Mr. MacDonald also said plans are about complete to ask bids for construction of that portion of the Skyline drive from Swift Run Gap on the Spotswood trail toward Waynesboro, as well as for the north end of the parkway drive, the scenic mountain highway to connect the Shenandoah National Park and the Great Smoky National Park.

The Parkway drive, he said, will be let to contract in 10-mile sections as quickly as possible after surveys and rights of way have been completed.

Brother Names Alleged Slayer

Claylick, Pa., Suspect Said to Have Struck Fatal Blow in Fight.

Chambersburg, Pa., Aug. 31 (Spl.). Omar Clark, 24, of Claylick, Franklin County, today heard himself named by his younger brother, Roy, 23, as the person who dealt the blow that caused the death of Charles C. Stevens, 35, of Montgomery Township, last Monday.

After hearing the statement of his brother read by State police, Omar admitted there had been a fight involving him, his brother, and Stevens, but denied the allegation that he struck Stevens on the head with an auto tire iron, fracturing his skull.

Dr. A. W. Thrush, coroner, today fixed Tuesday night for an inquest.

The attack on Stevens, Roy's statement said, was provoked by an argument concerning the alleged theft of pigeons and disappearance of liquor the group had bought.

Culpeper Officials Take Office Today

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Atwell Somerville will assume the role of Culpeper's salaryless mayor tomorrow.

For the first time in history, the mayor will serve without compensation. This situation is due to the judicial duties of the mayor having been taken over by trial justices, leaving the former position an honorary one.

Other officers taking office tomorrow include Fred P. Hudgins, recorder; Sayre Thompson, treasurer, and L. Frank Smith, Charles W. Hoffman, Robert W. Huffman, and F. H. White, councilmen. Dr. C. S. Bruce, appointed to serve out the unexpired term of L. A. Rhoades, will assume his duties at the September council meeting. Mr. Thompson, 22, is said to be the youngest town treasurer in the State.

Ballet of Pretty Girls to Feature Orange's Bicentennial Fete

Patrick Gorman, director of the Orange County, Va., bicentennial celebration and pageant, has started rehearsals for the pageant, "Creation Ballet," which will be one of the features of the celebration September 25 to 28. The rehearsals (left photo) are being held in the churchyard of historic St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Orange. Right photo, Mr. Gorman, left, and his assistant, Walter M. Broddy, discuss celebration plans while standing in front of the tree to which Gen. Robert E. Lee tied his horse while attending service at St. Thomas' Church during the Civil War. Orange County Bicentennial Group Picks Ten Princesses

Wycliff Scott, Granddaughter of Virginia Historian, to Reign as Queen at Celebration to Be Held From September 25 to 28.

By a Staff Correspondent.

Orange, Va., Aug. 31.—Ten princesses for the court of the queen of the Orange County Bicentennial celebration to be held here September 25 to 28 have been announced, each member of the court being from a county which was carved from Orange.

Miss Wycliff Scott, granddaughter of W. W. Scott, Virginia historian, will reign as queen, with Miss Florence Sanford as Miss Columbia. Princesses chosen include Miss Frances Hill, of Roanoke, Roanoke County; Miss Rebecca Beverage, of Monterey, Highland County; Miss Addie Lee Jarman, of Standardsville, Greene County; Miss Edna Earl Clore, Madison County; Miss Mildred Graves, Luray, Page County; Miss Elizabeth Rhoades, Culpeper County; Miss Virginia Fletcher, Rappahannock County; Miss Catherine Brown McVicar, Winchester, Frederick County; Miss Carroll Snidow, of Pearisburg, Giles County, and Miss Anna James Smith, Russell County. Each princess is a direct lineal descendant of a resident of their county at the time it was part of Orange County.

A score or more princesses are yet to be named. In Colonial days, Orange County was the largest in the Nation, its territory embracing what was known as the "Northwest Territory."

Roosevelt Is Invited.

Gov. Peery has invited the Nation to be present at the Orange celebration, and President Roosevelt will be especially invited by Senator Byrd. Gov. Peery said:

"The history of Orange County is indeed remarkable. Its original limitations, as prescribed by act of the House of Burgesses, included the present States of West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan and part of Wisconsin. Prior to the year 1734 Orange County occupied all that region lying west of the Blue Ridge Mountains to the Mississippi River, which was bounded on the north by Maryland and on the south by the southern boundaries of Kentucky and Tennessee. Passing around the boundaries of Maryland, Orange County extended to the borders of the Great Lakes. It was indeed a vast domain."

Patrick Gorman, director of the celebration, has announced plans for a pageant which will enact in pantomime the history of Orange County. The Rev. C. J. Ryley will tell the story. The queen will enter upon a dias, after which there will be an address of welcome and the presentation of three young ladies, representing 1734, 1834 and 1934, dressed in appropriate costume. Miss Columbia, represented by Miss Sanford, will enter, followed by girls representing the 48 States.

There will be a ballet of creation including 65 girls, who will portray land, sky and water. There will be episodes to show the coming of the Indians, the arrival of white settlers and how they overcame their difficulties and the first settlement at Germanna.

Pageant Scenes Planned.

Additional pageant scenes will include a sketch of the history of the county in its various stages. There will be the Minute Men of the Revolution, the exploration of the Valley of Shenandoah under the leadership of the Colonial Governor Spotswood, the War Between the States and the World War soldiers leaving their home in Orange. The grand finale will present a cast of 1,000 persons in a huge revolving wheel rotating to the music of 1,000 voices.

Dr. Alexander Waddel, member of the staff of the Medical School of the University of Virginia, and his daughter, Miss Katherine Waddel, will play the parts of the blind teacher and his daughter. The parts of the pioneer man and woman will be taken by Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Nottingham, of Orange. Taylor Grasty, of Orange, will impersonate Gen. Lafayette, and Goree Waugh will enact the part of "Mad Anthony" Wayne. A. J. Harlow has been selected for the part of Parson Leland, and the Colonial Lieut. Gov. Spotswood will be represented by Harrison Spotswood.

Mrs. John J. Davis, of Washington, and the Misses E. M. Jerdone and L. A. Jerdone have offered Bloomsbury, historic home of the Taylor family, built by the great-grandfather of President Zachary Taylor, to the bicentennial committee for services in honor of the 200th birthday of the county and of the sequicentennial of the birth of President Taylor. The main part of the house was built in 1722. It is about 4 miles east of Orange.

A special feature of the celebration will be an exhibition of ancient relics, most of them owned by distinguished residents of Orange County and bequeathed to their descendants now living there. The collection of relics has been made by Miss Sally Helen Comb, of Orange, and D. N. Davidson, chairman of the general committee of the celebration and historian of the county, assisted by a large group of descendants of the first families of Orange. Search for the family heirlooms carried them to many parts of West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Michigan and Wisconsin. Included in the relics are the following:

A mirror owned by Eleanor Conway, mother of President James Madison; a sword cane owned by James Madison Macon, nephew of the President; silver and china from the home of Gideon Macon, Huguenot secretary and interpreter to Gov. Berkeley; an iron wash basin and iron fireback bearing the British royal arms, both cast at Gov. Spotswood's iron foundry at Germanna and now the property of Mrs. Raleigh Taylor; a dining table owned by President Madison; a medical diploma issued to Dr. Charles Minor 150 years ago by Edinburg University, now the property of Lindsay Woolfolk; an old wheat scale more than 150 years old which came from an old mill built by T. W. Walker in 1783, the property of O. W. Carver, Gordonsville; two brass ornaments which held back window draperies in the tavern beside old plank road at which Lafayette stopped many times, loaned by Mrs. Bell C. Foster, of Lahore, Va.; a hickory cane which belonged to Gov. Spotswood; one of the first powers of attorney issued in this country from England after the former became an independent nation, the paper having been issued to William Mitchell, of Harrisonburg, to collect a bill for board and lodging made by Gov. Spotswood's grandsons while at Eton in 1763.

Frederick Tax Rate Advanced

Levy Increased 10 Cents to 95 Cents; Water Rent to Be Cut.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Mayor Lloyd C. Culler and the board of aldermen at a special meeting set the city tax rate for the year beginning tomorrow at 95 cents on the $100, an advance of 10 cents over the former rate.

At the same time announcement was made that beginning October 1 a reduction in water rents averaging from $2 to $3 per year will go into effect.

Mayor Culler said the increase in the tax rate is due to the following unusual appropriations: $2,410.67 for repairs to a fire engine which crashed through a plate glass store window, responding to a fire! $750 extra expense to repair another fire engine; $4,370.72 election expenses; $2,000 for new trucks; $1,700 for the local charity organization, and $3,000 emergency relief work in cooperation with the Federal Government. In addition to these items a contingent fund of $7,800 was set up to take care of unforeseen expenditures.

The estimated revenue from all sources is $278,082.03. The largest items are, water rents, $75,500; rent of opera house, $6,306; taxes on real estate, $136,929.70; personal property, $15,305.28; securities, $2,529.65; business corporations, $9,500; share corporations, $25,650; bank shares, $6,126.16.

The largest expenditures include interest on bonded indebtedness, $31,000; light department, $14,990; street maintenance, $14,400; street construction, $12,600; fire companies, $22,101.67; municipal park, $5,700; police department, $23,400; curb and gutter construction, $4,964; garbage removal, $9,500.

350 Grangers To Meet Today At Frederick

Farmers to Hear Dairy Cattle Test Plans at Event Sept. 12.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.). The quarterly meeting of Pomona Grange, embracing seven subordinate units in Frederick County and three in Washington County, will be held at Smithsburg, Washington County, tomorrow. David Fry, Jefferson, master, will preside. The afternoon session will be devoted to addresses under the direction of the lecturer, Edward F. Holter, Middletown.

The business session will include reports by the tax, legislative and fair committees and a discussion on plans for the annual convention of the State Grange in Frederick December 4, 5 and 6. J. Homer Remsberg, Middletown, chairman of the State executive committee, is chairman of the entertainment committee for the convention. Between 300 and 350 delegates and members from the 50 granges of the State are expected.

The grange is advocating an income tax for the relief of the general property tax. A report on the Grange, Farm Bureau, Federation of Rural Women's Clubs picnic, recently held at the Farmers Club woods, near Petersville, will be made by Alvie M. Etzler, Mount Pleasant, chairman of the picnic committee.

E. I. Oswald to Speak.

The principal speaker will be E. I. Oswald, county agent leader of the Extension Service, University of Maryland. Presentation of awards to members of 4-H Clubs for outstanding work during the year will be given jointly by the three granges of Washington County.

Granges embracing the Pomona body are Jefferson, New Market, Ballenger, Lewiston, Braddock, Middletown and Mount Pleasant, Frederick County, and Smithsburg, Leitersburg and Indian Spring, Washington County.

A meeting of farmers will be held at the courthouse here, September 12, at 7:30 p. m., when speakers will explain the AAA dairy program, which will be launched in Frederick County. It deals with testing cattle for Bang's disease, and is an agricultural relief project similar to the wheat and corn-hog curtailment plan.

The speakers will be Dr. E. B. Simonds, of the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry, and Louis McL. Merriman, of the Dairy Production Department of the AAA, Washington. The plan provides for curtailment of cattle and at the same time offers farmers an opportunity to eliminate diseased animals from their herds at an advantage through testing. The Government will pay $50 per head for pure bred dairy cows and $20 per head for grade animals which react to the test.

Tests to Be Free.

Forms of agreement have been received at the office of Henry R. Shoemaker, county agent, for farmers who desire to participate in the Government's plan. No charge is made for testing cattle, which will be under the supervision of Dr. C. B. Weagley, Middletown, in charge of tuberculosis eradication among cattle in Maryland.

Next Wednesday has been designated Farm Bureau Day at Timonium State Fair, the week of September 4, when every farm bureau member in Maryland will be admitted free of charge. Secretary-Treasurer Thomas S. Anderson, of the Frederick Farm Bureau, received a number of tickets yesterday, two of which will be given to the head of every Farm Bureau family. Thursday will be Governor's Day. A number of 4-H Club boys and girls will enter exhibits.

Dunnaway Named Auditor.

Richmond, Aug. 31 (AP).—State Auditor McCarthy Downs today announced that T. S. Dunnaway, of his staff, has been appointed an auditor for the State Commission of Fisheries, with offices at Newport News.

Judge Probes Death Threats To Mais Juror

Lone Man Delayed Verdict Because of Retaliation Fear, He Says.

Richmond, Aug. 31 (AP).—W. H. Kelly, jr., juror in the trial of Robert Mais, said tonight that on Monday, the day the trial opened, he was accosted on the street by a man and handed a note which threatened him with reprisals should Mais be found guilty and sentenced to death.

Mais, a member of the tri-State gang of postoffice and highway robbers and stickup men, was convicted last night by Kelly and his fellow jurors of the murder of E. M. Huband in a holdup here and sentenced to the electric chair.

The jury was out four hours and other members of the jury said today that it was Kelly's insistence that Mais be saved from the electric chair that delayed the verdict until late last night.

Kelly, beyond saying that he had received the threat note, refused to tell reporters the details of the incident. He said he had been advised by friends that it was better that he say nothing. From another member of the jury, however, investigators learned that Kelly was adamant in his refusal to vote Mais to the chair until the last minute the jury was out. Then he told others of the threat.

Kelly told the other jurors that on Monday evening as he emerged from a Broad Street drug store here a man stepped up to him and asked him if he were not "on the Mais jury." Kelly told the man he had been drawn. The stranger then thrust a note into Kelly's hand. Questioned by reporters tonight, Kelly was either unable or unwilling to describe the man or to repeat the threat message.

Judge John L. Ingram, who presided at the trial; Commonwealth's Attorney T. Gray Haddon, who prosecuted, and M. Haley Shelton, defense counsel, all refused official statements on the incident. Judge Ingram did say, however, that he was "investigating" a report of a threat.

Chief of Police Robert Jordan said: "All I know about the case is what I read in the papers."

Mrs. Kelly, wife of the juryman who says he received the note, said this afternoon that she knew nothing of the threat and that if there were a police guard around their house last night she did not know it.

Virginia Lime Makers Ask Cut in Rail Rate

The Southwest Virginia Lime Producers Association yesterday entered complaint before the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Aberdeen & Rockfish Railroad Co., others asking that rates on common, hydrade, quick or slack lime between Virginia and other Southern States be revised downward, the Associated Press reported.

The association is composed of the Kimbalton Lime Co., Inc., of Shawsville, Va.; Ripplemead Lime Co., Inc., of Ripplemead, Va.; James River Hydrade & Supply Inc., of Indian Rock, Va.; Eagle Rock Lime Co., of Eagle Rock, Va., and the Virginia Lime Products Co., Inc., of Eagle Rock.

Staunton Man Vanishes.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Walter T. King, 22, of Staunton, an employe of the H. L. Lang Co., has been missing since Monday night, it was reported today. Authorities, without clews as to his disappearance, described King as being of slender build, weight about 120 pounds, height 5 feet 7 inches, and having blue eyes. He wears glasses.

Shades of Walton! Bass Gulps Two Hooks in Potomac

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.). J. Albert Hawken, local editor, came back from a Potomac River fishing trip today with the best fish story of the season.

Fishing in opposite ends of the boat, Hawken and Isaac Palmer, guide, had almost simultaneous strikes, and both snagged their fish. When they reeled in they found that the bass, weighing a pound and a half, had first swallowed Palmer's stonecat and was hooked in the throat, and then had taken the editor's bait and hook, which snagged the bass in the mouth.

Legion Meeting Opens Sunday At Lynchburg

10,000 Are Expected to Attend; Grand Parade Set for Tuesday.

By Staff Correspondent.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 31.—Ten thousand Virginia veterans of World War days are expected to gather in Lynchburg this week-end for the annual convention of the Virginia Department, American Legion, Sunday through Thursday.

The convention will open Sunday evening with a memorial service for departed legionnaires in the Trenton Theater. This service is sponsored by the legion, the Legion Auxiliary, the Forty and Eight and the Eight and Forty. The Rev. Richard Henry Lee, pastor of Grace Memorial Church, will be the principal speaker. Homer H. Bowen, State commander of the legion, will preside.

A selected group from the Forty and Eight will present "The Unknown Soldier," while other features will include a musical program by a quartet, addresses by the State chaplain, the Rev. D. C. George, and Mrs. W. P. Mathews, State president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a grand parade, in which 7,000 men and women are expected to march. Twelve bands and drum and bugle corps and a score of artistic floats will be included.

Tuesday evening, the finals in the beauty contest will be held when "Miss Virginia, 1934" will be selected from a hundred beauty winners in local contests conducted by legion posts throughout the State. "Miss Virginia" will represent the State in the National legion beauty contest at Miami, Fla., in October.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of veterans' affairs, will address the convention Monday morning. Poppy days will be observed both Monday and Tuesday and dances will be held in the City Armory Monday and Tuesday nights.

Other features of the convention will include a concert by the Portsmouth (Va.) Glee Club, composed of 20 women, a concert by the Miami (Fla.) American Legion Band, an aerial circus and a baseball game.

Truck Crash Kills Man On Washington Highway

Richmond, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Careening into the concrete side of a bridge on the Washington highway today the cab of a large truck was demolished, bringing death to one man and injury to another.

Lester Goodwin, 40, of Oriental, N. C., was pronounced dead when he reached Memorial Hospital. John Repass, 40, of the same town, who was driving the vehicle, suffered lacerations to the head and right arm. Goodwin was riding beside the driver and received the full force of the impact.

Virginia's First Antique Show Stirs Interest of Four States

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.). Virginia's first antique show, under way at Huntley Park, near Frys Spring, is drawing visitors from many sections of the State.

The exhibit is not only beautiful and unique, but is giving a rare glimpse of the old, the treasured and the historic.

Eleven exhibitors from four States and the District of Columbia have brought their displays of ancient furniture, glassware, clothing, paintings, &c., to the show, which also is augmented by many exhibits loaned by local residents.

The out-of-town exhibitors include Mrs. Augusta Heyer Smith, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., considered the outstanding collector of old jewelry in this country; her brother, Mr. Heyer, who specializes in glassware; the Howerton Mercantile Co., of Clarksville, Va., exhibiting antiques and reproductions; the Old Print Exchange, of New York City, showing a large and varied assortment of prints from American and French life; D. M. Boney, Inc., of Richmond, who has one of the best silver collections in the East; the Biggs Antique Co., Inc., of Washington and Richmond, displaying an attractive outlay of furniture; Mrs. Polly Tannehill, of Staunton, Va., who has on display American and English furniture and glassware; Mrs. Bertha R. Robbins, of the Robbinstone House, Macedon, N. Y., who has a collection of Staffordshire china, patterns of pressed glass and an unusual collection of baskets.

Local exhibitors include Mrs. Nellie Patterson, of the Old Curiosity Shop; Laurie Payne, proprietor of the First Street Antique Shop; Theodore R. Wood and Lawrence H. Allen, of the Good Furniture Studios, and the A. D. Payne Antique Co.

The hostesses for the show are attired in old-fashioned costumes, once worn by Charlottesville and Albemarle residents and loaned by local enthusiasts. Misses Josephine Peyton, Ellen Barbour Compton, Mary Shepherd, Lucy Flippin, Marjorie Copenhaver and Mary Holladay acted as hostesses last night.

Ritchie Limits Primary Plans To 3 Speeches

Decides Not to Tour State; Irritated by Rumors of Illness.

Baltimore, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Confident of victory in the primary election September 12, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie will not tour Maryland in advance of primary day, he announced today.

So certain is he of defeating his rival, Dr. Charles H. Conley, of Frederick, that his principal preprimary activities will be confined to three speeches in Baltimore, the Governor said. He is trusting his supporters in the counties to carry those sections for him.

Bronzed and in perfect health following his vacation trip to France, the Governor stated today that he will extend his vacation somewhat by visiting Ocean City over the week-end. He is expected to leave tomorrow. While on the lower Eastern Shore he expects his supporters in that section to visit him at his hotel.

Delighted at Reception.

The Governor was delighted and touched, he said, by the reception accorded him at Mount Royal Station yesterday when he first put foot upon Maryland soil upon his return from France. Today he plunged into the task of becoming acquainted with political developments during his absence. He called on various leaders, among them Charles H. Knapp, president of the International Baseball League, and Robert B. Ennis and William Curran, political bosses of Baltimore City.

Several county Democratic leaders boarded his train in Washington on his home-coming trip to Baltimore yesterday, and assured him he had little to fear. Former Judge William C. Walsh, of Cumberland, western Maryland leader, assured the Governor he will certainly carry Allegany and Garrett Counties, and has a good chance in Washington and Montgomery.

Dr. Conley's own county of Frederick is by no means conceded to the crusading physician, but the Ritchie advisers informed the Governor that it appears likely he will lose several Eastern Shore counties.

Scouts Disability Rumor.

It is understood the Governor will make no attacks upon Dr. Conley in his three speeches in the city, but will merely renew his friendship with the district leaders and thousands of voters he knows personally. Also, he will appear to set at rest the rumors that he is physically unable to handle the office of Governor, he indicated.

He appeared extremely irritated at reports that have been current that he was gravely ill at the time he sailed for France, and characterized the reports as "backstairs gossip" and "mudslinging."

Rally Held at Frostburg.

Frostburg, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Edward J. Ryan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senate, presided at a county-wide rally last night in Firemen's Hall. Judge F. A. Puderbaugh and Fuller Barnard, Cumberland, were the principal speakers. Election and registration laws were explained.

The Democrats of Mount Savage held a meeting in the Firemen's Hall last night. Charles Sloan, candidate for the State central committee, a resident of Mount Savage, presided. Addresses were made by W. Carl Richards, candidate for the State Senate; James Dundon, Martin M. Corrigan and Miss Marguerite McDonald, candidates for the State central committee, and John H. Mansfield, candidate for delegate to the State convention. All speakers urged the importance of "overthrowing the Walsh dictatorship." Cards showing the names of the anti-Walsh candidates were distributed. About thirty citizens of Mount Savage volunteered as workers in the campaign.

Three Withdraw in Kent.

Chestertown, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.). A trio of candidates who filed for political office in Kent County last week have taken advantage of the election laws and withdrawn their names.

They are J. Merritt Thompson and Leroy Jacquette, both of Rock Hall and both independent Democratic candidates for the State central committee, and George E. Powell, Republican candidate for county commissioner. The Republican State central committee has filled the latter vacancy by naming Harry H. Legg, of Fairlee.

Alan L. Day to Return Home.

Warrenton, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.). Alan L. Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Turner Day, of Warrenton, has resigned his position with the Chase National Bank of New York, and will come to Warrenton at an early date to become associated with the People's National Bank of Warrenton, of which his father is cashier.

47 Graduated At University's Summer Term

Social Crisis Presents New Frontier, Dr. Knudsen Says in Address.

By Howard Turner.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 31.—President John Lloyd Newcomb of the University of Virginia last night conferred degrees upon 47 graduates at summer school commencement exercises in the university's McIntire Amphitheater here.

Included in the group of men and women completing work for bachelor and graduate degrees were representatives of 12 States and one foreign country. Dr. Charles G. Maphis, summer quarter dean, presented the candidates.

Dr. Knudson, of George Peobody College, Nashville, Tenn., the commencement speaker, selected as his topic: "Crises and Careers." He declared that a new American frontier had developed the social frontier, and cited the opportunities and need for college-trained men and women in the conquest of social problems.

"No longer may new lands to the Westward be opened," he said, "thereby offering temporary solution to social problems that had appeared in the developed sections of the country. The conquest of our physical environment is fairly complete. The conquest of the social frontier has just begun. The goals in the former were material and concrete. In the latter they are more intangible, but none the less real.

Trained Mind Has Easier Path.

"The ability to perceive and define goals whose worth resides in the extent to which they enable the greatest number to live the good life is easier for the trained mind than for the mind without training."

Some of the personal crises confronting recent graduates as they attempt to begin their careers Dr. Knudsen listed as public indifference to the kind of service the college graduate can render, the inhibiting influence of a hope that the world is about to round the corner where material prosperity has concealed itself so long, and the unwillingness to make a small beginning.

Dr. Knudsen warned against unqualified acceptance of social and political theories underlying Federal and State emergency projects in cases of graduates finding temporary employment of that nature. "There is grave doubt in the minds of many thoughtful persons concerning the social implications of many of these projects, and even greater doubt concerning the methods by which they continue to be financed," he declared.

Self-Reliant Attitude Urged.

"Opportunities continue to challenge him in whom the love of fellow man is kindled and fostered. Instead, then, of looking upon the personal crises that faces in beginning a career as unsurmountable, let the college graduate of the present take an attitude of self-reliance, not one of self-pity. May he have the assurance that there yet remain social frontiers to conquer, the conquest of which call for a new type of service and the ability to estimate properly the satisfaction of life.

"We has not lost the pattern by which great characters are moulded. To think we have represents either cynicism or an impudent piece of colossal conceit. The college graduate of the present will make a greater contribution to the improvement of the social order than was made by his sturdy forbears who conquered the physical frontier of an earlier day."

List of Graduates.

Those who were awarded degrees are:

Child Falls 40 Feet, But Suffers Only Minor Injuries

Baltimore, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Plunging 40 feet from a window of her home to a grape arbor in the back yard, Carolyn Ann Strickland, 20 months old, received only minor injuries, physicians at St. Joseph's Hospital said today.

The child's fall yesterday afternoon was witnessed by her father, who was playing with his 4-year-old son in the back yard. Carolyn Ann fell out a window on the third floor, dropped a few feet to the top of a bow window, and then caromed off to plunge 22 feet more to the roof of a basement porch. She bounced off that and dropped a dozen feet more to a grape arbor.

How the child reached the window ledge off which she fell is a mystery to her parents, who said she was unable to walk without support.

Eddie Lowe Is Dickering for New Agreement

(Reprinted from Yesterday's Last Edition.)

By Nelson B. Bell.

That loud talking you have been hearing—thickly punctuated with "sez you's" and "sez me's"—if you listen carefully, will be found to be coming from the general direction of the Fox lot, where they are talking shop with Edmund Lowe.

The new contract, when, as and if consummated, probably will be elastic, permitting the star who can be either hard-boiled or suavity itself—recall his Sergt. Quirt and then the society physician in "Dinner at Eight"—to accept assignment from other studios, possibly as often as three times a year.

Lowe recently appeared in "Gift of Gab," one of their first four pictures for the new season as set forth in this space yesterday, for Universal and is due back in Universal City for another feature in November, while Columbia expects him to team with Jack Holt in "Two for One," and another as yet unnamed.

Back With Capt. Flagg.

At any rate, there he is, this handsome Lowe fellow, back at Fox ready for a new feature that will reunite him with his habitual friendly enemy, Victor McLaglen. Rumors that he would replace the ailing Spencer Tracy in "Marie Galante," which has been temporarily halted, probably are without foundation.

I have to laugh every time I think of Eddie's coffee-and-pistols mustachios that look so black, pointed and perky on the screen. Actually, they are so blond that, along with his eyebrows, you would never see them at all if he didn't carefully douse them with mascara before going before the cameras or behind the footlights. But he is a grand guy, notwithstanding—and a very fair actor, both literally and figuratively.

Three stooges in search of Ted Healy—in other words, Howard, Fine and Howard, Inc. —are clear up to here in the first of a series of eight short-reel comedies for Columbia. These burly rascals will cavort through the gay episodes of a satirical little thing known as "Men in Black," a "take-off" on you guess what Pulitzer prize play that was afterward made into an almost equally successful picture, with L. Monta Bell as producer for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. As if that were not nonsense enough for one day, Andy Clyde will deliver six short comedies of his own, the first being dubbed euphoniously, "It's the Cats." The country could use a few good laughs, at that!

A New Farmer Stevens.

H. R. Baukhage, excellent Washington actor, made his first appearance in "The Drunkard," atop the Hotel Willard, last night, playing the role of Farmer Stevens with what the boys in the back room are accustomed to refer to as great elan. He will appear in the part regularly on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, with the exception, of course, of next week when the famous old melodrama will be given only on Thursday and Saturday nights owing to an earlier contract for the main ballroom of the Willard.

Recently the Roof Players had as their back stage guest at the Willard, Mr. H. E. Currier from the Cherry Lane Theater in Greenwich Village, New York, who himself plays the villian's role in the lower Manhattan production, presented without benefit of beer and pretzels. This is the role played so exceedingly well by M. Forney Reese at the Willard and by Fred Haskin, jr., out at the Roadside Theater. Mr. Currier reports that "The Drunkard" is playing to enormous business in the Village and that his company's next production—somewhere in the dim and far distant future—will be Augustin Daly's "Under the Gaslights," another celebrated old-time melo.

The fame of "The Drunkard" as enacted at the Willard, incidentally, has spread pretty well over the countryside. Tomorrow night a large group of members of the Fredericksburg Drama Club, which is under the direction of Levin Houston, will come up from Fredericksburg, Va., to see the show.

Nat Pendleton, whose forebears are no strangers to the City of Washington, in recognition of valiant conduct in "The Thin Man," "Death on the Diamond" and other recent films, has been retained by M-G-M under a new term contract. The bulky Mr. Pendleton's career has been unique in that first gaining reknown for his sinister presence in a cycle of gangster thrillers, he has gradually emerged from his hard-shelled masquerading in the semblance of a first-rate light comedian. Mr. Pendleton at one time was a heavyweight wrestler, but came to his senses in time!

According to Hoyle.

Items from the notebook of Bill Hoyle, Montgomery County's ear-to-the-ground theater operative, pastiming briefly on the Gay White Way—so called because it is not white and no longer very gay—en route to Boston:

Eleanor Powell, the stage's incomparable, raven-haired tap dancer, has just recovered from a tonsil operation and goes into the stage bill at the Capitol Theater next week . . . Cross and Dunn, headlining the Hollywood Restaurant floor show since last May 7, have never received less than six encores at a performance . . . They have been on nine out of 12 Fleischmann hour broadcasts, five of them in succession, and have just signed with Warner Bros. for five short screen subjects . . . Broadway's famous N. T. G.—that would be Nils T. Granlund—m. c. at the Paradise, hot night spot, is taking a new show over to the Dorchester in London to replace the one he already has there . . . Principals include Arnida, Norman Prescott, Ken Harvey and "The Golden Girl," who seems to be a Miss Rosezell Roland . . . Last Saturday night, Mr. Hoyle found himself lamentably involved—in the capacity of victim only, mind you—in the first case of stench-bombing anyone can remember on Broadway . . . It happened in the entrance corridors of the "Mayfair" as a result of an operators' strike . . . It effectually put a damper on the goings-on for that night . . . Jack Denny, well known locally by reason of his engagements at Wardman and Loew's Fox, finished an engagement at the State last night and after a week's layoff will pick up at the Pierre . . . And thanks to you, Bill, for taking the trouble.

Owing to the success of previous Bing Crosby screen attractions in the National Capital, it is announced from the executive offices of the Warner Brothers that a special schedule of performances will be in force for the Washington premiere of "She Loves Me Not" at the Earle Theater today, as well as for Saturday and Monday. Today's schedule of six features and five de luxe performances will be found in the "film tables" on this page and will prevail also tomorrow and Monday. On Sunday, four performances will be given at 2:50, 5:20, 7:50 and 10:20 p. m.

New Distaff, Too.

A new alliance of comedy talents will be disclosed to Washington's picture-going populace today at RKO-Keith's Theater, where RKO-Radio's musical production of "Down to Their Last Yacht" bows in as the Labor Day week screen feature.

For the first time, Mary Boland, famous for her many comedy roles on both stage and screen, and Polly Moran, celebrated for her individual low comedy and as a teammate of the late Marie Dressler, will combine their comic endowments as a man-minded queen of a tropical island and a ship-wrecked captive who becomes her masseuse, respectively.

These able comediennes of such sharply contrasted methods are supported by a cast of 27—count 'em—27 fun-making favorites, a chorus of 100 (or thereabouts) walnut-stained chorus gals and 24 perfect males—if there is any such animal!

Yesterday afternoon at 3, the kiddies who have been confined to their beds in the Children's Hospital, Thirteenth and W streets northwest, longer than any kiddie ought to be confined there were given a real treat through the kindly thoughtfulness of Nathan A. Stiefel, manager of the Howard Theater. Mr. Stiefel went to the trouble and expense of setting up motion picture projection machines and sound apparatus and giving the youngsters a full program of talking pictures. This kindly gesture brought an hour or two of sheer delight into little lives that a good deal of the time, I am afraid, are not too happy. An extra star opposite your name, Mr. Stiefel.

What's-in-a-Name Note.

Gus Edwards launched him in his "Kid Kabaret." Since then he has been "Kid Boots," "Kid From Spain" and now "Kid Millions."

By Speed Kendall.

Hollywood, Aug. 30.—Mae West knows her diamonds, and there is one jeweler somewhere in Hollywood or Los Angeles who knows she knows them.

BETTY COMPSON.

Always noted for her big-heartedness, Miss West passed around $15,000 worth of presents to the cast, director and members of the crew that helped her make her picture, "Belle of the Nineties." This was her customary manner of thanking them for their cooperation in helping her make a successful picture under extraordinary circumstances accountable to the new censorship demands. One of the presents was a $1,000 diamond ring. To whom she gave it remained his and her secret yesterday. The ring was too large and the recipient took it back to the jeweler to be made smaller. He failed to notice the rock when he got it back, but when Miss West chanced to run into him on the Paramount lot she became infuriated. There was a different stone in the ring she had given him—a yellow diamond instead of the original blue-white sparkler.

In 15 minutes she had the jeweler on the carpet. He professed a mistake had been made. Anyway, when the ring was returned to Miss West the right diamond was back in its place. The stone was one from her collection—a hobby with her.

Miss West didn't forget a soul in passing around her gifts. From the director down to the assistant property man there was an appropriate present. Odds are that everybody at the studio will want to work on her next production.

A Change For Miss Tobin.

In most of her film roles, Genevieve Tobin was seen as the cold, glamorous type, arousing no sympathy and bringing happiness and sorrow to others. Now, for the first time, she is assuming a sympathetic role in "By Your Leave," at Radio Studio, and also for the first time in her career she will shed screen tears.

New Venture In Orient.

Betty Compson was on her way yesterday to conquer new fields of adventure. She is headed for China, and there, under a newly formed company, she will become Betty Compson, film director. In her possession when she left Hollywood was a contract for her to direct Chinese productions with native casts and spoken in Chinese. Her husband, Irving Weinberg, now in Shanghai, made all the unique arrangements for Miss Compson. As far as known, this is the first time a prominent Hollywood actress has been handed such an important post. How Miss Compson will manage to direct players who speak in the Oriental tongue is a moot question. But she seems willing to try. She plans making personal appearances in Australia and other countries while away.

Inside Dope On A. W. O. L.

No favoritism from Director Henry Hathaway. A veritable city arose overnight on a 3,200-acre ranch, 42 miles from Hollywood, for locations for the "Lives of a Bengal Lancer." Hathaway issued orders nobody was to leave the ranch except on week-ends. But we discovered that Gary Cooper has been secretly meeting his wife, Sandra Shaw, at a lodge several miles away.

Eastern Shore Firemen Meet

Sharptown Is Host to 16 Companies at Annual Carnival.

Sharptown, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.). Sixteen Eastern Shore fire companies, four bands and three drum corps were guests of local firemen in celebration of their annual carnival here last night.

The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum Corps of Salisbury both won prizes in the parade. Cambridge was awarded first prize for having the best band in the line of march. Delmar, Del., firemen won the award for presenting the best appearance and St. Michaels for coming the longest distance.

The judges were C. H. Truitt, of Salisbury; Clifton Phillips, of Laurel, and John S. Cooper, of Delmar, Md.

The fire companies in line were Laurel and Delmar, Del.; Fruitland, Easton, Selbyville, Del.; St. Michaels, Georgetown, Del.; Cambridge, Federalsburg, Willars, Princess Anne, Hebron, Pittsville, Frankford and Parsonsburg.

The carnival will continue throughout the week with special features. Last night featured a band concert and masked parade and another night will be set aside as candidates night, to which all aspirants for office from both political parties will be invited.

Killer to Be Heard On Freedom Plea

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.). Louis Berman, of Baltimore, serving a sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary for killing his attorney in 1928, will be given a hearing here on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Albert A. Doub at 11 a. m. September 4.

For a number of years Berman, a former merchant, has filed similar petitions in the Maryland courts, but they have been rejected. He studied law and prepared his own briefs.

When he was arraigned in 1928 for murder, his attorney pleaded insanity. Berman contends he was not given a sanity hearing by a jury as required by law and that his conviction violated the Constitution.

Labor Chiefs to Speak At Martinsburg Event

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—William Leader, president of Branch 1, American Federation of Hosiery Workers; Joseph Stainer, organizer of United Textile Workers of America; Thomas J. Williams, of the committee on conciliation, United States Department of Labor; and Miss Anna Meary, American Federation of Labor organizer, will be the chief speakers at an all-day Labor Day observance here Monday, local labor officials announced.

The afternoon speaking program will follow a parade of the various labor organizations.

Dog Lacks License; Owner Goes to Jail

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.). J. E. Boor, of Bedford road, arraigned in Peoples Court yesterday on a charge of failing to obtain a license for his dog, was fined $5 and costs and jailed for five days when he refused to pay the fine.

According to Clarence M. Dow, humane officer, Boor was notified he should have a license on the dog, but refused to buy a license until every one else in Allegany County who has a dog does likewise. Authorities say this is the first case of its kind here.

Rev. Millard G. Wilson Accepts Virginia Call

Frederick, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—The Rev. Millard G. Wilson, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, has accepted a call to the Cloverdale church, near Roanoke, Va., and will leave tomorrow to enter upon his new duties. He came to the local church five years ago.

He was president of the Frederick County dry campaign in 1933 and was vice president of the Ministerial Association in 1931. He took an active part in promoting community church work.

The Foulois Case.

Secretary of War Dern has taken a proper stand in refusing to remove Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois as chief of the Army Air Corps. Because of its dictatorial procedure the House Military Affairs Sub-committee deserves the rebuke administered by the Secretary. At the time the report demanding Maj. Gen. Foulois' dismissal was made public The Post pointed out that the committee had exceeded its power and that the report was in the nature of a judgment rather than an indictment. A similar contention is made by Secretary Dern.

This action by the Secretary of War does not remove the stigma placed upon Gen. Foulois' name by the committee's open imputation of dishonesty on his part. But it does bring into relief the fact that, as Secretary Dern so succinctly puts it, Gen. Foulois was denied his Constitutional rights. The report, said the Secretary, was "not limited to an indictment, but, in effect, finds the accused guilty, fixes the sentence, and calls on the Secretary of War to execute it." The truth of this statement is not open to question.

That the matter of granting Army contracts ought to be settled goes without question. Whether they should be made through competitive bidding or whether they should be "negotiated" is of great interest to those who ultimately pay the huge bill for the Army. But this question was subordinated to discussions of Gen. Foulois' conduct. The report of the sub-committee was a vicious attack upon a man who was obviously denied the right to cross-examine witnesses appearing against him, who was accused of misdemeanors without having been apprised of the charges against him, and who was given no opportunity for presenting his own defense, whether it was tenable or not. In other words, a grand jury found him guilty without due process of law.

When the sub-committee's report was made public Gen. Foulois demanded a public hearing. He even welcomed a court-martial. But Secretary Dern, who is the final authority in such matters, has wisely refused to carry out the arrogant demands of the subcommittee, in spite of threats that appropriations for the Air Corps might be reduced by way of reprisal. If there is any basis for the accusations of the sub-committee they should be publicly aired before a tribunal which would hear both sides of the case and judge it on its merits. The air service is one of the Army's most important branches. It, as well as Gen. Foulois, deserves better treatment than has been accorded it by the committee charged with this investigation.

Away From Self-Regulation.

Enforcement of code provisions upon non-cooperating firms continues to be one of the major problems confronting the NRA. In several instances that organization has attempted to discipline companies accused of code violations by forbidding them to use the Blue Eagle or by denying them Government contracts. It is obvious, however, that these penalties would not be effective in all cases. A more direct approach to the compliance problem is undertaken in the suit against a Washington printing concern.

Under the NRA Act the Federal courts are "invested with jurisdiction to prevent and restrain violations of any code of fair competition." Does this jurisdiction extend to companies that have not signed a code and do not care to have any dealings with the NRA? An injunction is sought against the W. F. Roberts Co. on the ground that it has violated a code to which it has never subscribed. If the injunction is granted, NRA will have a powerful weapon for use against so-called recalcitrant minorities that refuse to be codified.

On the other hand, it is apparent that refusal of the courts to grant an injunction would create a serious problem for the Recovery Administration. The defendant company, it is alleged, is attracting "to itself a large and increasing volume of business" because of its code violations. Competing firms are said to be suffering damage and loss, to the detriment of morale in the printing industry. Hence, direct court action is sought to prevent frustration of "the purposes and policies" of the NRA.

In some respects this suit appears to be related to President Roosevelt's recent mandate to the cotton garment industry. About 4,000 manufacturers were ordered to reduce working hours by 10 per cent and increase wages by 10 to 11 per cent. On the ground that the order "represents a complete and improper reversion of policy under the theory of voluntary code procedure," leaders in the industry have refused to accept it.

Both of these cases are interesting chiefly because of the influence they may have on NRA policy. Until recently that organization seemed to be moving toward a more liberal policy of industrial self-regulation. The attempt to impose arbitrary code changes on one industry and to secure adherence to a code by the injunction method points in the opposite direction. Even though the local suit may clarify the authority of the NRA over companies which remain outside the codes, it tends to confuse that agency's basic policies, which are already entangled in the controversy over reorganization.

The Underlying Issue.

Nathan L. Miller, former Governor of New York, has given the country a penetrating analysis of current tendencies. Too often our attention is absorbed in new developments and immediate issues to the exclusion of basic principles on which both our economic system and our political institutions have been built. The real test of the New Deal will not come in reorganization of the NRA, revision of the AAA program, nor even the President's new plan of economic security, but in the attitude of the Administration toward the fundamental concepts to which the American people are bound by temperament and tradition.

Only the politician trying to swing public sentiment in his own direction accuses the Administration of deliberately trying to undermine the Constitution. Actually, the New Deal was instituted as a means of lifting the country out of a desperate situation. In the struggle to attain economic recovery, the Government has greatly extended its powers. Public attention has been so much occupied with this effort that the older questions of individual freedom and initiative have been frequently ignored. It is this gradual process, by which the Federal Government has extended its arbitrary powers, against which Gov. Miller issues his warning.

"The permanent harm done by such abuse of power," Gov. Miller told the American Bar Association, "far outweighs the temporary good accomplished. The good is in plain view. The ultimate harm is not perceived. We are thus led to break down barriers to our immediate desires, unmindful that they are necessary to the preservation of our liberties." If it is the central purpose of the American Liberty League, of which Gov. Miller is a sponsor, to arouse public interest in this subtle growth of arbitrary power and bureaucracy, it can serve a useful purpose.

Gov. Miller's assumption that we must choose "between local autonomy, with its resulting weakness, and complete centralization of power, with its inevitable bureaucracy," is too dogmatic to be entirely accurate. There is no reason why an intelligent people should not minimize the weaknesses of local autonomy and at the same time avoid the pitfalls of dictatorship. In fact, it appears that a middle course, under which absolute freedom is balanced against the public interest, is the only practicable policy for a modern democratic country. Excess in one direction can not be cured by running to the opposite extreme.

The important thing is to avoid a surrender of fundamental principles to expediency. As Gov. Miller says, "at a time of experimentation to relieve economic and social distress and to promote recovery, short-cuts were sure to be taken and measures were sure to be adopted without too close a scrutiny of their constitutional validity." But the emergency is now gradually passing. There is an opportunity to make adjustments wherever the New Deal is found to be projecting out over the edge of constitutional authority. Legitimate efforts toward this end deserve the support of every citizen who wishes to preserve the best of the American political heritage.

Words And Music.

Tin Pan Alley! There used to be a sort of romantic association with that phrase, back in the days when Irving Berlin and others were banging away at off-key pianos, knocking out popular and tuneful songs. But now, alas, what romance is there left?

When the Government steps in, romance steps out. There are some who will say that beauty stepped out long ago—if ever it was a tenant of Tin Pan Alley. But that, of course, is quibbling, and perhaps such popular and touching hits as "For All Ye Know" and even "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" were not written in that geographically mythical street.

Artistically, if not in other ways, the Government seems to have made out a case against the alley artists. Its charges have only to do with such mundane questions as whether a monopoly does or does not exist therein. We refrain from encroaching upon the jurisdiction of the court in deciding whether one group controls "practically all of the musical compositions demanded by the public of the United States for entertainment purposes." We are interested only in the products, and let the royalties go hang.

It is the phrase used by the Government in this matter of The People vs. Tin Pan Alley that fascinates. What basis is there for saying we, the public, "demand" popular music? It is inescapable. It starts with the setting-up exercises. It lasts until the static and the midnight bells chime together. It is not a matter of demand. It is purely a matter of supply.

The courts may decide that the making of music is a monopoly or they may not. The inescapable fact is that its making is a big industry, and anyone whose ear is assiduously tuned to the radio o' nights is pretty apt to tell you that a little more inspiration and a little less imitation are what the mass producers need above all else.

A Slip On The Hill?

In preparing to select its personnel, the Securities and Exchange Commission assumed, as a matter of course, that competitive examinations would not be necessary. Congress so completely abandoned the merit system during its last two sessions that any other assumption would have been novel. If the RFC, the HOLC, the FERA and dozens of other recovery organizations are open to the spoils system, it is not logical to suppose that the SEC could escape. But Comptroller General McCarl has decided that employes of this important new commission must be chosen in accordance with civil service regulations.

It is gratifying, of course, to learn that at least one of the numerous alphabetical organizations will be closed to the political job-hunters. Certainly the Securities and Exchange Commission could not properly be staffed by employes responsible to politicians for their jobs. Yet the status of this commission is not essentially different from that of other powerful Federal agencies carrying on business operations with taxpayers' money and supervising private enterprise. In view of Congress' consistent policy of opening New Deal agencies to the spoilsmen, the clause on which Mr. McCarl based his rulings must be the result of an inadvertent slip in our legislative machinery.

Peace In Gran Chaco?

There is good news from the Gran Chaco at last. Paraguay has announced its willingness to discuss a settlement of the senseless war that has for two years made a green hell of that region. Since Paraguay has made considerable headway in driving the Bolivians back through the disputed territory its decision is significant.

The proposal for mediation was made jointly by the United States, Argentina and Brazil. Bolivia is reported about to accept, and observers at Buenos Aires are of the opinion that President Daniel Salamanca will shortly order a cessation of hostilities, while negotiations toward a lasting peace are in progress.

Details of the proposed peace conference are lacking, but, according to the United Press, acceptance of an immediate truce pending formal negotiations would mean the renunciation by Bolivia of a large territory it has occupied for more than 25 years. Most of this region is already in the possession of Paraguayan troops. Before the matter of settling the ancient dispute over this territory can be reached, however, there are several delicate technical questions to be discussed. Whether permanent peace can be effected, after two years of intense fighting, is difficult to predict at this distance.

The State Department is believed to be keeping in the background as much as possible on the theory that the matter is primarily one of South American diplomacy. This hands-off policy is understandable. Nevertheless, the bloody Chaco warfare—which was being fought with American munitions until the recent embargo—is of great interest to this country. If peace is attained by mediation in this particularly heated controversy those who have consistently argued for this method of international settlement will have an excellent case on their side. Ultimately negotiations are always necessary to bring about what guns fail, at a great cost, to achieve.

Coordination In Order.

From its convention in Milwaukee the American Bar Association has issued a new challenge to crime. Its program was heavy with speeches on law enforcement. Discussion of the problems arising from the depredations of gangland ran to unprecedented length. What is more important, however, the bar association recognized its own responsibility for aggressive leadership in the war on crime and outlined a program to make its influence effective.

Governors will be asked to appoint lawyer-layman committees for the purpose of centering attention upon local crime problems. Committees will be appointed by State and local bar associations to secure adoption of model criminal codes and tighten up the so-called machinery of justice. Four specific reforms in judicial procedure will be sought, with the object of facilitating conviction of criminals.

The most important objective of the bar association seems to be coordination of local law enforcement activities. With this end in view the association urges establishment of a department of justice in every State to supervise the work of prosecuting attorneys, sheriffs, police departments and coroners. Want of such supervision is one of the most glaring defects in the law-enforcement agencies of most States.

The Federal Government has proved that criminal gangs can be uprooted through persistent, cooperative efforts. Activities of the Department of Justice have been peculiarly successful because it is not frustrated by divided responsibility, collusion between criminals and politicians nor inefficient prosecutors.

The department is developing an organization which is feared by criminals throughout the country. And they have good reason to fear it. But, of course, this Federal agency can not undertake the job of enforcing State laws. The Government has given the States a pattern to follow, and has proved its effectiveness. It remains for the States to organize their own law-enforcement machines along modern lines, so that they will be able to push the fight against crime on the local front.

Mere organization of new agencies would not be effective. As Assistant Attorney General Keenan pointed out, united public support is essential to bring crime under control. But public enthusiasm for law and order would be greatly facilitated by the organization of efficient agencies to translate the public will into action. If the bar association carries its campaign into every city where obsolete methods still make a farce of justice, it will accomplish a National service.

A Parade of the Past From the Files of The Post.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

A GERMAN AVIATOR flew over Paris and dropped five bombs in the most populous quarters of the city. Two women were wounded. The aviator dropped manifestos on which were written: "The German army is at the gates of Paris; you can do nothing but surrender." They were signed, Lieut. von Heidssen.

THERE WERE 1,000,000 men engaged in the battle on the Austro-Russian frontier. The Russians, who were on the offensive, penetrated more than 20 miles into Austrian territory. A dispatch said that Russian operations continued successfully, and that it would be a question of only a few days before the Germans would be driven beyond the Vistula.

"It Might Be Worse."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There has been much written in the press during the past year about the manner in which the civil service law has been violated by the Democrats. The fact of the matter is that that law has been evaded and nullified by both political parties ever since it became a law. We think it was a Democratic President—Grover Cleveland—who said: "A public office is a public trust," and not to be looked upon as a "private snap."

If our memory is not at fault, we think it was a Republican President—Harding—who helped to violate that law by discharging without just cause or provocation several hundred old, competent and trusted employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Before the last Republican President went out of the White House we understand he appointed, or his coadjutors appointed, several hundred clerks in Government departments who had no civil service standing—had taken no examination to show their fitness to hold office.

They were covered into the service by a blanket order, but we don't remember of seeing anything about it in the papers which today are "shedding crocodile tears" because the wicked Democrats are violating the civil service law to put men in office who are Democrats.

Several years ago hundreds of employes of the Government Printing Office were let out. Most of them were Democrats. Of course, politics had nothing to do with their discharge. Many of these employes had only a short time to serve before being entitled to the full pension, but they had to make room for deserving Republicans.

So, in conclusion, we would say to our Republican friends who are so solicitous about violation of the civil service law at this time to cheer up. It might possibly be worse. It is a well-known fact that President Roosevelt is a firm believer in the civil service law. It is our opinion that about two-thirds of the men holding "key" positions under the Government are either Republicans or former Republicans—"temporary" Democrats.

It is true the Democrats have something to be thankful for—they have "a 5-to-3 majority in the Cabinet."

Terrible—Terrible!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Theodore (Teddy) Roosevelt, a Republican, was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy, then became Governor of New York and President of the United States. He spoke softly and wielded a "Big Stick," and forced Congress to do his bidding, deriving his power from his great popularity with the common people. He was unable, however, to force a Republican convention to give him a second nomination for the Presidency, and then turned to the left and organized the Bull Moose or Progressive party.

Theodore Roosevelt, jr., a Republican, was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and tried to follow in his father's footsteps and become Governor of New York, and aspires to the Presidency.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, a Democrat, was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy, then became Governor of New York and President of the United States. He also speaks softly and wields a "Big Stick" and has the Congress blindly doing his bidding, drawing his powers from his great popularity with the common people. Political expediency has turned him to the left and to close association with the Progressives, founded by Teddy.

Henry Roosevelt, a Democrat, has been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy, the beginning of the Roosevelt political trail, through the Governorship of New York, to the White House.

With a Roosevelt from each of the two leading political parties occupying the White House, and another in each of those two parties hot on the trail, is not an interested observer justified in wondering whether it is merely coincidence or a well-considered plan to establish a Roosevelt dynasty in this country? This is a two-party country, and whichever party is in power finds a Roosevelt ready and willing to step into the White House.

The Privilege of Work.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Great discoveries are being made in the field of political economy and government by our best minds. The new idea of the "sales tax," to relieve the intolerable tax burden of our land owners, is one of the contributions to right thinking peculiar to America. It will soon dissipate the clouds of depression, and put the chicken in every pot.

However, the new idea should take in the obvious fact of the day that working is a privilege, and not a right, as formerly supposed. That error in thinking has caused us to see things upside down, and now that we have progressed to the point of making the merchant pay for the privilege of distributing the goods, of course we must go a step further and make every man pay for the privilege of working.

"Unearned Increment."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is one factor in human affairs never even mentioned, as a stumbling block, by any high official of the "New Deal." That factor is interest for money—sole cause of all our troubles. Although not a single person near the Administration ever advocates anything but more interest and more debt, the prime unearned increment keeps us all eternally in bondage, and no amount of potage de l'alphabete—alphabetical soup, to you—will do a particle of good until this cancer of the currency is given the knife. For, at the best, the bulk of humanity will not be working for themselves but for the moneylenders. FRANKLIN HOPKINS.

"Lively Esperanto."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Apropos of the recent Post Impressionist column on Esperanto, you may not consider it amiss if I give a bit of information extracted from the "Enciklopedio de Esperanto," of which the first volume has just appeared at Budapest.

The Bible is a considerable book for any publisher to undertake—considerably longer, I believe, than "Anthony A[illegible]"—and it may be assumed th[illegible]he British and Foreign Bi[illegible]ociety would not publish this [illegible]k in a language which had c[illegible] to an end, yet the complete Bib[illegible] appeared in Esperanto in 1926—nearly 1,000 pages. Another edition had to be printed in 1927, and up to the 31st of December, 1931, there had been sold 22,727 copies of the New Testament in Esperanto—14,231 copies of the Gospels and Psalms—5,444 copies of the complete Bible.

A Scholar in Congress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On February 7, 1930, Representative Ross A. Collins made a two-hour speech in the House of Representatives which stands out, in the words of a colleague of some 50 years' experience in the publishing and bookselling industries, as one of the "epoch speeches on this historic floor." That colleague was the late Honorable David J. O'Connell, of New York, past president of the Booksellers League of New York, and connected for many years with the publishing business in New York City.

The speech was both an historical review of the efforts down the years to upbuild the Library of Congress and an impassioned plea for the passage of a bill he had just introduced for our own collective ownership of 3,000 incunabula, including a unique, three-volume, vellum-printed edition of the world-famous 42-line Bible of Johann Gensfleisch zu Gutenberg, now known as the St. Blasius-St. Paul copy. These incunabula formed two-thirds of the collection of fifteenth century works assembled by the celebrated collector, Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr.

Thousands of newspapers and journals, particularly The Post, took up the speech and reechoed its purpose throughout the length and breadth of the United States. Coming as it did at the height of the London naval conference of that year, there arose a great slogan:

"Let us have parity in scholarship as well as in ships, in culture as well as cruisers, in books as in battleships!"

A crystallization of sentiment was effected so Nation-wide in scope, and so vehement, that the Collins bill was passed by both the House and Senate without a single vote recorded against it, although its passage meant the appropriation of $1,500,000 to purchase the incunabula, and that the precedent of placing Uncle Sam in the rare book-buying field would be established.

Acquisition of the 3,000 cradle books elevated our National Library to an unquestioned parity with the British Museum and the Bibliotheque National. Whereas up to that time we had not even an imperfect paper copy of the Gutenberg Bible, the St. Blasius-St. Paul copy—that "incunabum incunabulorum" and chef d'oeuvre of printing—is now part of this world-famous library in Washington. It is there on permanent display in a specially carved case, thanks to the indefatigable efforts of Ross Collins, and takes its place beside the original of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. Because of pride in community of ownership millions of visitors now, instead of hundreds of thousands, as formerly, visit the Library of Congress annually and the new prestige promises to bring to the library even larger deposits through Federal purchase, or through private gifts of funds or books.

The splendid new $6,500,000 annex to the Library of Congress, now being erected alongside the magnificent Folger Shakespeare Library, was made possible largely through Ross Collins' great interest in the National Library at Washington. Indeed, he has often been referred to as the "patron saint of the Library of Congress;" its officials feel deeply grateful to him, and one of the oldest universities in America gave him an honorary degree on the strength alone of one of his speeches on behalf of the Library of Congress. The Post Impressionist

Once In a While

Postoffices, Saturday.

We had occasion to go to Baltimore, and we left Washington on the 6 o'clock evening train. As we had the butt of a cigar which we wanted to finish, we boarded the smoking-car of the coaches.

It was the end of a busy day, and when we entered we tried to find a vacant seat in which it would be possible to stretch ourselves a little and relax. However, most of the seats were already occupied by two people, and those that were not were already over-occupied by one—except the end seat, which hasn't a reclining back, but a straight one.

Then the event occurred:

As we headed for that rather uncomfortable seat, the small last seat in the smoker, a man, apparently guessing what we were looking for, got up and offered us his entirely comfortable place, saying that he would take the rear seat—because the rear seat wasn't comfortable.

* * *

It had never happened before!

We wondered—

Well, we wondered if we were approaching the age where a young woman with a baby in her arms would be getting up to give the old man a seat in the street car.

Anyhow, we said:

"But, why don't we two sit together?"

Our new acquaintance, however, shook his head.

"No," said he, "you take this seat. I will sit in back."

He was so nice about it that we couldn't do anything except accept.

* * *

We read our paper there for a full half-hour. But then we began to think about it all. And, the more we thought, the more we were puzzled as to why that man did what he did . . .

* * *

At last, we got up and went down the aisle and sat next to him in the small uncomfortable back seat. And we put the direct question:

"How come," said we, "that you offered your comfortable seat and took this uncomfortable one?"

He said:

"Well, I'm a younger man, in the first place, and, in the second place, I travel on a pass for the Company, I work at the Union Station in Washington, and I am traveling on a pass to Philadelphia, where my home is, to spend the week-end . . ."

He said: "We are under instructions from the company, when we travel on passes, to give the preference in any way we can to the paypassengers . . ."

"But," said he, "not many do it."

His name is G. C. Lucas. He is an iron-worker on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

His immediate boss is C. R. Campbell.

Thank you, Mr. Lucas.

* * *

Mr. Campbell, please take notice.

As Others See It.

A Mere Technicality.

In the mind of Rush D. Holt, 29-year-old Democratic nominee for the Senate from West Virginia, support of the New Deal overrides such trifles as the Constitution, which says that "no person who shall not have attained the age of 30 shall be a Senator." Candidate Holt holds that "no Roosevelt Senate should refuse to seat a Senator supporting the Roosevelt policies, on a technicality."

Mr. Holt seems to hold the thought that loyalty to the New Deal is the supreme test. This is an attitude disquietingly reminiscent of the obsolete view that "the king can do no wrong."

It is doubtful whether, if Mr. Holt is elected Senator, a Roosevelt Senate will openly violate the Constitution and seat him. But whether it does or not, the case of Mr. Holt has left the impression that many others besides himself take his own view of Government—a view that when traced out logically makes of one a supporter of dictatorship and all it implies.

(Buffalo Evening News.)

General Strikes.

A general strike is, no matter what its origin, a dangerous weapon for labor to employ. If the strike call does not fail and sufficient numbers obey it, the life of the community is paralyzed. The strikers may make exceptions of milk, or of food for hospitals, or gasoline for doctors' cars, or what-not, but they can not make exceptions enough really to care for the needs of the population unless they reduce the strike to almost negligible proportions. Under the present organization of society, they can not hit at all employers at once without injuring everybody, including themselves and their families. Thus, for purely mechanical and inevitable reasons, the leadership of a general strike that has lasted more than a few days faces the following drastic alternative: it must either allow the strike to collapse, or take over the management of all essential services and businesses. Necessary work must be done. If it is done for the employers, the strike fails and labor's prestige suffers disastrously. If it is done under the management of labor's representatives, something equivalent to a revolution has taken place, for labor's representatives can not direct work without control of the employers' property. A general strike of indefinite duration is thus self-defeating unless it leads to virtual revolution.

Barging Through Europe With Carlisle Bargeron

Gratitude!

HELSINGFORS, Finland.—Dear Aleck: When Mr. Roosevelt several months ago announced to Congress that Finland was the only nation that had kept up the payments on its debt I made up my mind that some day I would drop in on the country and show my appreciation and at the same time study a people who pay their debts these days, when the practice among nations as well as a large proportion of our own population is not to pay them. So here I am.

BARGERON

The elderly President was out of town when I called—I hope my visit is not causing a general migration of rulers to the country—so I left my card which will be so heartening to him when he returns from his vacation.

One's amazement at our receiving a debt payment from anyone is heightened, Aleck, when it is realized the Finnish payment must have been a real undertaking as their fmark is worth but slightly more than 2 cents on our dollar. Of course, my visit has somewhat offset this transfer but I still wonder how they have any money left in the country.

• • • •

Notwithstanding, Aleck, that this country is backed right up against Russia, little of the Communist influence, if any, has crossed its borders. They don't seem so worried about their borders, either, not even taking the trouble to look at your passport. It is the first country we have visited that is not very painstaking in its examination of the passport. The country was, of course, part of Russia until the Red Revolution, and I get the impression that the sympathies of the people now prefer the Russians to the Swedes, under whose domination they were until 1809, I believe, although they have no love for the Russians.

The Swedish influence is pronounced, however, in the names of the big business houses and the banks. Both the Swedish and Finnish spelling appear. It is pronounced, in fact, in the way in which Helsingfors still sticks internationally as the name of the city. The Finns want it to be called Helsinka.

• • • •

The absence of any mentionable degree of Communist influence should, I think, give some comfort to the capitalistic countries which think Moscow is out to put the red flag over them, or maybe Moscow just decided to skip over its neighboring country, I don't know.

At any rate, the Social Democrats and the Agrarians are the two controlling parties here and they have proven to be quite some social planners themselves. I gather that the Social Democrats are pretty much on the order of what we have in control in the States now. The planning they have carried out here would serve me as a preliminary course in my study of national planning, in fact, were I not advanced enough to enter the great national planning university which is Moscow.

• • • •

Helsingfors, at least, is a treat for the social worker. Rows and rows of very modern apartment houses have been erected for the workers or what local literature refers to as the "mediocre" people.

The city is also interspersed freely with parks. In fact, it gives the impression of being one huge yacht club with its countless adjacent islands and lakes and with the whole population at times seemingly in swimming or darting about in small boats, sailboats and motor boats. It has miles and miles of riding paths. It appears, indeed, to be a delightful summer playground yet one runs into comparatively few tourists, particularly English-speaking ones. And it is no bargain, Aleck, to understand the Finnish tongue. It took me two hours to find a bank that would exchange my Polish money. Only then did I find it by sheer chance and the bank would only accept my paper currency, leaving me still loaded down with Polish coin. The smaller these little countries get the more contempt they have for another's money, Aleck.

Winchester Gets New Councilmen

Three Take Office Today; One Post Vacant.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Three new members of the Winchester Common Council, elected in June, will assume their duties tomorrow. They include A. Lee Coble, C. Douglas Barnett and Dr. Ralph B. Snapp.

At its meeting Tuesday night the council will consider the naming of a councilman to succeed W. Nelson Page, who resigned after being named postmaster here. At a meeting several weeks ago the matter of a successor was tabled after a tie vote for Marvin Weaver and Dr. S. C. Brooks.

The council will name administrative officials in October. Reports about the City Hall are that there will be a number of applicants for the city manager's position, held by Parsons P. Pilcher, formerly of Salisbury, N. C., since May 1, 1931. Mr. Pilcher will be a candidate for reelection. Others reported desiring the position include Frank Bailey, projects engineer of the VERA here; Arthur M. Field, first city manager of Winchester in 1916-17; V. A. Vell, civil engineer; Lee Grant, a member of the city manager's staff, and Charles H. Hopper, former member of the common council.

Maine First to Test New Deal's Strength

Political Interest Centers in Early Fall Election; Result Will Be Used in Ballyhoo for Control of Next Congress.

(Associated Press.)

MAINE, offering the first conclusive fall elections test for the New Deal, today stands as the early center of September's political winds that will blow through 18 other State primaries and conventions.

First of all the States to elect, Maine on September 10 will choose a Senator, three Representatives and a Governor. Republicans hold the Senate and one of the House seats to be filled. Democrats control the governorship and two House posts.

The old saying, "As Maine goes, so goes the Nation," may or may not accurately forecast the outcome for 47 other States to vote November 6, but the chieftains of whichever party is victorious will use it in the forthcoming political ballyhoo for control of the next Congress.

The veteran Senator, Frederick Hale, Republican candidate for reelection, is opposed by F. Harold Dubord, Democratic National committeeman. Democratic Gov. Louis J. Brann's seat is contested by Alfred K. Ames, a wealthy Republican now retired from the lumber business.

Both Sides Counting On Psychological Effect.

DEMOCRATIC and Republican leaders are concentrating their efforts on these races. They say whichever way the State goes, the result will have an important psychological effect on the November elections. Already National party leaders have stumped the State.

While the Maine election, held in September because of the early winter in that normally Republican State, is the highlight of this month's political contests, there are important primaries and conventions in 18 States, which wind up the major intraparty contests. Only run-off primaries are scheduled for October.

All in all, candidates for 15 of the 35 Senate seats to be filled in November, 135 of the 435 House seats, and for 14 of the 34 governorships will be selected in September in primaries in 13 States and conventions in 5.

Democrats, who now dominate Utah, start off today with a convention to select a Senate and two House candidates. Senator William H. King, seeking renomination, has three opponents. The nominee will run against Don B. Colton, former Representative, Republican nominee.

Senator Pittman Opposed First Time Since 1921.

PRIMARIES will be held next Tuesday in Nevada, where Senator Key Pittman, Democrat and president pro tempore of the Senate, has opposition for the first time since 1921. H. R. Cooke, Reno attorney, and Robert Moore, Las Vegas member of the State Assembly, are contesting with Pittman.

State Engineer George W. Malone, Clyde D. Souter, Reno attorney, and August Frohlich, former State Assembly Speaker, are battling for Nevada's Republican senatorial nomination. There are also stiff scraps in both parties for the gubernatorial nomination.

Connecticut Democrats convene at Groton Wednesday to select candidates for Senator, Governor and Representative-at-large. Representative Francis T. Maloney, of the Third District, appears to be the favorite to oppose Senator Frederic C. Walcott, Republican, who is unopposed for renomination. Democrats also expect to renominate Wilbur K. Cross for the governorship.

Mrs. Wilson's Rites Are Held

Was Widow of Former City Magistrate at Cumberland.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Lee Wilson, widow of Simeon Wilson, former resident of this place, who died at her home at Spring Gap, where she conducted a store and was postmaster, were held this afternoon at her residence.

Mrs. Wilson is survived by three sons, Bradford A., this city; Clyde W., and Perry F. Wilson, at home.

Her late husband was well known here. He served as a city magistrate and was a salesman. He conducted a store here for several years and during his lifetime, spent in this city, he was an ardent Democratic worker.

Romney, W. Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Because of impaired health, Miss Margaret Scanlon has resigned as a member of the teaching staff of the State Schools for the Deaf and Blind here after 49 years of professional work, of which 30 years was spent at the schools here.

Her home is in the Three Churches community in Hampshire County.

Hunting Season Will Open Today

Virginia Nimrods Get Set for Early Sport.

Richmond, Aug. 31 (AP).—Virginia's early season nimrods oiled their guns tonight in preparation for the "opening" tomorrow when the hunting of squrrels, sora and doves becomes legal.

And whether they turn to the hard-wood ridges, the salt marshes or the stubble fields, they will find good hunting. At least so says "One Gallus" Mac Hart, executive secretary of the commission on game and inland fisheries, and as such, mentor for Virginia sportsmen.

Squirrels, Hart says, are more plentiful than ever, while wardens have reported a large number of doves feeding in cut-over grain fields. Hart says he has not had authentic reports on the sora situation, but if the tides serve marsh gunners should find something to shoot at.

Daily bag limits are—Squirrels, 10; sora, 25, and doves 18. The sora shooting ends November 30 and the dove season closes December 15. Squirrel shooting is subjected to county regulations.

Ruth Willoughby Buried in Maryland

Cambridge, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Funeral services were conducted here this afternoon for Miss Ruth Willoughby, 26, daughter of Thomas Willoughby. Miss Willoughby died yesterday following three years of ill health. The Rev. O. B. Newton, pastor of Grace Southern Methodist Church, officiated.

Surviving Miss Willoughby are her father, two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Koski and Mrs. William Lauck, of Secretary, and two brothers, Howard James Willoughby, of Cambridge, and Norman E. Willoughby, of Secretary.

Virginia Figures Show Child Welfare Increase

Richmond, Aug. 31 (AP).—James W. Phillips, director of the Division of County and City Organization of the State Welfare Department, reported today that 799 delinquent children were committed to the department during the year ended June 30, as compared with 605 for the preceding year.

He attributed the increase largely to stimulated interest in child welfare, as a result of the Federal emergency relief program.

Virginia Canners Get NRA Code Warning

Richmond, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Complaints made that Virginia canners are violating their code as to hour and pay provisions have led the NRA compliance board here to send field adjusters to the 70 canneries in the State to see that the code is being adhered to.

Letters advising all canners of their obligations have been sent out, John J. Corson, NRA compliance officer in charge, stated.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

THE RADIO HUNGER STRIKE.

The novelty of all novelties is here. Mexico City has given the world the underpaid and hungry radio star.

• • • •

Mexican radio stars, on a hunger strike, seized the radio station, XEAL, and gave a nonstop broadcast without food or drink. It is still a question whether the broadcasters or the radio listeners suffered more.

• • • •

Red Cross nurses were in attendance to revive swooning radio performers. The radio audience was unattended, as usual.

• • • •

One Mexican air comic fainted twice the same night. But those Red Cross nurses proved they could take it by bringing him back.

• • • •

Dispatches from Mexico City stated that throughout the city radios were kept tuned in constantly. Probably the long-suffering radio fans were getting a kick out of reversing the tables and seeing a radio entertainer in misery.

• • • •

A crooner stayed on the air for four days and nights. This finally broke the public's morale.

• • • •

The Mexican radio station made a big mistake in not capitalizing the strike and putting it on as a regular program:

Announcer—Ladies and gentlemen, you are now listening to a program by starving radio performers. We expect to attain the perfect air program very soon by starving the station announcers and those attendants who bore you with long eulogies of sponsors' products. The next groan you hear will be that of a tenor who hasn't been fed in ten days. Send your applause cards to this station.

• • • •

When you hear the gong it will be three hours past dinner time, without a biscuit in the broadcasting room.

• • • •

Those irresistible radio comedians, Blotz and Potz, who were scheduled to do it again at this time, will be unable to annoy you for the present. They have swooned from undernourishment, and even their sponsor is satisfied.

• • • •

Just a minute, folks. Here's an interesting item. You will be glad to hear, I am sure, that the Hot Tempo Orchestra, which hasn't been able to get a thing to eat in a month, has just devoured the master of ceremonies, &c., &c.

Daily Talk About Books and Authors

September is a Latin word, not a word derived from the Latin. It means the seventh month, since in the Roman calendar the first month was March. Septem is the Latin word for seven, written numerically VII (5 plus 2).

The Romans gave 30 days to it and it has them still. When the Julian calendar was adopted, September became the ninth month, although it retained its original name. September has a way of holding on to everything it has ever possessed, like certain individuals.

In ancient times, it was as it is now, a fine month for athletic sport. Among the Romans, the Great Games, called Ludi Romani, held in honor of Jupiter, Juno, Minerva, began on September 4.

In the Middle Ages, in Charlemagne's calendar, the name Harvest Month was given to September. In Switzerland it is still called that, Herbstmonat. The Anglo-Saxons gave it the name Gerstmonath, meaning barley month, for then the barley was harvested. In the short-lived but long-remembered calendar established by the French Revolution, the month of September was named partly after fruit and partly after wine. The last month in the year was called for the ripening of the fruit, Fructidor, and extended from August 18 to September 17. The first month in their year was called Vendemiaire, and carried on well into October. Vendemiaire is from the Latin vindemia, meaning grape-harvest. It was the season of the vintage at Rheims and elsewhere in northern France.

September is the month of the Harvest-Moon; this month has more moonlight therefore than any other, in the north temperate zone, where most sensible people live. The Harvest-Moon when nearly full, rises at nearly the same hour for several nights. The reason for this is as follows: The full moon is then in the same place in the sky as the sun was in spring. After March 21, the time the sun is above the horizon increases every day. But the rising time above the horizon for the autumnal full moon is 13 times as fast as that of the sun in the spring. Hence more moon. I hope this is clearer to you than it is to me.

Strange Accident Fatal to Girl, 16

Thrown From Rumble Seat; Services Sunday.

Nokesville, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Funeral services will be held at the Methodist Church here Sunday morning for LaPoint Trenis, 16, who died in Providence Hospital, Washington, last night from injuries sustained yesterday when she was thrown from the rumble seat of an automobile when it struck a rock. Burial will be at Catlett, Va.

Miss Trenis had gone out with some friends for a drive when the accident occurred. Three persons were on the front seat and three in the rumble seat. Austin Dowell, a cousin of Miss Trenis, was driving.

Deaf Youth Wins Eagle Scout Honor

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Lewis Longfellow, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Longfellow, of this city, though handicapped by deafness, has become an Eagle Scout in one of the three local Boy Scout Troups here.

A student at the Maryland State School for the Deaf, he acts as assistant Scout master at the Frederick School, where he is doing postgraduate work.

The youth, born deaf in 1915, has gained high honors in the school, having been awarded the Elizabeth Moss Golden Rule prize for scholarship.

Smoky Mountain Route Hearing Set for Sept. 10

A public hearing on the route of the proposed Smoky Mountain-Shenandoah parkway, from Blowing Rock to the entrance of the Great Smokies National Park, will be held September 10 in Asheville, N. C., Secretary Ickes of the Interior announced yesterday.

North Carolina and Tennessee officials will present arguments at the hearing, which will open at 9 a. m. in Grove Park Inn. Gov. Hill McAlister of Tennessee and Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus of North Carolina will have charge of presentations for their respective States.

Briefs may be filed at the time of the hearing by interested officials, groups or individuals.

1,233 Transients Get U. S. Care at Norfolk

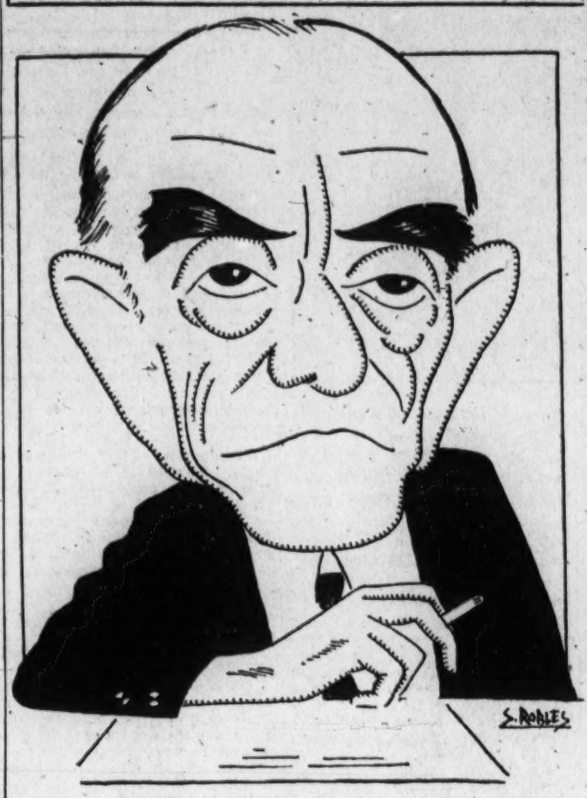
Norfolk, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—With 1,233 persons under its care, the Norfolk Transient Bureau has the largest enrollment in its history, it was announced today by Miss Mary Judy, director.

The enrollment has been increased by the influx of youths from the drought area of the West.

Tax Payments Better.

Woodstock, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—N. H. Corman, treasurer of Shenandoah County, today said tax payments for 1933 were 2.2 per cent better than 1932. Delinquent taxes in 1933 were $16,000, compared with $22,000 the year previous.

The National Gallery



LOUIS McHENRY HOWE, secretary to the President. Another newspaperman at 40, he steered President Roosevelt toward the White House from the day the two met in Albany nearly 25 years ago. Of an ingenious and inventive mind, a natural-born wire-puller, he laid plans, mapped strategy, promised nothing, saw much, said little until March 4, 1933, when he moved into the Executive Mansion. Credited with having launched the CCC camps, he has pacified anything and everything from bonus seekers to misdirected office hunters. He has great personal charm and undying loyalty for the "Chief."

Such a large proportion of those who have been pictured by Mr. Robles have asked for the originals that The Washington Post is saving all these drawings to honor the requests of any future members of "The National Gallery."

Another Letter From a Dad To His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

My Dear Louise:

When I was a young fellow, moving frequently from one job to another in order to see the country, I had an unusual opportunity to compare the two methods of making a country newspaper survive.

One publisher would say: "If the people of this town will support a good newspaper, I'll give them one."

And the other kind would say: "I'll make this newspaper so good that people can't be happy without it."

The result was the same in every instance. The one who demanded patronage before deserving it usually felt abused and resentful and finished in bankruptcy, while the other won the town's admiration and got his just reward.

All of us, whether we realize it or not, adopt one of those two attitudes in dealing with the world.

You will make one or the other a life-time habit. Either you will make no effort to please people until they are nice to you, or you will be nice to them in order to deserve their good will.

The latter course, I assure you, will pay the greater profit.

You never have shown any symptoms of self-pity, thank goodness, but it will do no harm to warn you against it.

It is a sign of weakness, and those who indulge in it are the spoiled and the selfish.

Because all their thoughts center on themselves, they are incapable of seeing the other side of any matter that concerns them.

They demand courtesy and consideration without deserving it. They wish to be loved without making themselves lovable. They expect praise, popularity, success, increased pay, promotion, fame and all of the good things of life, but they see no reason why they should exert themselves to earn what they want.

They can't realize that they are getting all they deserve, and they feel abused because others who try harder get more.

It's a hard world, my dear, but a fair one. You have to pay for your ride, and usually you have to pay before you get it. The baby may win by howling, but adults never will hear applause unless they first make good. Love. DAD.

Extortion Plot Count Dropped

Constable Freed as Dancer Says He Did Not Try to Take Money.

Extortion charges against Town Constable Harry Elmo Hodges, of Laurel, Md., were dismissed yesterday by United States Attorney Leslie C. Garnett after Mitzi Mayfair, the dancer, whose complaint had caused his arrest, said he had not attempted to take money from her.

Miss Mayfair said Mr. Hodges in no way threatened her and that she gave him the marked $10 bill for possession of which he was taken into custody, voluntarily.

Mr. Hodges was arrested as the outgrowth of a speeding citation of Miss Mayfair, former Follies girl, near Laurel, Md., last week. Elements of extortion were lacking in the case, Mr. Garnett said.

Farmer, Accused As Kidnaper, Freed

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Lloyd Brillhart, 30, Pinesburg farmer, was today discharged after being held since last week on a charge of kidnaping.

Brillhart was charged with kidnaping Frank McClay, 11, who disappeared three days before he was found in company of Brillhart here. He told officers he had induced the boy to come to his home where he did odd jobs, but that he had used no force in keeping him there, so Justice Harry E. Snyder ordered his discharge.

1,000 Members Pledged.

River Boat Blasts Injure 2, Imperil 3

$8,000 Cruiser Wrecked; Fish Vessel Sinks.

Baltimore, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Explosions in two boats on the Magothy River, in Anne Arundel County, injured two men today and imperiled the lives of three others.

In the first blast, an $8,000 watersedan cruiser belonging to Dr. George L. Young, Baltimore physician, was wrecked. Dr. Young said he stepped on the starter and immediately there was a terrific explosion, followed by fire. Dr. Young's son, George L. Young, jr., was hurled 10 feet into the air and fell into the river. He was rescued by Dr. Young, who took him ashore and administered first aid for burns on face and body.

The other blast occurred in Harness Creek, a tributary stream to the Magothy, when a fishing boat blew up. James Carter, of Harness Creek, dived overboard to swim ashore for help, but became exhausted and was sinking when he was rescued by George E. Graefe in a rowboat. Mr. Graefe then rowed to the sinking fish boat and rescued Emory Wilmer and his brother, Otis, who could not swim.

$7,500 Bond Set For Wounded Thug

Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Archie Austin, who was seriously wounded in an attempted postoffice holdup at Dendron, Tuesday morning, was ordered held for the next Federal grand jury following a hearing before United States Commissioner Harry Brinkley here today.

The hearing was held at King's Daughter's Hospital, Portsmouth, where Austin is a patient. Bond of $7,500 was fixed by Commissioner Brinkley. Austin's inability to post bond resulted in a guard being continued over him at the hospital.

E. W. Austin, brother of Archie, and John Bernard are dead as the result of the battle with officers at Dendron. Both were buried yesterday in Norfolk. The fourth member of the party, John Crank, is in the Norfolk Jail to await trial at the November term of Federal Court.

G. O. P. Assails Administration In West Virginia

Convention Keynote Scores U. S. Leaders; Hatfield to Speak Today.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Approximately 500 of the younger Republican leaders of West Virginia gathered here today for the second annual convention of the Young Republican League of West Virginia and heard the New Deal assailed in a number of addresses.

In what was regarded as the keynote of a vigorous fight against the Roosevelt policies in the campaign, Mrs. Cara L. Ebert, of Parkersburg, member of the Republican National committee for West Virginia, said the Republican party is the only one now upholding the Constitution of the United States.

"This economically sick Nation," she said, "has had a doctor for the past year and a half who has very nearly made a drug addict of the patient."

"Ninety-three per cent of our so-called recovery is synthetic," she also said, "with normal recovery being held back to 5 per cent by the very forces which were designed to cure the ill."

Urging the young Republicans to throw all their energy into a battle to stem the tide of Nationalism and centralized control, Mrs. Ebert said the way to help do it would be by reelecting United States Senator H. D. Hatfield and the electing of six Republican Representatives this fall.

Senator Hatfield, of Huntington, was delayed in arriving here, but will speak tomorrow.

A surgeon was called last night to aid in saving the life of Homer Tomblin, 33, of Harts Creek, near Logan, who is living with a bullet in his brain, allegedly fired in a quarrel over a woman by John Perer, of Cherry Tree, near Logan.

Hugo Blumemberg, of Wheeling, State president, is presiding. Three candidates are active for the presidency of the State League, namely, Creed S. Simons, Clarksburg attorney; Frank R. Hutchinson, Buckhannon newspaper editor, and Raymond V. Humphries, Huntington real estate man.

Alibi Is Checked In Death of Girl

Baltimore PoliceAsk Probe of Chauffeur's Story.

Baltimore, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Police at Cumberland were asked today by Baltimore authorities to check the alibi of William McCoy, 28, a chauffer, that he was in the Western Maryland city for the week prior to the discovery of the body of a girl in Baltimore harbor August 19.

The girl, Miss Nancy Messineo, 28, had been missing from her home for four days before her body was found. Bruises found on the body led police and members of her family to believe she might have been murdered and thrown into the river.

Since the discovery of the body, police have been conducting a quiet investigation, resulting today in the arrest of McCoy. He is said to have been acquainted with the girl, and on at least one occasion to have called at her home. He denied knowledge of her death, and insisted he was in Cumberland during the time she was missing. She had left home to go to Annapolis to visit an aunt, and her absence remained a mystery until her body was found.

Dorsey New Head Of Junior Order

Spencer, W. Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—State management of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics will be directed the coming year by George Dorsey, of Moundsville, who was chosen State councilor at the annual State convention just closed here.

Other State officers include W. B. Simmons, of Paw Paw, vice councilor; I. R. Graham, of Martinsburg, treasurer; G. W. Dalton, of Bluefield, conductor; D. J. Cunningham, of West Union, warden; R. H. Shaffer, of Huntington, inside sentinel; D. Roy Frye, of Winfield, outside sentinel; S. H. Meadows, of St. Albans, chaplain, and A. R. Fulk, of Martinsburg, and T. E. Keeling, of Dunbar, National representatives.

Transient Aid Revived To Eliminate Begging

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Reestablishment of Federal Transient Relief activities here has been effected because of the marked increase of street begging that followed closing of the transient bureau August 1.

The transient bureau is under the direction of Miss Betsy Howard. Relief is extended through the Salvation Army agencies under Miss Howard's direction.

Mrs. Sina Jordan, 73, Is Buried in Virginia

Lynchburg, Va., August 31 (Spl.).—Funeral services for Mrs. Sina Ann Jordan, 73, wife of C. L. Jordan, who died yesterday at her home on Timber Lake road, near Lynchburg, were held today.

Funeral services for Mrs. Katie Lee Skidmore, 40, wife of James H. Skidmore, of this city, who died yesterday at Virginia Baptist Hospital here, were held from her home here this afternoon, with interment at Spring Hill Cemetery.

CCC Workers Transferred.

Woodstock, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Several hundred colored Civilian Conservation Corps members have been transferred to the camp at Wolfe's Gap on the Virginia-West Virginia line west of here. Two additional sites for CCC camps, one at Panorama and the other at Sexton's Shelter, make seven in all in the Shenandoah National Park area.

Radio Waves

By George M. Adams, jr.

COUPLES linked arm in arm, generously stamping the floor to the crazy-lazy lilting rhythm of barn dance tunes as the voice of the "caller" shouts the figures of waltz quadrille, lancers and polka will transform WJSV's largest studio into a very pleasant madhouse when Lee Everett's half-hour show becomes airworthy.

Everett intends to build up the show for Saturday night presentation and he will include anything on it that suggests the atmosphere of an old-fashioned country barn dance . . . this includes fiddles (slightly out of tune), accordions, mouth organs, Jew's harps, guitars, banjos, not to mention cider barrels, hay, straw, and someone to call the "sets" who must have a noncombustible, snorting lusty pair of lungs.

Bands from outlying districts of Washington will be invited in so the folks can gather around at home and hear them.

He's had experience at this sort of thing down Charlotte, N. C., way, where they put these things on regularly . . . the tunes most heard, according to Lee, are Virginia reel, Mississippi Sawyer, Arkansas Traveler, Green Mountain polka, Turkey in the Straw and Sour Wood Mountain.

Auditions will start Wednesday at WJSV and Lee will personally look over whatever comes in.

"Let 'er go, boys; one more couple for a waltz quadrille!"

WHEN N. B. C. and C. B. S. carry that all-star heavyweight bout Monday night, it's not going to be merely a battle of punches . . . plenty of listeners, interested in fight broadcasting, are going to measure the respective performances of two of Washington's most versatile announcers.

With Bob Trout, Presidential announcer for WJSV, interpreting the fray for Columbia listeners . . . N. B. C. is relying on Billy Coyle, that stentorian lad, to carry on for the glory of old "Mushwash" or something. Jim McGrath will be present to interpret the scene and Herluf Provensen will handle the commercial plug.

This department happens to have an almost equal regard for the abilities of Messrs. Coyle and Trout. But some people get a lot of satisfaction out of saying someone is the "best sports announcer in town." Bob knows boxing. He is as alert as they come. Bill, too, has a zest for sports. He makes more noise . . . and listeners like it. Bob is smoother . . . so what! Hope you enjoy the fight.

N. B. C., incidentally, will carry the fight on WMAL at 10 p. m., and not on WRC as previously announced. Reason: It didn't seem fair to "plug" two motor car manufacturers one after the other.

WOL is carrying a "stunt" feature today at 5:15 p. m. that should afford listeners no end of fun . . . depending on what appeal Aimee Semple McPherson still has.

Seems Aimee is now writing an opera. And she has picked the lobby of the Commodore Hotel in New York to tell all about it. Tenors and sopranos will exhale some of her compositions and Aimee will contribute a "special message of cheer."

Whitecaps.

WRC—Story of the "lucky tree" with comedy in a dusky household, Playbill, 1:30 p. m.; Hurdy Gurdy Man, Pietro Bruno, 4 p. m.; "The Merchant, Brain Trust and Politics" discussed by John F. Neylan, lawyer, 7 p. m.; Washington Airbreaks, aggregations of local talent, 10 p. m..

WMAL—4-H Club music by Marine Band, National Farm and Home Hour, 12:30 p. m.; "Radicalism and the New Deal," discussed by Representative George Foulkes, of Michigan, 1:30 p. m.; Tribulations of oysters marking opening of season, 3:15 p. m.; "Micah Champions the Oppressed," talk by H. L. Stevenson, 4:30 p. m.

WJSV—Dr. Maud Slye, of Sprague Memorial Institute, Chicago, discussing cancer cures, 10:30 a. m.; Ernest G. Dodge, examiner for the Civil Service Commission, speaking on Esperanto, 4:30 p. m.; "Strikes and Money," discussed by F. H. Frazier, of the General Baking Co., 7:45 p. m.; "The Profits of War and Preparation—a Challenge to Peace," talk by Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican of North Dakota, 9:30 p. m.

WOL—Aimee Semple McPherson offering a "message of good cheer," 5:15 p. m.

Dr. Christie Will Head Radiological Congress

Dr. Arthur C. Christie, Washington physician and president of the board of trustees of American University, has been elected president of the Fifth International Congress on Radiology, according to word received here.

Dr. Christie, the first American to receive this honor, was elected at the Fourth International Congress, held recently in Zurich, Switzerland. The American University head is also president of the board of directors of the District Y. M. C. A. He has been president of the District Medical Association and the Washington Rotary Club. The Fifth International Congress will be held at Chicago in September, 1937.

HONEYMOON MOUNTAIN

by Frances Shelley Wees

Deborah's grandfather tied up her fortune so that she could not make the mistake her mother did and elope with a stranger. By the will she must marry the son of Courtney Graham, whom her mother jilted. But the youth is not the man his father was; he wants only Deborah's money. To prevent the marriage, and disaster to Deborah, a wealthy young man named Bryn marries her; the two of them agree to let her grandmother believe that Bryn is actually Stuart Graham. The young couple, married on the Coast, go to live on grandmother's lonely mountain ranch. Deborah believes Bryn is in love with another girl. Bryn is certain Deborah does not care for him. Tubby, Bryn's best friend, arrives unexpectedly.

Grandmother lifted the picture again. "Would it be possible to have another copy made of this?" she inquired.

"I'm sure I can get any number," Tubby said at once. "They're Bryn's graduation pictures. I can get 'em from the photographer in Palo Alto."

"Palo Alto?"

"That's where Bryn graduated, of course, at Stanford."

"Stanford?" Grandmother repeated. "Isn't that rather strange?"

"Oh, I don't think so. He took engineering and they've got a rattling good engineering school. Bryn's family went there. They're part of the Stanford tradition."

"Bryn's family?" Grandmother repeated. Deborah, sick at heart, caught Tubby's eye. At sight of her face his own slowly lengthened. "But surely," Grandmother went on, "his family all went to Princeton. I remember quite distinctly."

"I . . . I was thinking of his mother's family," Tubby said at last.

"Grandmother, could we have tea?"

"Just a minute." Grandmother replied. "His mother's people were also New Englanders, Mr. Forbes. Stanford is a very long way from New England. And, now that it occurs to me, you are a Californian, are you not?"

"Oh, yes, certainly," Tubby began. Then he saw whither he was being led, and wilted again. "That is . . . of course, I visited a good deal in the East . . . and Bryn came West pretty often. That's how we know each other so well."

"You have connections in the East?"

"The Rhode Island Forbes," Tubby said at once, while Deborah's heart sank within her. "And there's a branch in Virginia.

Deborah rang the little silver bell. "You look tired, dear," she told her Grandmother. Let me take Mr. Forbes away, and you rest before the tea comes."

The tray came almost as she spoke, and at the same moment came the whine of Bryn's motor up the road. His car stopped. He walked up to them slowly, his face unsmiling, his eyes on Tubby. Tubby stood buttoning his coat.

"Ah—er . . . I hope you can give me a few minutes of your time," Tubby began nervously. "It is in a noble cause, worthy sir. I am one whose sole interest is in the welfare of the Nation. In other words, I should like to leave with you a small sample of my wares, just a small sample, sir, in 47 volumes. This magnificent work . . ."

Good-Natured Banter.

"Is it a book on etiquette?" Bryn inquired coldly.

"Etiquette? Of course, it contains chapters on etiquette."

"There should be something about invitations;" Bryn answered. "Isn't there anything about not accepting invitations before they are offered? Or any remarks about getting bounced out of places where you haven't been asked?"

"Bryn," Deborah whispered, frantic, using his name almost for the first time. "Grandmother thinks you mean it. Tell her."

Bryn turned toward Grandmother. She was leaning back on her pillows pale as death, her hand at her heart. She thought . . . oh, Heaven only knew what she thought now, Deborah told herself miserably.

Bryn went across to her. "Are we upsetting you Grandmother?" he asked, kneeling beside her. "I'm sorry. We don't mean it. The rosy-cheeked person standing so hangdoggedly before us, is one of my intimates. He would do anything for me. I have been more than good to him in the past. Many a time and oft I have shared with him my last bite. You see how his presence affects me. Did we frighten you?"

She began to smile at him. No matter what ideas Tubby had put into her head, she wasn't angry at Bryn. She lifted her hand with the photograph in it. "How foolish of me to be upset," she said. "I might have guessed that you were joking."

Bryn stood up and confronted Tubby again. "It's rather a long way back to San Francisco," he said pointedly. "If you start now and drive all night you can just make it."

"Just make what?" Tubby inquired, seating himself comfortably.

"San Francisco."

"I don't want to make San Francisco. It was made long ago. Didn't you ever learn about the gold rush? Anyway, I've been invited to stay here, and I think I'll stay."

Bryn looked gloomily at the toe of his shoe. Grandmother was beginning to understand. "Ring for another cup, dear," she told Deborah with a twinkle.

Deborah rang. Almost instantly the new butler appeared in the doorway. Tubby's eyes were on Bryn's face. Bryn looked up casually. His eyes came to a stop on Burch's face. They rested there.

Burch's face was impassive.

"I wish I knew my Bible better," he said regretfully. "I'm sure there's something in Job that would be quite fitting."

Tubby Is Scolded.

Bryn walked slowly, head bent, from the door of Grandmother's room that night, to the door of his own. He had just helped her upstairs and had seen her to her own rooms with a last cheerful goodnight smile. But as her door had closed his smile faded.

There was a light under his own door. He opened it. Tubby sat in the armchair beside the window, a guiltily expectant look on his face. Bryn glanced down at him without speaking.

"Well," he said at last, "you are indeed a very brilliant young man."

Tubby shifted uneasily. "Look here, Bryn," he was beginning, when Bryn cut him short.

"For the last two weeks," he said evenly, "I have moved heaven and earth to create a good impression, to make everything go smoothly and comfortably. Give me another two months and you could have come up here and done your damnedest. But right now . . . I'm still a new broom."

Tubby groaned. "I didn't know I was putting my foot in it," he said dismally. "She told me herself that you'd explained everything. Naturally, I thought you'd done the sensible thing and confessed."

"Confessed what?"

Tubby was silent.

"What you've succeeded in doing is raising a question at the back of her mind. She doesn't actually mistrust me, even yet, but she wonders a little. I don't know what in the devil you told them, but it was certainly enough. There wasn't a suspicion in her mind as to my identity. Now you've succeeded in giving her something to puzzle over."

"Don't rub it in too hard. I didn't mean to crash anything."

"Oh?" Bryn inquired. "I suppose it was merely by chance that you heard that Burch wasn't particularly busy and brought him along? That was a sweet idea. Now I can either take Burch aside and tell him the whole story, begging him to spill no beans, or I can watch like a hawk to see he doesn't tell what he knows."

"Listen," Tubby said desperately. "I didn't know this whole business meant so much to you, Bryn. I though it was all a lark. You said it was. I knew Deborah was beautiful, and sweet—anybody can see that—and that you . . . well, that you were interested in her. You'd be blind and dumb if you weren't. I thought it was all a kind of joke. That's why I brought Burch. I can fix Burch. He'll keep his mouth shut, you know that."

The Girls in His Life.

After a long time Bryn said, "And what did you say about Sally and Madeline? Whatever you said seems to have been adequate. Grandmother gave me a bad half hour, after Deborah was gone, tonight. She suggested delicately that Deborah's feelings might be quite distinctly hurt at the thought that there had been other girls in my life who had meant so much to me. She explained that Deborah had never known another man, had waited for me all her life, and that naturally they had expected the same forbearance from me. She suggested that I . . . well, that I try to explain to Deborah, and make her understand that the girls you had mentioned meant nothing."

There was a long silence.

"Bryn," Tubby said at last, "did Grandmother actually expect you and Deborah to fall into each other's arms the moment you met?"

"She hoped we would, yes."

Tubby gulped. "I don't quite understand her point of view," he went on. "Here's Deborah . . . she's nothing but a child. She's as . . . as fresh as a spring morning, and as unconscious about . . . well, about . . . that is, about . . ."

"You needn't flounder. I am aware of your meaning."

"Here's Deborah," Tubby pursued; "and you're a stranger. Did Grandmother honestly expect her to go down there and meet you, and the minute your wedding ring was on her finger just sort of . . . well, melt? Without . . . obviously without . . . that is, well . . . innocent, you know, and you a stranger, and . . ." He mopped his face with his handkerchief.

"You aren't old-fashioned enough," Bryn said.

"Old-fashioned? That's what gets me, it's so modern.

"Just the opposite. In Victorian times a girl was supposed to be pure and entirely ignorant. Deborah doesn't know anything. She may have a few funny little ideas, but she doesn't know. Bryn's face was contracted. "Poor little kid," he said under his breath.

Tubby glanced at him and was silent again.

"There's something I heard tonight I think you ought to be told," he said.

Tomorrow morning at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Dr. Albert Evans, the associate minister, will have for his subject "The Dignity of Work."

The Christian Endeavor Society will meet at 6:45 p. m. Miss Gertrude Hartis will lead the discussion. The summer vesper service will be held at 8 p. m. Old hymns of the church will be sung and Dr. Evans will deliver a brief meditation.

Sermons at First Baptist View New Deal and Church.

"The New Deal and the Christian Faith" will be the general theme of the Sunday morning sermons this month to be delivered by Dr. Rufus W. Weaver at the First Baptist Church. His subject tomorrow will be "The Christianizing of Collective Bargaining." Other subjects during the month will be "National Defense Through Spiritual Preparedness," "American Christianity in the Life of Our Nation" and "The NRA and the National Recovery of Adoration." This will be a group of sermons by Dr. Weaver in a larger series on "The Christian Faith in a Changing World." There will be no evening service tomorrow.

The B. Y. P. U. program tomorrow evening will be led by Lila Hicks and Group 1. A number of members will attend the B. Y. P. U. retreat at Braddock Heights next week.

"Christ Jesus" Subject For Christian Scientists.

"Christ Jesus," is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from I John 5: 1. "Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God; and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Jesus cried and said, He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on him that sent me. And he that seeth me seeth him that sent me." (John 12: 44, 45.) The Lesson-Sermon also includes a passage from the Christian Science Text Book (Page 38).

The Rev. Robert Lewis Weis of Scituate, Mass., will preach at union services to be held in All Souls' Church tomorrow, on the subject, "Man's Unity with God." This is the last in the series of union services in which the Universalist National Memorial Church, Mount Pleasant Congregational Church and All Souls' Church (Unitarian) have cooperated during the summer. Services will be resumed in the several churches September 9, and the pulpit of All Souls' Church will be occupied by the Minister, the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, on that date.

"Individual Evangelism" Covenant Church Sermon.

The Rev. Samuel R. Allison, assistant minister at the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Individual Evangelism." The open air services held during the summer months on the lawn on the Massachusetts Avenue Chapel have been discontinued.

Mr. C. C. Haig will teach the Adult Sunday School Class at 10 a. m.

Rock Creek Episcopal Church Rites Tomorrow.

Services tomorrow at Rock Creek Episcopal Church, Rock Creek Church road and Webster street, will include celebrations of Holy Communion at 8:30 and 11 a. m., with a sermon at the latter service. At Holy Comforter Chapel, Rock Creek Parish, 5714 Georgia avenue, Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:30 a. m. There will be morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock and evening prayer, with address at 7:30. The Rev. William L. Mayo is minister in charge.

The Rev. A. J. Wilder will return today from Michigan, where he spent the summer, and will preach at the 11 a. m. service tomorrow at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, of which he is rector.

Micaw Binds All Faiths

One Sentence Uttered by Old Hebrew Prophet Defines a Complete Religion for Those Lost in Maze of Speculation.

By William T. Ellis.

Everybody thinks about religion at some time or another. Some persons think about it a great deal of the time. They delight to dwell upon its mysteries, its sublimities, its intricacies. Many persons, on the other hand, turn from the subject baffled, beacuse it seems too high and involved for them.

Surely, there ought to be some simple, primary form of religion which everybody may practice. So important a subject should not be an impractical one for the plain person. Where may we look for a workable program of piety?

An almost unknown Hebrew prophet, so far as his personality goes, has given the best statement of applied religion from the Old Testament standpoint. It is a familiar creed, which many persons have avowed as their plan of life with respect to the Almighty. It is easily memorized, and will stand all the thinking that can be brought to bear upon it. This famous statement by the Prophet Micah, which is the heart of the present lesson, is "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy"—or "kindness," as the Revised Version better puts it—"and to walk humbly with thy God."

Faith Made Simple.

I commend Micah's creed to all the persons who write me problem letters. It is rather amazing how large a proportion of a religious teacher's correspondence is made up of inquiries from men and women who are perplexed about millennialism, perfectionism, prophecies, Anglo-Israelism and kindred excursions into the nonessential fields of religious speculation. Leaving the main highways of truth, they naturally run into bumps on the side roads.

Suppose we stick to Micah's splendid definition. It is a plain path for everybody's travel. By following this road we escape the pitfalls of perplexing philosophies. There are difficulties a-plenty in the Bible, of course. But for ordinary folk it is enough to "do justly"—fulfillment of that requirement would solve all our economic woes —"to love kindness"—which means good will in all human relationships, ending strife and war and the petty cares that cark our days—"and to walk humbly with thy God" —not challengingly and critically and speculatively, but as little children trustingly holding the hand of a father.

What a revival of religion there would be in the land if we should stop arguing about the Virgin birth, fundamentalism, denominationalism, ritualism, and so forth, and give ourselves wholly to trying to measure up to Micah's comprehensive definition of man's duty toward his Maker. Of course, there is more to faith than Micah expressed—Micah 6:8 needs to be supplemented by John 3:16, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." But the Micah road will ultimately lead to Calvary.

The Good Hosts of Earth.

This morning I have been strolling about a rocky little island in a Canadian lake, which somehow sent my thoughts back to an unforgettable experience on John's Island of Patmos; and, like him, I seemed to have a vision.

My inspiring vision was of the great company of men and women, which no man can number, who day by day are seeking to order their lives by Micah's program. They are the friends of God everywhere; who are likewise the best friends of man. They strive, from highest motives, "to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with God." They are the greatest force in all world affairs. Ultimately, they determine all public opinion and effect all progress in human character—this countless company of good people, servants of the living God.

They are the inspiration of all movements for human justice and social welfare. In our zeal for progress and reform, let us pause long enough to contemplate the mighty host who are already treading the Micah path of sincere religious devotion.

More of this is our greatest need. I know some small towns that are dying of dry rot. Life is frittered away in incredible pettiness of thinking and living. And I know city groups which suffer from other forms of the same blight; so that existence is little more than a hectic rush to ward off jadedness by artificial stimulation. There is no real living, in the sense of free, joyous, abundant, purposeful life.

A sense of awareness of God, and of responsibility to Him, lifts up and dignifies all of life. "What doth the Lord require of thee?" Evidently, He requires something. There is an obligation implied. A great statesman once said that the most solemn thought that ever came to him was a sense of his personal responsibility to the living God. We must postulate God before we can live as men and women.

Ritualism Alone Is Barren.

With the daily paper at our elbow, it is interesting to read the messages of these old Hebrew prophets who spoke to unheeding ears more than 2,500 years ago. Micah shares the theme of Amos and Hosea and Isaiah and the others.

All pictured the yearning, brooding, Father care of God for His people. In beautiful imagery they portray the heart of a loving Lord who tenderly cherished Israel. Sometimes we speak of the stern majesty of the Old Testament God; to do so ignores the note that sounds throughout the whole volume. "God is love" is written large over these ancient pages.

Another note sounds recurrently. God was impatient of a religious ritualism that was not accompanied by social righteousness. His prophets spoke in contemptuous disdain of sacrifices and feasts and ecclesiastical correctness, when moral rottenness and greed and cruelty and injustice prevailed. Orthodoxy is no substitute for straight dealing. Justice means more to God than incense.

Georgia Flier First in Race Cross Country

Cleveland, Aug. 31 (AP).—Flying apart of the time at a speed of 270 miles an hour, Douglas Davis, of Atlanta, Ga., today won the transcontinental race from Burbank, Calif., to Cleveland, feature event of the opening program of the 1934 National Air Races.

But despite his speed, Davis fell short of the Los Angeles to Cleveland record set by Jimmy Haizlip in 1932. Davis took 9 hours 26 minutes and 41 seconds for the trip from Burbank. Haizlip made the flight from Los Angeles in 8 hours 10 minutes and 46 seconds.

Two other fliers competed in today's cross-country dash, Lee Gelbach, of New York, and John Worthern, of Pine Bluff, Ark. The latter arrived at the Cleveland airport nearly 45 minutes after the Atlantic flier, and Gelbach at that time was still in the air, but expected to arrive at the airport by dark.

30,000 Watch Finish.

Air race officials said 30,000 persons were in the grandstand today as Davis sped across the goal line to receive personal congratulations from Mary Pickford of the movies, and the plaudits of the crowd. The Atlanta flier also will receive a $4,500 cash award and the Vincent Bendix Trophy.

Davis made just two stops on his flight, both to refuel. The first was at Goodland, Kans.; the second at Lansing, Ill. He flew a low-wing monoplane.

Storms increased his flying time, the winner said on his arrival, and his plane, streaked with oil, gave evidence of a difficult battle.

"I thought I was going to crack up sure at Goodland," he said. "A cross-current caught the ship and I went up and down for a few minutes like an elevator."

Other Events Held.

Numerous other racing events, and dozens of thrilling aeronautical tricks, entertained the opening day air race crowd.

In one event, Roy Minor, of Hollywood, Calif., sent his mystery plane, the Miss Los Angeles, at a speed of 256.529 miles an hour, with the wind at his back, and averaged 243.145 for two directions.

Lee Miles, of San Bernardino, Calif., did one down-wind lap at a speed of 255.747 miles an hour, and averaged 248.913 for two directions.

Army, Navy and Marine planes also demonstrated a series of military maneuvers, and one of the Army planes provided the first crack-up of this year's program. Arriving from Selfridge Field, Mich., one of the Army planes tipped over in landing, not far from the crowd, but the pilot escaped without injuries.

168 Oklahoma Convicts On 'Honor' Flee in Year

Oklahoma City, Aug. 31 (AP). Under an "honor system" at the Oklahoma State Penintentiary at McAlester, 168 trusties were listed as having escaped during the year ended July 1, Warden Sam Brown reported to Gov. W. H. Murray today. Forty of the escaped convicts still are at large.

In all, 2,436 of the more than 3,500 prisoners were made trusties at some time during the year, the report said. Sixty-nine convicts convicted of murder were among the trusties.

Earl Ward Sets Air Mark.

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP).—Earl Ward, general superintendent of American Airlines, flew the 498 miles between Buffalo and Chicago today in 2 hours and 38 minutes, eight minutes faster than previous record time.

Why Not Leave It to Egbert? He Was Eyewitness

Baltimore, Aug. 31 (AP).—How many snips of the shears did it take to behead Egbert, the garter snake, and end his death duel with a tiny spider? Were the shears "large and sharp" or "rather dullish?"

These questions have divided opinion since an agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals executed Egbert in the basement of a Baltimore home. The snake, after four days of desperate struggling, had become hopelessly entangled in the spider's web, victim of the insect he had tried to consume.

As to the manner of Egbert's decease—well, that's where Horace P. Lane, jr., at whose home the event took place, and M. W. Skipper, general secretary of the Maryland S. P. C. A., differ. Says Lane:

"The shears were rather dullish. No less than eight—I believe at least ten—snips were required to behead Egbert."

Says Skipper: "We wish to inform you that the snake, a tiny creature, about 7 inches long, was destroyed by one snip of a pair of large and sharp shears."

U. S. S. California Joins Fleet in East

Vessels in Hampton Roads Now Total 31.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 31 (AP).—The battleship California steamed through the Virginia Capes early today to join the fighting and auxiliary craft of the United States fleet assembled at Hampton Roads.

The arrival of the California brought the number of warships in the roads to 31, with 5 more scheduled to arrive during the day. They are the cruisers Marblehead, Memphis and Milwaukee from the Southern drill grounds, and the Detroit and Salt Lake City from Newport. In Hampton Roads early today were the battleships California, New Mexico, Texas, New York, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Mississippi, Colorado, Tennessee; airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga; cruisers Louisville, Indianapolis, Omaha; destroyers Wasmuth, Trever, Lawrence, Humphreys, Fox, Tracy; auxiliary ships Vestal, Arctic, Bridge, Cuyama, Vega, Robin, Sonoma, Argonne, Crebe, Tera, Medusa.

The date of the departure of the fleet for the West Coast has been set back two days, it was learned at the naval base today. It is now scheduled to leave September 17.

Roads Offer $10,000 For Bombing Solutions

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 31 (AP).—Four railroads today united in offering $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of parties responsible for damage by explosives to their property.

A number of railroads in the Springfield area have had large losses from bombings in recent months. Last week a Chicago & Illinois Midland coal train was bombed near Springfield, derailing 24 cars. The bombings are said by officials to result from mine warfare.

Cafe Hires Man Who Stole Bread For His Ill Wife

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP).—Jean Valjean, character of Victor Hugo, would get a sardonic laugh out of the case of Robert Barker. Valjean was imprisoned for the theft of a loaf of bread—an incident that changed his life.

Barker, 30, was arrested the other day for stealing food from a restaurant. His wife was ill; they had no food.

Today in court he was freed. Then the proprietor of a chain of restaurants gave him a job.

'Second Choice' Not Needed in Prince Georges

Voters Will Indicate Only One Candidate in County Races.

Voters in Prince Georges County will not be required to indicate a second choice for county officials when they go to the polls for the Maryland primaries, Wednesday, September 12, political leaders said yesterday.

They pointed out that the predicted use, for the third time, of the so-called "second-choice law," would apply only to State and National candidates. The law was passed in 1910.

Within the county all candidates receiving a majority vote will be considered selected to represent their party in the November elections. This will include aspirants for such offices as county commissioner, sheriff, judge of orphans' court and treasurer.

Those offices for which the voter will indicate a second choice will be Governor, attorney general, Comptroller and United States Senator and Representative.

Law Applied Twice.

According to Willis R. Jones, deputy attorney general, the second-choice law was applied in 1916 and again in 1922, but in neither case were these applications important, for one man had a majority in each case on the first-choice votes.

This year it is expected the Republican gubernatorial and senatorial races will be contested so closely that election officials may have to count and tabulate the second choices.

It has been explained that if no candidate receives a majority in the county, the candidate receiving the lowest number of first choice votes is dropped. The ballots cast for him are distributed between the other two according to the way the voters made their second choices.

An example: If A received 400 votes, B 300 and C 100, none would have a majority and C would be dropped. If 75 of those who voted for C had made A their second choice and the other 25 had made B their second choice, these votes would be added to the total A and B had originally. This would give A the majority.

Delegates to Be Named.

Voters at the primaries will also select the delegates to the State convention. The number selected will be equal to the number of county legislators. When a candidate obtains a majority the delegates are bound by law to vote for him at the convention.

If no one obtains a majority on the first ballot at this voting, the candidate receiving the lowest vote will be dropped. Those who voted for the deposed candidate will vote on the second ballot for the candidate who was the second choice from the county.

Only when there are more than three in the field and both the first and second choices of a district have been dropped from the running may the delegates be released and vote as they wish. However, this can not happen in the coming convention.

St. John's Fete Ends Tonight

Miss Rocker Holds Lead in Popularity Contest at Mt. Rainier.

The third annual carnival sponsored by the St. John's Episcopal Church at Mount Rainier will close tonight after a two-week run. With the closing will come the announcement of the winner in the popularity contest for girls which has been a feature of the carnival.

Miss Louise Rocker has increased her lead over her rival, Miss Bernice Morgan, in this event, the vote being, Miss Rocker, 4,350; Miss Morgan, 2,660. Norma Fort holds third place with a vote of 1,580, and Miss Dorothy Forsyth, who was well up in the race, withdrew last evening.

The presentation of the cup to the winner will be made by Perry Boswell, Democratic candidate for county commissioner of Prince Georges County, a resident and former Mayor of Mount Rainier, tonight at 9:30.

The carnival has been under the direction of Carl H. Rottman, general chairman; the Rev. Walter P. Plumley, rector of St. John's, and Amos W. Hortsman.

Court Denies Plea Of C. & O. Clerks

Declares Mediation Board Outside Jurisdiction.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 31 (AP).—Federal Judge Luther B. Way today denied a petition for an injunction to halt a secret poll being taken by the National Mediation Board of the Chesapeak & Ohio Railway Clerk's Association to determine who should represent the clerks in negotiations with the railway.

Judge Way dismissed the bill of complaint as to the board itself on the ground that the board was outside the court's jurisdiction.

No action was taken by Judge Way on a petition in the same bill to extend an injunction order against H. H. Reed, representative of the board, because no process had been served in an amended bill of complaint against Reed.

Two Face Grilling On Robbery Story

Baltimore, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Two youths from Brooklyn, N. Y., arrested several days ago in Frederick, Md., who told police they knew the identity of bandits who held up an armored car in Brooklyn and fled with $427,000 loot, will be brought to Baltimore for questioning by police here.

The youths gave the names of Harold Bross and Bernard Larson, and said they had various acquaintances in the underworld of New York and Brooklyn. In their possession were found news clippings of the armored-car holdup. They denied any connection with this holdup, but are said by Frederick police to have admitted knowing the identity of the bandits.

Detective Capt. John H. Mintiens, of Baltimore, asked State police to bring the men to Baltimore for questioning. They will be placed in the regular line-up at police headquarters. Brooklyn police may come here to join in questioning the youths.

Marlboro Suit Asks $40,000

Forestville Couple Seek Damages for Death of Son Truck Killed.

A suit to recover $40,000 for the death of Richard T. Griffith, jr., 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Griffith, of Forestville, Md., was filed yesterday at Upper Marlboro.

The suit named the firm of Hall & Hereford, of Prince Georges County as the defendant, alleging they owned a truck which struck and fatally injured the lad last April 21.

According to police reports, the child was struck while playing on or near the Marlboro pike at Forestville. The truck, they said, was operated by Carl Jett, of Croome, Md.

Condemnations Asked for Road

Condemnation of two parcels of land, said to be blocking construction of the Lanham-Bowie Road, has been asked of the Prince Georges County (Md.) Circuit Court by the State Roads Commission.

Sheriff W. Curtis Hopkins yesterday served notice on Julian A. Bryant and Robert A. Van Horn of Glenn Dale, Md., owners of the plots, that a hearing has been called for September 5.

Norfolk Milk Area Held Real Problem

Members of State Board Leave Hearing Puzzled.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 31 (AP).—Members of the Virginia Milk Commission, who are conducting hearings here preparatory to setting up price and practice regulations for the area, believe the Norfolk-Portsmouth situation to be the "most complex" in the State. Milk is 14 cents per quart.

At the conclusion of sessions today, when the independent producers and consumers were heard, all three members of the commission stated frankly that they had run into a real problem.

That the retail price of milk in the area is too high and that the producers are not getting enough for the raw product were the contentions before the commission today, the brunt of the argument being presented by Mrs. P. E. Lutz, president of the Norfolk Housewives League, and W. L. Baillie, secretary of the Portsmouth and Tidewater Independent Grocers Associations.

Trade Display At Annapolis Draws Throngs

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Displaying everything from cuff lings to 1934 automobiles, Annapolis merchants are elated over the huge success of their third Merchants' Exposition, now being held in St. John's College gymnasium. Several thousand people have attended during two days. Business men are expecting increased interest for the remainder of the week.

Conceived several years ago by the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce, the exposition is held after a lapse of two years. In both the display of goods and the interest manifested, local business men see a promise of better conditions during the coming season.

According to Simon S. Martin, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, there has been a 150 per cent increase in both the number of visitors at the exposition and the number of booths occupied by merchants over exposifions of former years.

Many of the merchants took considerable effort in providing novel ideas to present their products, such as the exhibit of a small cannon bombarding the metal material of a well-known electric refrigerator with no effect and the booth containing a silversmith with all his apparatus at work on the product of a local jewelry establishment.

Adding to the popularity of the exposition are the antics of circus clowns. To provide further stimulus for attendance, prizes are given nightly.

Connecticut Collector Quits Political Position

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 31 (AP).—Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, Democratic National committeewoman, today announced her resignation from the National committee in compliance with instructions from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau that as collector of ports she can not continue as National committeewoman.

American Merchants of Death

Next week the United States will begin a Senate committee investigation of America's "Merchants of Death" . . . the munitions makers, whose livelihood is war. The investigation will last at least three weeks. Already the committee, of which Senator Nye is chairman, has hinted a link between American manufacturers of arms and Sir Basil Zaharoff, Europe's mysterious munitions king. What is the significance of this . . . and what other sensational developments will result from the investigation?

Schall Charges Foreign Profit In Silver Move

Senator Asserts Agent of Alien Nation Rushed to White House.

Minneapolis, Aug. 31 (AP).—Senator Thomas D. Schall (Republican), Minnesota, charged today that a representative of a foreign government which had purchased "two shiploads of silver" had rushed to the White House last Monday as soon as he landed in New York, without waiting for his baggage.

The blind Senator, returning here to continue his campaign against the New Deal on home ground, asserted in a statement to the press that Mr. Roosevelt "has usurped the control of your Government in Washington."

"If it is not true, let Mr. Roosevelt tell you of that hurried visit last Monday morning of that representative of a foreign government who rushed from his ship on landing in New York to the White House without even waiting for his baggage.

40-Cent Purchase Charged.

"Let him tell you about the two shiploads of silver this man had purchased with the money of his government when silver was selling at 40 cents an ounce and Mr. Morgenthau, the Secretary of the Treasury, had that Executive order raising the price of silver to 50 cents an ounce securely hidden in his safe. How did this man know the price was going up?"

Schall did not name the "representative of a foreign government."

Schall indicated Minnesota's Farmer-Labor Governor, Floyd B. Olson, will be the object of his attacks here when he said:

"With the Roosevelt Administration indorsing the Communist Sinclair, of California, and Olson, of Minnesota, for Governors of their respective States, the people of the United States for the first time in the history of their Nation come face to face with an attempt to overthrow the Republic."

Statement Not Explained.

He did not amplify his statement that President Roosevelt had indorsed Upton Sinclair, winner of the Democratic nomination for Governor in California. Olson, however, has repeatedly emphasized his support of Roosevelt and the New Deal program.

Schall, who several days ago received a sharp denial from the President, when he asserted the "Brain Trust" was drafting a proposal for a Government press service, added that the political question no longer is one of party, but "Are you an American?" "Do you believe in liberty or in tyranny?"

"Are you going to permit the Republic to be destroyed," he queried, "because a man elected President by false pretenses promises you things you know very well he nor any other man can give?"

Schall declined to amplify his statement.

Workers are busy out on Anacostia flats, in the District's 45-acre Rorer relief garden, starting the harvest and paving way, at the same time, for new crops.

Subsistence Plots Have Yielded Vegetables Worth $50,000.

Out on sun-washed, wind-brushed Anacostia flats the autumn harvest already has begun.

In rough sombreros, clay-caked overalls and shirt sleeves, workers walk between tall stalks of corn and down avenues of beans as they toil on Rorer Farm, District jobless project, which is responsible for fresh vegetables on the tables of thousands on Washington's relief rolls.

As the weather becomes crisp the harvest will become golden, yellow, red—golden-skinned yams, yellow turnips, red tomatoes.

More than 800 needy families, taking Rorer Farm as their model, are busy harvesting in their individual subsistence gardens. They keep what they produce. They eat it and it gives new strength to tired bodies. They can it and it is a treat in the winter. Sometimes they sell it for pin money.

Already, despite drought and frequent cases of inexperience, the individual farmers on the subsistence garden plots have harvested almost $50,000 worth of vegetables. Before snow flies the amount, officials estimate, will be doubled.

They have grown broccoli, peas, beans, spinach, radishes and beets. They have grown everything that has been produced on the Rorer farm, where men go between the stalks of corn as they might do in the agricultural belt of the West.

Model for Gardeners.

Rorer Farm may some day become a model for the Nation to look at, just as it has been a model for the individual subsistence gardeners, welfare officials believe.

It is named for Langhorne Rorer, its present master farmer and supervisor. Langhorne Rorer, a 70-year-old Virginia dirt farmer, is the man who pioneered the farm which bears his name.

Last winter what is now Rorer Farm was tanglewood, tumbleweed and marsh, on the banks of the tawny Anacostia River, near Benning. Wild birds sometimes nested in the trees and when warm weather came mosquitoes in countless thousands swarmed and spawned and buzzed where now stand Mr. Rorer's brain children, the avenues of corn and beans and turnips and yams.

When the District decided to use the 45-acre tract as a community garden, Mr. Rorer led the men on relief rolls who cut down the trees, drained the marshes and clipped the tanglewood. The project was in many respects a miniature of the draining of Italy's Pontine Marshes.

"I guess that makes me, a Virginia farmer of 70 summers, sort of Il Duce of the Anacostia," said Mr. Rorer yesterday.

To get to Rorer Farm, tucked along the river bank, it is necessary to take a devious side road, which has no name.

"It used to be the Road to Nowhere," beamed Mr. Rorer, looking at a particularly luscious ear of corn as a mother might look at her first born. "Now it's the Road to Somewhere."

Work for Scores of Jobless.

The Road to Somewhere has furnished work for shifting scores of jobless men throughout the summer. They till the soil until they get work elsewhere, always with Mr. Rorer to guide them.

This year so far the farm has produced 1,000 dozens of ears of corn. It will yield 750 bushels of beans, 3,000 bushels of turnips, hundreds of bushels of sweet potatoes and 300 bushels of tomatoes. Corn and beans have been its best crops.

The value of the crops will exceed $5,000 before the harvest is over. Their value in ending human suffering is inestimable.

Companions of Mr. Rorer at night time, in his improvised house, built out of an abandoned bus, are his dog, Touser, and his horse, Mike, who is 15 years old, dapple gray, and the entire live stock of Rorer's Farm.

The farm, which is beginning to yield its harvest for the first year of its operation, is Mr. Rorer's dream come true.

"The two greatest fellers I know anything about are God Almighty and Uncle Sam," asserted Mr. Rorer yesterday, nibbling a beanstalk.

Marilyn Miller Bride Of Chorus Man, Report

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Herald Tribune said Marilyn Miller, musical comedy star, was reported along Broadway today to have married Chet O'Brien, a former chorus man, but confirmation was lacking as Miss Miller could not be found.

Miss Miller has often been seen in the company of O'Brien, described by friends as "a handsome young actor of 23."

BLACKIE BEAR

By D. SAM COX

Even Mr. Man Cooks for the Boys.

Anybody who believes that all the fun there was in the Creek country on that corn-shucking night was at Mr. Man's house is just as wrong as he would be if he added two and two and said it made five. It is a fact that they had a good time over their job, just as people always do when they have a lot of help to do a piece of work, and know that there is going to be a lot of something good to eat when they get it finished.

What one of you children wouldn't have a good time if you had a lot of your little friends helping you to bring in wood and coal or to dig in the garden, and mother had told you that you should have some ice cream and cake as soon as the work was finished? I don't see a single hand go up, and so I don't believe there is one of you that wouldn't feel like singing if you were in just that sort of a nice fix. Yes, the smell of that barbecue and the cooking ginger bread and the other parts of supper that was getting ready in the kitchen was enough to make anybody shuck corn and sing, and that's just what the crowd did. And now we will leave them, and we will peep through the little window in Blackie's house and see what is going on there.

Just look at Jocko Monkey with the big butcher knife cutting up that pig that crawled over there from Mr. Man's house after he was cooked! Yes, Blackie is letting Jocko do the carving, for it is the first barbecued pig he ever saw, but Jocko has seen them before. His Old Miss used to have such pigs every once in a while, and he learned all about cutting them up, just as he learned to do just about everything there is to do about a house. And if you like to see people grin because they are so happy they just can't help it, you may look at Billie Possom. If he has any better time over eating that barbecue than he is having in just smelling it, he may stretch his mouth so that his lips will get hung behind his ears.

"It was a right good joke on her when Mr. Man cooked such a nice Sunday dinner for Blackie Bear's dog, Howler, that day, but it is even better to have Mr. Man to cook for him and for Blackie Bear, himself," Blackie said, as he poured out coffee for the crowd, while Jocko was doing the carving. "And I would have told anybody that Mr. Man never could do half as good cooking as his wife can, but it looks like I will have to fake it all ba . There's no telling what he will learn to do, if we neighbor with him long enough. He certainly has learned to run faster than he used to do, if Jay Bird isn't fooling us about the way he ran that day when he woke up and missed the gun and turkeys that some monkey or other sort of "Strange Animal" took. And then, too, he learned to pull a plow when his donkey went visiting."

"Whatever Mr. Man has learned, I haven't learned to just sit still for ever so long while the good smell of that meat sifts through my whiskers and tickles my nose, and I am going to be mighty happy when some of it gets on this little plate," Billie Possom said.

And to make him happy, Blackie loaded up his plate and handed it to him.

Board to Halt Unfair Prices On New Sewer

Plumbers Will Not Be Allowed to Profiteer in Arlington.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

If there is found to be profiteering by registered plumbers in Arlington County in making house connections to the new county sewers system, Chairman Lyman M. Kelley, of the county board, has announced that he will seek to have the county do the work at a set price. He emphatically denied the charges made recently by William E. Wolff, local plumbing association director, that residents of some sections of the country will be required to pay as much as $400 or $500 to connect with the new lines.

Kelley says that the cost could not possibly be as high as estimated by Wolff unless the property owner lived a long distance from the line and was required to pay the entire cost.

He declared his objection to making provisions for house connections as the sewers are laid is that it would require an expenditure of from $100,000 to $200,000 in additional equipment that may never be used. He stated that where the sewers are so deep underground the ditch from the house will be dug with a fall of 14 inches to the 100 feet until just before reaching the tap where the fall will be on a 45-degree angle, this eliminating a deep ditch all the way.

Declaring that he could see no point in swelling the attendance at a Republican rally, Representative Howard W. Smith turned down the invitation of John Locke Green, Republican candidate for House of Representatives from the Eighth Virginia Congressional District to debate the issues of the New Deal at a meeting in Manassas on September 8, when Green formally opens his campaign.

Representative Smith declared that he was convinced that if his supporters considered his attendance at the rally desirable they would have communicated the fact to him rather than to Green.

In his reply to Green's invitation Smith states: "You state with accuracy that I have consistently supported the measures advocated by the Roosevelt Administration during the Seventy-third Congress. You further state that you are opposed to these policies, from which it necessarily follows that you favor repeal by the next Congress of the recovery measures that have so happily rescued the country from the disaster of 12 consecutive years of Republican rule. The issue is so clearly drawn that there is little to debate before an audience so well informed as the electorate of the Eighth Virginia District."

Beatty Seriously Ill After Circus Accident

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 31 (AP).—Clyde Beatty, wild animal trainer, was in serious but not critical condition today in University Hospital.

He was shot accidentally in the left leg by a blank cartridge when a lion lunged at him during his act with a circus at Bay City last week, and an infection set in that threatened to developed into gangrene.

George Gravatt Funeral Held

Chevy Chase Resident Dies at Daughter's Home in Richmond, Va.

Funeral services for George Gravatt, 77, of Chevy Chase, Md., were held yesterday afternoon at Fredericksburg Cemetery, Fredericksburg, Va., with the Rev. Edward O. Clark, of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, officiating.

Mr. Gravatt, a native of Fredericksburg, died Wednesday at Stuart Circle Hospital, in Richmond, after a brief illness of pneumonia. With Mrs. Gravatt he was visiting their daughter, Mrs. E. B. McLaughlin, at her home in Richmond. The family has lived at 105 Leland street, Chevy Chase, since Mr. Gravatt's retirement 17 years ago from business in Roanoke, Va., where he lived many years.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Nina Flippo Gravatt, he is survived by a son, G. F. Gravatt, who is traveling in Alaska, and two daughters, Mrs. E. F. Myles, of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. McLaughlin.

There are also four sisters, Mrs. V. O. Willis, of Charlotte, N. C.; Miss Sallie Gravatt and Mrs. A. G. Hawkins, of Fredericksburg, Va.; Mrs. N. G. Coleman, of Richmond, and a brother, Ellis Gravatt, of Hanford, Calif.

Cash, Watch Lost in Crash.

In the confusion following an accident on July 27 at Connecticut avenue and Everett street northwest, Esther B. Bryson, of 6311 Georgia avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., lost $21 in cash and a wrist watch valued at $60, she reported to police yesterday.

Paraguayans Accept Chaco Truce Terms

Buenos Aires, Aug. 31. (AP).—A truce in the Chaco war seemed near tonight, after four years of bitter, bloody jungle fighting.

Paraguay had accepted and Bolivia was considering the proposal made by three big friendly nations, Argentina, Brazil and the United States, to cease hostilities while peace terms are discussed at Buenos Aires.

Jubilance over Paraguay's willingness to stop fighting was tempered, however, by the countless difficulties standing in the way of any armistice.

Paraguay's finest troops, thrusting forward along two fronts in their sixth major offensive, have driven far into the territory Bolivia claims as her own—a factor, neutral observers were inclined to believe, in Paraguay's willingness to rest temporarily on her laurels.

Bolivia, on the other hand, was not regarded as likely to favor armistice terms leaving Paraguayan forces too far forward in the territory she claims, especially since the war office at La Paz today claimed flatly that the enemy's sixth big drive had been smashed.

Nevertheless, workers for peace this evening hoped that Paraguay's acceptance of an armistice would break the long deadlock.

Revolt Threat Answers Move To Crown Otto

Little Entente Also Offers Barrier to Hapsburgs' Return in Austria.

This is the last of a series of articles describing conditions which have caused many citizens of Austria to look to the future with despair. It tells how some present leaders are trying to shape that future.

Vienna, Aug. 31 (AP).—Every time there is a ripple on the political waters of Austria the story of a possible restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy, with young Archduke Otto ascending the throne of his fathers, is revived.

It popped up when Chancellor Dollfuss was assassinated, and murmurs of it are heard now.

But observers conversant with the legal and political phases of a possible restoration believe it will be a long time before another Hapsburg waves a scepter in Austria.

It is pointed out that other nations beside Austria and Hungary have more than a word to say in the matter. Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania are unalterably opposed to a Hapsburg monarchy anywhere in the vicinity.

These nations of the Little Entente fear that an ambitious king might attempt to start sniping at their borders in an effort to create a state resembling the old Austro-Hungary kingdom.

"The minute a coronation is attempted in Vienna or Budapest, armies of the Little Entente will mobilize," said a Czechoslovakian statesman.

Opposition in Austria.

But there is opposition to the Hapsburgs in Austria as well as among its neighbors. The influential Arbeiter Zeitung, expressing the view of working classes, said recently:

"Do the workers realize what a return of the Hapsburgs would mean? Present day Austria is too small for Hapsburg ambition, because sooner or later the family would start out to reconquer, at any cost in blood, the empire it has lost. Austrian peasants and workers again would be called upon to die for Hapsburg ambitions. The house of Hapsburg created the war; its return would mean more war. No such favorable moment could occur for a proletarian revolution in Austria as the moment of a Hapsburg restoration. * * * Against the restoration we play the card of revolution."

Of more immediate concern to Austrians than the 21-year-old archduke are two men now trying their utmost to steady the uncertain government of the moment. They are Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg, 37-year-old chancellor, thought to be the youngest head of a state in the world, and Prince Ernst Rudiger Starhemberg, 35, vice chancellor and founder of the Heimwehr troops.

Lacks Sense of Humor.

Schuschnigg has little of the popular appeal or the human qualities of Dr. Dollfuss. He is coldly intellectual, academic and unimaginative He displays no sense of humor.

As chancellor, Dr. Schuschnigg will follow the policies of his popular predecessor. But it is admitted on all hands that he has a tremendous task on his hands. The country is torn, on the one hand, among Christian Socialists, Nazis, Monarchists and orthodox Socialists, and on the other hand among ambitious auxiliary military groups like the Heimwehr, Storm Troops and the "Fatherland Front."

The chancellor is trying to conciliate and unite these diverse factions. Many friendly foreign observers believe he will be unable to do so.

Prince Starhemberg is a descendant of a long line of princes, a millionaire, a society leader, a nobleman to his finger tips, but also, strangely, an irrepressible revolutionist.

Prince Likes Excitement.

For years he has gone about Europe looking for excitement. He was with Adolf Hitler when the German leader engineered the so-called "beer-hall putsch" at Munich in 1923. He also participated in the Kapp revolt in Germany in 1920.

The prince is virtually military dictator of Austria. In addition to organizing the national Heimwehr troops the prince created, with his own funds, two battalions of Austrian sharpshooters to fight the Socialists in Vienna.

In many quarters it is said of the prince that he is ambitious to become President of the Austrian Republic, succeeding Wilhelm Miklas. Others say he wishes to become regent and then king of the country.

The prince himself, however, denies he entertains any such notions. He said recently the time is not ripe for restoration of a monarchy.

9-1-34

One of the strangest methods of egg incubation known to science is that practiced by the Surinam toad. This animal hatches from eggs pressed into the skin of the mother's back.

As the eggs are laid, the male toad takes them, one by one, and presses them into the soft, spongy skin of the mother's back, where they remain during incubation. The skin affords warmth and protection for the young. The small toads pass the tadpole stage of development within the egg and emerge from it fully developed, except for size.

The letter "X" is commonly used in algebra in equations to signify a variably unknown quantity. Yet by its Roman usage the letter has a very definite value. In an upright position, it is equal to 10, the common Roman numeral. On its side, it equals 1,000; when a line is drawn above it, it represents 10,000, and when it is inclosed by lines on the top and sides, it is equal to 1,000,000. X is also used as a symbol to denote the twenty-first of a series.

In chemistry, X denotes xenon, a rare element; the Greek letter X, called "Chi," is often used as an abbreviation for "Christ" or "Christian;" mathematically, it may be used to indicate the "abscissa in the rectilinear coordinate system," and in electricity it sometimes stands for reactance.

Fetes Wait For Mexican Polo Guests

Hosts Find Interesting Personalities Among Visiting Group.

Washington polo enthusiasts, and there are many of them, have at last had a sample of the fast and expert playing and riding that is to be seen in the series of games between the Mexican Army team and the teams of the United States Army.

Thursday afternoon the polo grounds in Potomac Park, thronged with spectators, was the scene of the first practice game.

This is the first year that this international series has taken place in the Capital. In addition to exciting afternoons at the polo grounds, Capital society anticipates many gay evening parties planned in honor of the visitors.

Pioneer in Mexican Polo.

Capt. Antonio Nava Castillo first entered the military service as a cadet in the Mexico Military College and was graduated in 1925. Following graduation he had some experience in aviation, attending the Mexican Aviation School, but later returned to the cavalry and was assigned to the Presidential Guards. Capt. Nava's service with the Presidential Guards brought him to the attention of the director of the military college and he was selected as an instructor at the military school.

From his tour of duty as instructor at the staff of the military college, he went to the Secretary of War's office, during which time he was promoted to the grade of senior captain and appointed to the department of factories and military supplies, on duty with Gen. Limon, chief of the department.

Capt. Nava played on the first polo team organized in the Presidential Guards, which Gen. Limon formed and led as team captain. Capt. Nava is now rated with Capt. Gracia as one of the two outstanding polo players in Mexico, and participated in the matches in California last year, when the Mexican team was outstanding in the tournaments, largely through the steady team play of the all-Mexico players.

Mexico's First Poloist.

Capt. Juan Gracia Zazueta entered the Mexican army as a cadet in the Military College of the Republic in July, 1924, and upon graduation in 1928 was assigned as a second lieutenant to the First Regiment of the Presidential Guards. He is one of the leading horsemen of the Mexican army.

Gen. Limon, when chief of the brigade of the Presidential Guards, chose Capt. Gracia as his first selection for the Mexican army polo team, and Capt. Gracia has since participated in all of the Mexican army polo games.

Capt. Gracia is reported to be the outstanding polo player in Mexico and his reputation has preceded him to Washington as one of the few five or six goal handicap players in the southern republic.

Landon Bunker Will Be Bride Of Lieut. Maury

Army Couple's Engagement Announced; Wed in November.

September usually is associated with returning from vacations, preparing for school and settling down for the cold busy months of winter, but this year it is competing with May and June for having the most engagements and weddings.

Another engagement of interest to Army circles was recently announced by Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Paul D. Bunker, of Fort Banks, Mass., that of their daughter, Landon Priscilla, to Lieut. Thompson Brooke Maury 3d., U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Magruder, of Brookline, Mass.

Miss Bunker attended George Washington University and recently completed her junior year at the Massachusetts Instute of Technology. She is a granddaughter of the late Admiral William H. Beehler, U. S. N., and is a descendant of James Bunker, one of the founders of Dover, N. H. Col. Bunker has been in command of the harbor defenses on Boston for the last two years.

Lieut. Maury was graduated from the University of Virginia in 1930, and from West Point last June. He is now on duty with the Sixteenth Field Artillery at Fort Myer, Va. He is a direct descendant of Commodore Brooke and of Sir William Cocke, one-time secretary of the colony of Virginia.

The wedding will take place in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Fleming are at the Shoreham while in the Capital for a few days, having come from Rehoboth Beach, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis Smith. Their daughter, Miss Alice Fleming, is remaining at Rehoboth Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming will reopen their house at 2200 Wyoming avenue next week.

Informatory Penalty Doubles.

There is a certain very pugnacious type of player who just loves to make a vindictive Slam double. There are few calls so gratifying to the Bridge sadist—and few which so often resemble the well-known process of cutting off one's nose to discountenance one's face. As I have often pointed out, the noninformatory type of double is often most informatory, and proper allowance for this fact should be made before taking the fatal plunge. The double may steer Declarer into a makable Slam contract in another suit or in notrump, or it may, by locating the outstanding trumps, give him the clew to a finesse, or even a series of finesses, which otherwise would be unthinkable. For this reason it is a good rule not to double a Slam contract in a suit unless your trump tricks are absolutely certain and, in adidtion, a successful Slam in another suit or in notrump is impossible.

In the following hand West's double gave South the key to a successful finesse not only against the Jack but against the nine as well, thus enabling him to fulfill with ease a contract which would not otherwise have been fulfilled by anyone but a very lucky lunatic.

South, Dealer
North-South vulnerable

	♠ A 10 8 ♡ K J 10 8 6 ◇ A 9 ♣ K Q 5
♠ J 9 7 6 3 ♡ Q 9 4 ◇ 5 ♣ J 8 6 4	N W E S	♠ — ♡ 5 2 ◇ 10 8 7 6 4 3 ♣ 10 9 7 3 2
	♠ K Q 5 4 2 ♡ A 7 3 ◇ K Q J 2 ♣ A

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♡	Pass
4◇	Pass	4NT	Pass
5NT	Pass	6♠	Pass
7♠	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

It was inevitable that a Grand Slam should be reached after South, with his 4½ honor-tricks, heard North made a Forcing Takeout which guaranteed at least 3½ more. As soon as South heard of North's adequate trump support in spades, with all four Aces placed by the 4-5 Notrump Convention, South knew that the combined hands contained eight spades headed by the A K Q, and since the chances are approximately two to one that five outstanding trumps will be divided 3-2, there is no doubt but that the contract of seven spades was correct.

West's double is the only factor imaginable which could have allowed the contract to be made. By no conceivable reasoning could South have failed to play the spade King as the first trump lead. But after the Double, when West opened the four of clubs, South had only to look at his hand and the Dummy to see that there could be no card with which West might hope to win a trick outside of the trump suit. With only four trumps to the Jack West would surely fear the loss of his guarded honor through a finesse; so West obviously must have had five trumps and East would be void.

After winning the club Ace on the first round, South, therefore, led a spade and, when West played low, finessed the eight. Since West showed out the subsequent play was simple. The Ace of hearts constituted an entry to take a second spade finesse, and a diamond lead to the Jack put South in again to draw West's remaining trumps. At this point South needed to exercise some care lest he be blocked. On the King of spades a small heart was thrown; on the Queen of spades, the last trump led, it was necessary for South to discard Dummy's diamond Ace. This unblocked the diamond suit and the King and Queen of diamonds could be led, furnishing discards for two more of Dummy's hearts. Now the King of hearts and King and Queen of clubs in Dummy won the last three tricks.

Through this extreme case we find an admirable illustration of how important the bidding can be in determining when and how to finesse. In most cases information received from the bidding can tell only which opposing hand should be assumed to hold a missing King or Queen; but the range of information extends to the point illustrated above in which the first finesse is for a nine-spot.

Men Must Choose Between Sport Togs or Ultra-Sophisticated Clothing for Fall!

Fashion Takes Both Extremes And Shuts Out Compromises

Style and Materials of British Sportsmen's Wear Furnish Models for "New Leisure" Garments of General Utility.

WHAT IS THE GENERAL OUTLOOK on Washington fashions for men this fall? New leisure has brought about a new art of living. There is more time for play. Clothes, therefore, follow in the footsteps of those gentlemen who have had time to play all of their lives.

Tweedy fabrics, free and easy garments without padding and stiffening, will be the rule. The cut and color will be adaptations of those clothes worn by British sportsmen and members of Long Island's horsey set.

The mixed suit ensemble is perhaps the most important note in the whole fall picture. The idea, offered a short while ago, was quickly accepted and attained immediate popularity. It has taken a tremendous grip on the younger element, and the "old boys" like it, as well. The odd combinations can be worn on dressed-up occasions, without giving one the "band-box" feeling, and that is important. The nonchalant and debonair manner is typical of 1934 and appeals to all.

Certainly the new autumn ensembles will look vastly different from those in vogue this spring and summer. New fabrics, new patterns, new colors are in style. Lovats, a greenish, brownish, gray tone borrowed from the Scotch moors, is a high note. Colorings from nature in autumn tones of browns and rich reddish casts will prevail in shirtings, neckwear and accessories.

The Other Extreme.

The other side of the picture, as presented by the minority who abhor a so-called "he-man" attitude on clothes, will find a "dress-up" trend that makes detail a fetish.

This sophisticated dresser will follow the Continent in his choice of chalk-striped suitings on dark grounds, double-breasted waistcoats, deep-tone shirtings with starched collars, plain toecap, black kid shoes, dark ties—black especially good—pinned with pearl stickpins.

This chap will wear the derby and the black Homburg distinction.

There'll be no fashionable inbetweens. You'll have to run to one extreme or the other in order to be correctly dressed. That's a healthy sign, too. Action in clothes means general stimulation . . . life and living . . . and that's the most worthwhile thing we mortals know.

A New Oracle for Men.

Few things contribute more to the satisfaction of a man than the knowledge that he is properly dressed for the occasion. To assist our readers in obtaining properly fashioned clothing we have created this department.

"Fashion in the final analysis is merely good hard common sense. It means wearing the right thing for the right event at the right time."

If this long-tanding definition be true, then Washington fashions are a distinct entity in themselves.

The editors have spared no effort to secure the proper style information from reputable sources all over the globe.

Expert advice has been given to coordinate world-wide authentic fashions with the trend, movement and utility of modes in Washington.

The Post will welcome comment on this new feature for men.

1. Balmaccan. 2. The Short Warm. 3. The Heavy Ulster. 4. For Town Wear. 5. Blue Chesterfield. 6. Double-breasted. 7. Strictly Formal.

New Overcoats Have Military Cut

Balmaccan Style Shown for Sports Wear Next Season.

New Chesterfield Types Meet Semi-Formal Requirements.

They consist of: 1. Military-style Balmaccan for general sports wear as well as campus wear. 2. The Short Warm, a style rapidly gaining favor due to its freedom of leg action. This coat has won acceptance here. It originated with the British army.

3. The heavy ulster with raglan sleeves is a favorite. 4. For town wear a semidetached double-breasted coat of the Chesterfield type without velvet collar is favored. 5. Dark blue Chesterfield with velvet collar fly front in herring-bone design. With cash pocket.

6. The double-breasted Guards coat with half-belt in back, cash pocket and flared skirt. High fashion shows this coat with slash pockets. This garment also originated with the Royal Guards of the British army.

7. This is the strictly formal fly-front dress coat, slant pockets, dull silk lapels.

The average wardrobe can adequately fill the need for all winter occasions with a sports coat and a semiformal coat, provided the latter is navy blue Oxford gray, preferably a Chesterfield. Variations of the above styles will be found. However, these types form the basis upon which overcoat fashions for 1934 are built.

Sub-Freshmen Favor Big Brothers' Varsity Styles With Extra Room for Rough Sports

BORROWING styles from their big brothers in the university, "prep" school boys and subfreshmen favor polo coats for topcoats, and the military Balmaccan with raglan sleeves, single-breasted, and the heavy tweed, double-breasted short warm for more rigorous weather. Ulsters and ulsterettes are good.

The sub-freshman favors the easy-swing jacket more than does his varsity brother, and has a decided preference for the Norfolk jacket. Slacks, of course, are his forte. And he goes in for brown buck shoes and jai alai shoes with heavy crepe soles in a big way.

Seeking to work his way up to varsity status, he imitates his college brother in most things, but being a more ardent sportsman he needs suede or leather jackets that will stand up under rough wear.

He likes a deep-back, bandless, English cap for sports; and for those very precious formal occasions he will wear a double-breasted dinner jacket with peak lapels, or hit the height of sartorial ecstasies when he boasts a shawl collar to it.

The Post's men's fashion editor will be happy to outline a complete list of prepster's needs and where to obtain them.

Tweeds Gain Popularity Among University Men

Trend Toward Rough-Surface Fabrics During Past Year Increases With New Autumn Showings; Ruddy Colors Are Popular.

THE WORLD'S most discerning connoisseur of clothing is the university man. He can be fooled but once and very rarely that! This is a brief key to forecast of university fashions for fall gathered from such authentic style sources as Princeton, Yale, Amherst and Williams.

The trend in suits for the past year had been toward tweeds and other rough-surface fabrics. Their general acceptance among university men has been changed to demand. Harris tweeds, Shetlands, cheviots and homespuns rate "A." Shoulders of jackets are natural—without padding.

The jacket itself is much longer than heretofore. It is plain except for center or side vents, and there is usually a fullness at the chest and a decided flare at the hips.

Topnotch among coats is a three-button notch lapel, single-breasted model of the "Brooks" type, which very often boasts a cash pocket. A welt seam is added swank.

Colors, in their order of importance, are rich browns, lovats, grays and Glenn Urquhart. In fabrics, cheviots, gun club checks and herringbone weaves continue good.

For the more dressy occasions flannels, worsteds, and chevoits with chalk stripes on dark grounds dominate. Navy blues and dark grays are also good.

In hats, the high note is undeniably the snap brim Homburg in dark brown. For town wear the bowler, a dignified derby hat with full crown and straight brim, is just the thing.

Odd jackets are generally of tweed fabrics or gabardine. The Norfolk jacket, popular years ago, is gaining in vogue since its Princeton debut in 1933. Easy-swing backs, popular now, are on the wane. Flannels and checked slacks worn with these coats are complete general campus attire.

Shoes run toward the brogue (in Scotch grain) and English lasts. Brown buck in plain toe models always rate high. An important new note is the Jai Alai shoe, which will be popular for winter wear, especially in white with a black saddle.

The tuxedo still ranks tails for after 6 o'clock wear, although the formal garment is deemed correct when ladies are present. Medium weight butterfly tie matching lapels. For dinner jacket—single-breasted peak lapel. Extremely high fashion is the shawl collar.

Patent leather pumps of long vamp are worn, and English last ties acceptable. Black suede shoes are out for formal wear.

The even-striped oxford shirt with round collar attached is being worn. It's smart when pinned. It has not as yet reached the high points but it is on its way up. The button-down collar shirt either made up in cotton or wool flannel is still big.

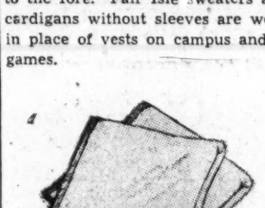
Tabs for fall off slightly, but will be worn on more "dressed-up" occasions. Somewhat loud stripes and plaids gain favor. British stripes and hounds tooth patterns are popular. Deep tones are favored and gain more and more popularity each day. Blue is the best color with tan and gray in sequence named. Yellow and cream fabrics which started earlier this season are on their way up.

Fashion is moving in circles and back comes the pointend bow ties. Foulards, regimental stripes and bandana cloth are the big fabrics. They are very colorful and set off more somber fall wear.

Crocheted ties in such color combinations as raspberry on black; yellow green on deep blue green; pink on dark gray and many other unusually pleasant combinations are being worn. Stripes will be bigger than ever this fall. The Macclisfields type of geometric pattern and shepherd checks in navy and black find renewed interest.

The most important items in hosiery are Argyle plaids, club checks, horizontal stripes in wools and the old reliable six-and-three ribs in deep-tone lisles. These all rate high. Of course, preference depends on the climate and location.

Tattersall plaids on cream colored ground constitute the newest smart note in vests. They fit in with all odd ensembles. Yellow is another ground for Tattersall that is coming to the fore. Fair Isle sweaters and cardigans without sleeves are worn in place of vests on campus and at games.



Handerchiefs are going rather elegant in madras and foulards printed on contrasting grounds. White linen with colored edges is also good.

String gloves in yellow, brown and white find favor. Very high fashion is the peasant string glove with flowered Tyrolean designs. Oxblood pigskin is important. For more dressy occasions white, mocha, and yellow buck are more highly favored.

Mufflers run toward plaids and prints, especially of the Scotch tartan design. For formal wear the white silk or crocheted muffler is first.

Suspenders are colorful and narrow in width. Belts are braided, in fabrics, cords or buckskin with brass and loops. The cummerbund is out. Heavy gilt safety pins are worn in the collars of soft shirts.

The single-breasted balmaccan of Harris tweed is still the favorite topcoat of university men. At Princeton we saw a reversible type of tweed which seemed like a keen fashion. The "gab" side serves as a raincoat and for a double duty purpose.

The double-breasted camel's-hair polo coats never seem to die out. A new note is the single-breasted raglan with a notch collar—almost a short warm. The single-breasted notch lapel fly front model with cash pocket in bold herringbone is good for dressy wear.

Ulsters in their huge variety of styles, colors and patterns have returned to the fore in a great choice of fabrics. Many boast fur collars and some even are fur lined.

The short warm in heavy tweed will be worn by a few who like their fashion "high."

The items sketched and mentioned on this page were gleaned from authentic style sources.

What's Puzzling You?

'FESS UP NOW. Haven't you been stumped on what's proper to wear at a Sunday night dance or a wedding at high noon? Do you know whether a buff-colored waistcoat is the right thing to wear with a morning jacket?

Just what are your dress problems? Possibly you will want to know the types and colors of accessories to blend with your new suits and coats.

Address your queries to The Post's Men's Fashion Editor. He is prepared to give authentic style information, which bears the indorsement of international acceptance and approval. To be "up" on style is as important today as to know the nicer points of etiquette.

Bargain Dime Buys Individual Jelly Service

Assorted Flavors Come in Glasses That Fit Many Uses.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

WHILE husbands are worrying themselves bald over bad investments, wives may with one dime net themselves a considerable profit. They will find in a local food shop numerous little glasses of jelly in crabapple, currant, mint, pineapple and orange flavors. Ten cents and the bargain is theirs. After the contents have been used there's a little whisky glass in memoriam.

Hostesses striving to touch the keynote of hospitality have here a means of providing their guests with clever individual jellies. At breakfast time a tray of assorted flavors takes the creases from a rumpled disposition. At tea there's no better way of putting the pink of perfection on crisp muffins or toasted wafers than to serve them with a small glass of jelly.

Take the masculine guests, for instance. When you offer him a dish of jelly he may take a spoonful or two, but you can tell from the look in his eyes he'd like to be turned loose on the whole thing. With a small glass all his own he feels at liberty to help himself to all he pleases.

Unlike the ordinary jelly glasses these are infinitely more to be prized, for they're splendid little "jiggers," useful and ornamental, too. You can fill them up again with some of your own jellies or preserves and continue the individual service.

Oranges in Grenadine.

A gourmet examining the variety of excellent and unusual foods in a downtown store would find himself fascinated by a jar of stuffed oranges put up in Grenadine. First the bright red color of the liquid would exercise a definite attraction, and then when closer inspection revealed the luxurious contents, temptation would have him by both ears, and the sale is as good as made.

The poor housewife catering to the appetite of a convalescent who can eat anything, but just won't, will find these delicacies sure favorites.

Melon Rind Pickles.

On the other hand, more practical purchasers will find themselves equally pliant to the suggestion of watermelon rind pickles, or canteloupe pickles. If they by chance hail from a geographic section commonly referred to as Dixie, just the sight of such pickles will make them remember summers when ground vines were clustered with melons and Auntie was busy for weeks at a time preserving and pickling the rinds. Perhaps these aren't just like hers, but a great many people say they are. Since they've been selling in Washington, at least, shoppers have been calling up for those "old fashioned melon pickles."

Punch Minus Alcohol.

Here's a man's recipe for a non-alcoholic punch: One bottle of lemon-lime syrup, plus plenty of ginger ale and ice. The gentleman who suggested the recipe beamed with pleasure when he spoke of it.

"I figured it out all by myself," he said. "My wife always used the flavoring with water, but one time she wasn't home and I tried ginger ale. It's really rather simple. You just more or less mix them together."

If a woman will study his directions very carefully and buy a bottle of this excellent flavoring she'll be apt to have a fine punch in no time. If she prefers a cherry or raspberry flavor that is available, too, or even one which is a combination of many fruit extracts. These bottles are especially prized in some households, as they may be used later for whisky or frigidaire water bottles. The price is 35 cents.

Remedy for Sweet Tooth.

All those who have a "sweet-tooth" craving may remedy the trouble at a cost of 29 cents. A downtown store has a candy department replete with several dozens of kinds of candy. The kind most sought after is coconut blocks made from a very old recipe. A large box of light, dark, and medium packed together sells for 29 cents.

Others who yearn for variety prefer a large box filled with nougatines, caramels, jellies, raspberries, strawberries, taffies, butter scotches, nut clusters, peppermints and fudges. This box is 29 cents, too.

Cheese Rings of the Best.

A cocktail party is not complete without some cheese rings. They appeal to men and women alike, and even please the guest with the finicky appetite.

Hostesses, and hosts, for that matter, who have tried cheese rings of various types agree if they're good they're very, very good, but if they're bad they're terrible. So in buying your cheese rings be sure and give those sold in a little shop near Connecticut and Massachusetts avenues first try. They're always fresh and always very, very good.

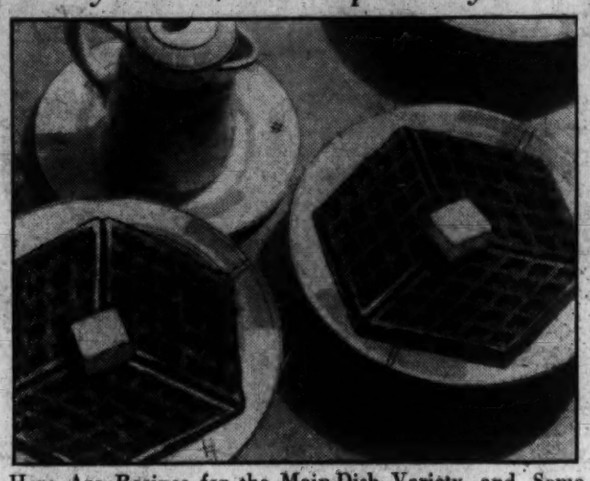
Waffles Are Seasonable Food Any Time, But Especially Now



Here Are Recipes for the Main-Dish Variety and Some for the Sweeter and Richer Kinds So Tasty for Desserts.

By Ann Barrett.

SEASONS have nothing to do with liking waffles. Actress Lois Moran has a yen for waffles and creamed chicken just any time at all. But with all the facilities on hand, summer is a good time to make them.

Main-dish waffles are usually made without sugar and served without syrup. But only your own sweet tooth sets the limit on sweetness for dessert waffles. These may be richer, too, and served not only with butter and syrup but with ice cream or whipped cream (sweetened with brown or maple sugar) or whipped cream and sweetened, fresh fruit.

Following is an all-around waffle recipe that you may vary in several interesting ways.

Plain Waffles.

Two cups sifted general-use flour, again siften with one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon soda and one-half teaspoon salt. In another bowl, beat up two egg-yolks, add two cups thick sour milk or buttermilk. Beat this into first mixture; add one-fourth cup melted butter or other shortening, or oil. Last, fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake as usual, in a waffle iron that has been preheated the required length of time.

If you are serving with creamed chicken, a good way to make the chicken seasonable is to add ¾ cup green corn and ¼ cup shredded green pepper to the chicken—say 2 cups of it and 2 cups of medium-thick white sauce. Cook corn, cut fresh from the cob, and pepper gently in 1 tablespoon butter.

Waffles Plus.

If you like a crispy and flavorsome crust, add 1 tablespoon corn meal to flour mixture in above recipe. If you like whole wheat, use whole wheat flour instead of white.

For chocolate waffles use first recipe with white flour, plus 2 squares of chocolate, first melted over hot water. Add chocolate to melted shortening. Increase shortening to 6 tablespoons. Add ¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream.

Gingerbread Waffles.

First mix and sift 2½ cups sifted general use flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1¼ teaspoons cinnamon. In another bowl mix 2 beaten egg yolks, 2-3 cup molasses, 1¼ cups thick sour milk or buttermilk. Beat second mixture into first mixture. Then add 6 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening and fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites.

Whipped cream sweetened with brown sugar makes a fine topping for these waffles. Bake with care in an iron that's not too hot.

What Today Means

"Virgo."

IF September 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:30 to 8:30 a. m., from 12:30 to 2:30 p. m. and from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m.

Any form of overexertion may exact a heavy payment, so display good sense by taking things easy. The capriciousness of a lady may prove rather trying, but fussing might make matters worse, so you will display good judgment if you take this dose of temporary unpleasantness with a smile and a silent tongue.

Plans for the following day might not at first meet with your approval, but it might be a good idea not to express yourself too quickly, for on second consideration you may find that you like them.

In your social contacts a rather indiscreet and foolish type of individual may thoughtlessly suggest something that might lead to a rather compromising situation, so be watchful that nothing you do places you in this position.

If a woman and September 1 is your natal day, your fondness for the good things of life, delectable viands especially, provide a constant source of pleasure for you. Catering to the public's palate should offer both a congenial and profitable market in which to display your discriminating taste.

A candy, pastry shop or restaurant should enable you to make both money as well as a reputation. As a housewife you should succeed marvelously, for if there is any truth in the old saying that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach" you should have no trouble in having a devoted, happy and contented husband.

Children born on September 1 usually grow up to be cheerful, intelligent and energetic men and women, devoted to family and friends. Usually successful in money matters.

If a man and September 1 is your birthday, you have very good judgment and rare discernment. This should make your opinon frequently sought. You inspire confidence. As a doctor, lawyer or writer on the foibles of mankind, you should attain a high position. You should make an excellent husband and devoted father.

Should Girls Give Lavish Adoration to Glamorous Movie Stars?

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: My girl chum and I are great movie fans. We are both 15 years old and both of us have corresponded for a couple of years with some of the movie actors and actresses, who have sent us their autographed pictures.

* * * *

Both of us have them on the walls and the bureaus in our rooms. Now, our parents have got their heads together, and have forbidden us to keep up our correspondence. Also, they say we are old enough to lay aside such foolishness. My mother has taken away my pictures and hidden them. She told me she had burned them, but I really believe she has just put them where I can't find them.

* * * *

Don't you think our parents are too harsh? Do you see any harm in our liking these actors and actresses, and showing our liking for them? ONE OF US.

DEAR "ONE OF US:" There is no real harm in your adolescent admiration of these clay-footed Hollywood idols, providing you don't let it carry over too long.

I daresay your parents tolerated it with indulgent amusement and understanding up to the time when they naturally expected it would wear itself out, and the two of you would turn from it, as children turn from paper dolls, into emotional outlets more in keeping with your ages and mentalities.

* * * *

Since you haven't done so in the time they expected, they have decided to take arbitrary steps. I do think they have been a little abrupt in their methods, but since they are your parents their opinions are entitled to respect. You must either abide by their decision or tactfully persuade them to reconsider it.

* * * *

Perhaps they feel, and rightly so, that your days would be better filled with a normal absorption in the companionship of boys and girls your own age, than with a rapt devotion to these faraway gods and goddesses. M. H.

Child Chats

By Alice Fox Pitts.

WITH exciting new toys at reasonable prices tempting us in the shop windows, we are apt, sometimes, to forget the joy of games of our own childhood. Has your youngster a bean bag?

For a very small child, it has some advantages over a ball. It is easier to hold, and stops where it lands. It is suitable for indoor or outdoor play. And the hard beans, in the square of cloth, rattle pleasantly—remember?

If you are having half a dozen small children at a birthday party, why not make a bean bag for each, in a gay cover? The cost is almost nothing, and the bags make acceptable souvenirs to take home.

What has happened to the singing games we all enjoyed? "Walter, Walter Wild Flower," "Lazy Mary, Will You Get Up?" "Go In and Out the Windows," and the other old favorites. Reviving them may provide the neighborhood children many a happy hour.

Miss Agnes McNeilly's Recipe For Pea Soup Wins Contest

Other Prizes Go to Mrs. L. Ellen Smith for Spinach Soup and Mrs. Eula Kendrick for "Smoky Aroma" Cooking Formulas.

IT WAS extremely difficult to pick the winner of the hot soup recipe contest, announced last week by The Washington Post, as so many delicious recipes were submitted.

After much consideration first prize, $3, was awarded to Miss Agnes McNeilly, of 330 Channing street northeast, for a split pea soup recipe.

Mrs. L. Ellen Smith, Maury Apartments, received second prize, $2, for cream of spinach soup.

Mrs. Eula Kendrick, 1109 Carlin drive, Clarendon, Va., received third prize, $1, for an unsual soup called "smoky aroma."

Honorable mention is awarded to Mrs. H. Burgess, Madison, N. J., for a New England bean soup; Mrs. W. N. Crawford, 4117 Thirty-seventh street northwest, corn and chicken soup, and Mrs. Ernest Jett, 907 New York avenue, for celery soup.

The three prize-winning recipes follow:

Split Pea Soup.

Put 1 cup dried peas to soak over night in three quarts of water. The next morning put into saucepan, adding enough water to cover and a generous sprinkling of salt, together with a sliced onion and a bit of red pepper. Simmer for 4 or 5 hours until perfectly soft, adding water as needed. When nearly ready to serve, put through sieve and add to the pulp enough milk to make a soup about the consistency of cream. Thicken with 1 tablespoon flour and 1 tablespoon butter cooked together and made smooth by using ½ cup of the liquor before adding to the pot. Serve with croutons made as follows:

Cut stale bread into thin slices, spread lightly with butter on one side, then cut into dices. Place in moderate oven until a golden brown.

Cream of Spinach Soup.

1 pint milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup spinach puree
½ teaspoon vegetable coloring
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Make white sauce of milk, butter and flour. Add puree which is made by forcing freshly cooked or canned spinach through a sieve. Add salt and pepper and heat thoroughly. Just before ready to serve add coloring.

Smoky Aroma.

1-3 pound dried beef
1-3 cup rice
2 cups stewed tomatoes
1 minced onion
1 cup minced celery
2 quarts water

Put the dried beef through the food chopper or cut it fine with a pair of scissors. Combine meat, tomatoes, onion, celery, water and boil about ten minues. Then add the rice and cook about 30 minutes longer. Add salt if needed and pepper if desired. Serve with croutons.

Streaky Tans Require Time For Bleaching

Preparations Work Well, but They Don't Do Quick Miracles.

By Frances Mangum.

FRECKLES and tan are not removed. They are lightened. Those optimists who, having basked too long in a summer's sun and are now ready to change their old skin for new, will find it isn't half so easy as it sounds.

There are creams and lotions which lighten coloring, and if used regularly will bleach freckles until they're hardly visible. These preparations will in time take the curse from a muddy-tan and will restore the natural tone of the skin. They even lighten olive complexions.

There are several things to consider, however, before undertaking this delicate operation.

1. Determine on consistent applications and scrupulous attention to directions.
2. Do not expect an instant transformation.
3. Apply the preparation up to the hair line, protecting the hair by a close-fitting make-up band.
4. Extend the bleach well down over the throat and shoulders to prevent a glaring contrast of dark and light skin.
5. Do not rub on the bleach; pat it.
6. After it has remained on overnight or for several hours, wash off with tepid water and cream the skin well.

Bleaching will not always fade "liver spots" as effectively as it will tan and freckles. The best means to rid your skin of these is to apply a circulation cream or lotion to quicken the flow of blood thrugh the skin. This with a bleach should do the work.

One of the best home-made bleaches consists of equal parts of peroxide and lemon juice mixed together.

Ann Harding uses tomato juice to whiten her skin. She bathes her neck and hands in it twice a week and declares it is soothing and refreshing as well as a wonderful whitener.

Oyster Season's Opening Inspires Recipe Contest

The oyster season is here! In honor of the new season the oyster will be the subject of next week's recipe contest.

Every housewife has at least one good recipe for the preparation of oysters, and if you have more, send them in. There is no limit to the number of contributions.

Address all contributions to Susan Mills, The Washington Post. They should be received not later than Thursday of next week. Be sure your name and full address are printed on each sheet. No recipes will be returned. Prizes will be: First prize, $3; second prize, $2; third prize, $1.

Child Training Proposed For Higher Intelligence

There is no reason for thinking the present level of intelligence of society today is the limit that can be reached, thinks Kai Jensen, assistant professor of education at the University of Wisconsin. He proposes the average intelligence be boosted by the control of the early development of children.

"We are subject to change physiologically and we have no reason at all to believe that mentally and physically the conditions we now have are perfect," he said.

Tap Dance and Stay Young, Says Expert

New York, Aug. 31.—A recipe for eternal youth is given by R. W. Vizay, of Milwaukee, president of the American Society of Teachers of Dancing. It is the tap dance.

No one is too old to take up tap dancing, says Mr. Vizay, and its practice will insure a lithe, graceful figure into old age. Many good tap dancers have started at 60, he says, and even a man of 80 with a feeling for music in the head" may succeed at the pursuit.

Mr. Vizey warns that the carioca and other fiery Southern dances should be banished from ballrooms, as they develop the hips.

"In Southern countries it is the fashion for women to be larger than we like to see them," he says.

Asparagus Stuffed Tomatoes.

8 firm tomatoes
24 spears cooked asparagus
3 tablespoons chopped green peppers
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles
1 cup cottage cheese
1-3 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup stiff mayonnaise

Wash and peel tomatoes. Scoop out center. Chill. Arrange three spears asparagus in each tomato and add portions of rest of ingredients. Serve on lettuce leaves. Have all ingredients thoroughly chilled before combining and serve immediately.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Colds.

THE nasal mucous membrane performs three important functions.

First, the filtering power of the nasal passages is designed to protect the lungs from dust particles that usually carry bacteria.

Second, the mucous membrane acts as a humidifier; that is, it supplies moisture to the air before it enters the lungs.

Third, on cold days the mucous membrane warms the air to approximately body temperature before it reaches the lungs.

The common cold is the most frequent malady that afflicts people living in the temperate zone. It is known to be infectious; that is, the virus may be conveyed from one person to another. Our custom of occupying poorly ventilated offices, schools, theaters, &c., provides a ready means of spreading the infection.

Most of us fail to take the common cold as seriously as we should. We have perhaps recovered in a day or two from numerous colds. We feel that we must keep on working and that to be absent from our employment two or three days whenever a cold appears is an admission of weakness.

Alkalis are frequently useful and lemonade will supply them if taken in sufficient quantities; if not, one-half teaspoon of baking soda two or three times daily will assist.

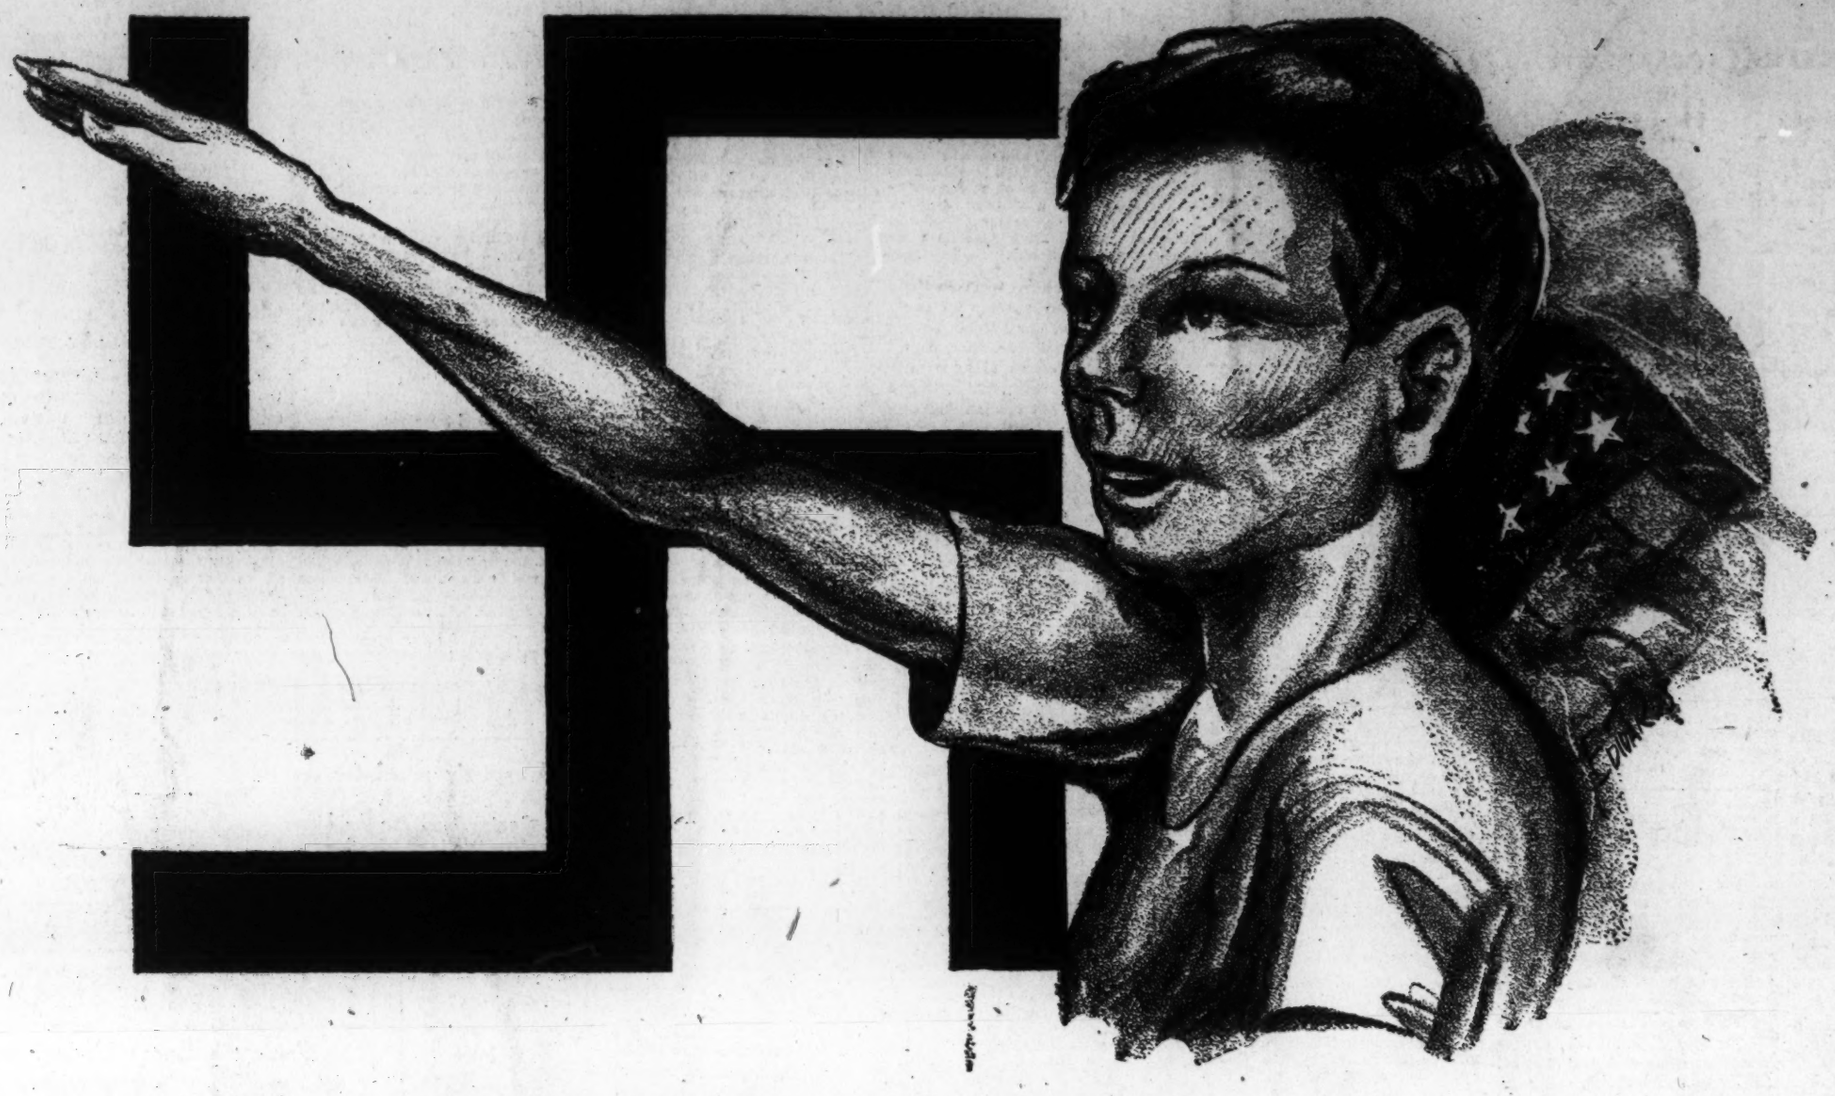
HITLERISM . . . MADE IN AMERICA!



HITLER'S Nazi-ism has spanned the Atlantic and spread across America from New York to San Francisco. "The Friends of New Germany," Nazi to the core and controlled from Berlin, is operating here on an expanding scale.

American boys of German parentage are being trained in Nazi camps where only German is spoken . . where the cadence of the goosestep crunches on the parade ground . . where the Nazi salute and shouts of "Heil Hitler!" are demanded.

Merchants unfavorable to the Nazi cause are boycotted; those who dare to oppose the organization are threatened with strong-arm measures. A secret trial body . . the Uschla . . enforces discipline with an iron hand, in a manner similar to the methods of the Russian Communist party. A spy system which includes among its agents cafe waiters, hotel bell-boys and chamber maids, operates in direct contact with the secret service in Germany. Records are kept of all German-Americans here.

An amazing . . shocking . . story written by Friedrich K. Kruppa, until recently himself employed in spreading Nazi propaganda in the United States. Be sure to read it . . in the Magazine Section of tomorrow's Sunday Post.

Farmers' Millions

The rise in the price level of agricultural commodities during the past few months has placed millions of dollars in the hands of farmers. Today a competent farmer should be in a position to obtain bank credit on a sound basis. With the better price level, his local banker is likely to have greater confidence and to be more willing to finance his operations, thus facilitating an expansion of bank credit along proper lines. And such an expansion always has been an essential part of a sound recovery program. Eugene Meyer, publisher of The Washington Post, writes an editorial article this Sunday.

Lazzeri's Homer, One On, Lifts Yankees to 3-1 Victory Over Nats

Vinson Beats Dettweiler to Win Title

Manor Golfer Rallies to Defeat Youthful Foe by 4 and 3 Score.

By Dave Herman.

EXPERIENCE was the determining factor in yesterday's District golf championship finals between Gene Vinson, 22-year-old Manor Club golf star, and 16-year-old Billy Dettweiler, of Congressional, and Vinson proved equal to the occasion.

The former Mississippi Open and Amateur champion, who used to swing left-handed before he switched to the other side, defeated his more youthful opponent, 4 and 3, in a battle that was far more exciting than the score indicates.

Vinson is a natural golfer, possessing the swing and the shots. His forte seems to be the ability to rally triumphantly after his adversary has grabbed an early lead. Against Willis Hurd, jr., in his first match Thursday, Vinson waited until the Indian Spring kid had taken a 2-up lead before he cut loose. Roger Peacock held a 2-up lead at one stage of their match, and Vinson snuffed out the Maryland State Amateur champion on the home green. In his semifinals match with Hickman Greene, of Argyle, yesterday Vinson was 3 down at the turn, but showed strong finishing powers to win on the twentieth green.

Dettweiler in Lead.

And so it was in his match with Dettweiler that Vinson found himself 2 down at the end of three holes and 1 down going to the tenth. Then he opened up, while Billy started pressing, and won five of the next six holes to close out the lanky youngster on the fifteenth green with a great birdie 3.

Conqueror of Frank Roesch, of Washington Golf and Country Club, 1930 champion, in his morning match, 3 and 1, Dettweiler appeared well on his way to creating another upset in his finals with Vinson until he struck the second nine. Here his tee shots, that held him in such good stead for the first nine, and his approaching and putting game that enabled him to reel off a 36, failed him, and Vinson waited for the championship to catch up with him after he shot into a 2-up lead.

Vinson went out in 37, and picked up two birdies on the next six holes

League Ruling Gives P. E. Nine League Title

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.). Because Corrigansville used an ineligible player to win by the score of 8-to-6 last Sunday at Walters' Beach, Potomac Edison's baseball team has been awarded the second half championship of the league.

When informed that George Clark, who had been suspended, played in Sunday's game in which the Corgs defeated P. E., President Dyche stated last night that the only action he could take would be to forfeit the game to Potomac Edison.

Sunday, September 9, has been set as the date for the first of a three-game play-off series between Frostburg's Demons, first half champions, and P. E., for the league championship. The opener will be staged at Community Park.

Cumberland Youths Win Legion Title, 6-1

Triplett Holds New Orleans Team to 3 Hits in Deciding Game at Chicago; Clark Is Batting Star as Winners Gain Early Lead.

Back in action after a heartbreaking defeat in his first start, Triplett, a giant youngster standing 6 feet 3 inches, throttled the siege guns of New Orleans with a three-hit pitching performance and nine strikeouts to beat the Blue Jays, 6 to 1, in the final and deciding game of the "Junior World Series."

Victory Is Upset.

The Cumberland triumph, gained by two successive victories after a one-run defeat in the first game Wednesday, was a big upset as the New Orleans club was regarded as a heavy favorite in its drive to bring the Crescent City its second National legion championship in two years.

Triplett was given excellent support afield and at the bat today as his mates chased Jerry "Big Six" Burke of New Orleans from the mound after four innings, but the big boy from Cumberland really was the whole show. He spaced the New Orleans hits so perfectly that he allowed one blow in the first, sixth and seventh innings.

Threatened with a mild uprising in the ninth with two men on and one out, he forced a runner at third and then ended the game by turning in his ninth strikeout. He was effective; only four of the Southerners were left on base. The only run scored against him came in the first inning when he issued a walk to Capt. Charlie Gilbert, who raced home on Shannon Goertz' double to left.

Clark Leads Attack.

Led by Capt. Charlie Clark, who crashed out a single and triple, drove in one run and scored two himself, Cumberland scored five runs on six hits and three errors off Burke during his four-inning tenure.

Clark opened the game with a single, reached second on an error, and tallied on Wally Hoewatt's single. A bad throw by Hodgins let Hoewatt score a minute later. Osborne's triple and Kraft's double produced another run in the third.

A walk to Triplett, Clark's triple and Osborne's long fly to left scored two more runs in the fourth. Joe Childress relieved Burke, starting the fifth, but a walk to Kraft, two perfect sacrifices and Lewis' single sent the sixth and final Cumberland run over the plate.

Rippy Retains Title in Match With Allen

Defending Champ Winner, 6 and 5, in "Uptown" Tourney Final.

CLAUDE RIPPY, transplanted North Carolinian, made a successful defense of his "Uptown" golf championship yesterday at Rock Creek's course by defeating Herman Allen, 6 and 5, in the 18-hole finals.

Allen, who is one of the better known municipal golfers in Washington, was powerless before Rippy's steady stroking, and never held the lead. In fact, for the 13 holes, Rippy yielded but one hole, the seventh, where Allen stuck his second close enough to the pin for a birdie 3. Otherwise Rippy was master of the situation.

In winning, Rippy maintained the even tenor of his pace. Seven over par for his three previous matches, he shot the 13 holes in even par yesterday, going out in 35, one over par, and picking up a birdie on the twelfth hole.

Rippy became 1 up by winning the third hole with a par 3 to Allen's 4; captured the fourth with a par, the fifth and sixth in orthodox figures to become 4-up. Rippy was 3-up at the turn, and made a whipping finish, winding up 4—3—3—4, one under par. Rippy needed par in for a 68.

Allen was out in 38, and was seven over par when the battle ended.

80,000 See Bears Held To Tie

Both Clubs Lack Scoring Punch; Bears Halted in Fourth Period.

Soldier Field, Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP).—Eighty thousand spectators jammed Soldier Field tonight to watch the All-Star Collegians of 1933 battle the Chicago Bears, champions of professional football, to a scoreless tie, in the inaugural gridiron classic of the season.

First Period.

The All-Stars easily halted the Bears' initial drive when Joe Laws intercepted Brumbaugh's pass and carried it back 5 yards to the Bears' 38. The All-Stars' with Laws dein most of the carrying, rushed the bal lto the Bears, 14-yard line, but Feathers fumbled and a scoring opportunity was lost.

After a brief exchange the Bears piled in and partially blocked a punt, getting the ball on their own 49-yard line.

A line smash netted 2 yards to the All-Stars' 49. Two quick passes, Corbett to Brumbaugh and Corbett to Ronzani, took the ball to the Stars' 9-yard line, but Hewitt fumbled an intricate double lateral pass and the Stars recovered on their 18. Feathers kicked to midfield and two plays later another fumble stopped the ball on the Stars' 35.

As the first period ended, the Stars were pounding away on their own 36. Frequent off-sides stopped both offensives.

Second Period.

A fumble again robbed the Stars of another scoring chance at the start of the second period. Getting the ball on the Bears' 47, because of a poor punt by Becker, the Stars, reinforced by a new backfield in Sebastian, Hecker, Pardonner and Everhardus, passed and smashed to the Bears' 27. Hecker fumbled a shovel pass from Everhardus on the 27 to lose the chance.

Poor punting hampered the Bears repeatedly and opened the door for serious onslaughts by the Stars. An 18-yard kick by Corbett gave the Stars the ball on the Bears' 45, but they could not take advantage of the break. Two more exchanges gave the Stars possession in midfield again. Play was kept almost entirely in Bear territory.

Intercepted passess stopped both teams and as the half ended in a scoreless tie, the Bears tried a long end run with no success from their own 45-yard line.

Third Period.

Mikulak opened the third period by returning the kick-off 35 yards to his own 45. Griffith quick-kicked on the first down and on an exchange the Bears were driven to their own 25. Griffith fumbled on the first play and in the ensuing exchange of punts the Bears got out of danger. Neither side was showing any scoring punch.

A 30-yard kick by Corbett started the Stars on another drive from their own 47. Laws squirmed through his own right tackle for 14 yards to the Bears' 39, and Mikulak plunged to the 35-yard line. With Pardonner holding the ball, Bill Smith, from Washington, attempted a placement for the 40-yard line, but the kick was wide and the Bears took possession on the 20-yard line just before the period ended with the game still scoreless.

Fourth Period.

Forty-five yards of penalties—25 against the Stars for clipping and 20 against the Bears for unnecessary roughness and holding, stopped two drives at the start of the final period. Kawal intercepted a Stars' pass on his 45 and the Bears, with Red Grange doing the throwing, opened an aerial attack which jarred the Stars. The famous Red Head tossed one to Johnny Sisk for a 23-yard gain to the Stars' 26-yard line. The Stars stiffened at that point, threw the Bears back 10 yards on four plays and took the ball on their own 36.

Cubs Beaten By Dean, 3 to 1

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP).—Dizzy Dean conquered his season's jinx today to win his twenty-third victory of the season and pitch the Cardinals into a tie with the Cubs for second plac in the National League standing. Largely because of Dean's pitching, the Cards won the opener of the series, 3 to 1.

Dizzy hadn't beate.. the Cubs since he fanned 17 of them for a modern major league record on July 30, 1933, losing three decisions to Chicago this season and being belted out a fourth time he faced them. The twenty-third victory put Dean on even terms with Lefty Gomez, of the Yankees, American League leader, who won No. 23 yesterday.

The Cardinals, by winning, kept pace with the league-leading New York Giants, who defeated Brooklyn. The deadlocked second-place clubs are 5½ games behind the pacesetters.

Hartnett Hits Homer.

Gabby Hartnett deprived Dizzy of a shutout by clouting his seventeenth home run of the season on the first pitch of the fifth inning. The Cubs threatened again in the sixth, seventh and eighth frames, putting the tying runs on base in each, but were halted without further scoring.

St. Louis scored its three tallies off Guy Bush in the fourth and fifth innings. In the fourth Delancey singled and Orsatti followed with a triple to center, but he was forced to hold third while the next two men went out.

The first run in the fifth resulted from a walk to Martin, Rothrock's sacrifice and a single by Firsch. Collins brought Frisch home with a double and took third on the throw to the plate, but was stranded when Babe Herman made a leaping catch of Delancey's liner for the third out.

Western Maryland Net Title Taken by Calhoun

Mountain Lake Park, Md., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Arthur Calhoun, of this place, won the boys' singles championship in the annual Western Maryland Junior Tennis Tournament by defeating Wesley Neville, of Keyser, in the finals, 3—6, 6—5, 6—3. Calhoun was the lone seeded player to advance past the quarter-finals in the two-day tourney.

The girls' singles title went to Miss Betty Lee, of Morgantown, W. Va., who conquered Charlotte Bolgiano, of Baltimore, 6—2, 6—0.

Calhoun paired with John Arnold, of Keyser, to win the boys' doubles crown, defeating Logan Weber and Delbert Bittinger, of Mountain Lake Park, 6—4, 6—4, in the mixed doubles finals. John Arnold, of Keyser, and Barbara Jane Carper, of Morgantown, defeated Arthur Calhoun, of Mountain Lake Park, and Joanna Grimes, of Morgantown, 6—4, 6—4.

Nelson Wins $5,000 Canada Swimming Race for Third Time

Nelson, winner of the event in 1930 and 1933, swam the distance in 7 hours 46 minutes, nearly three-quarters of an hour slower than his time of last year.

Nelson trailed the leaders during the early stages of the race, but as the cold water took its toll of such favorites as George Young, of Philadelphia; George Blagden, of Memphis, and Gianni Gambi, of Italy, the Iowan appeared to gain in strength. He took the lead around the 8-mile mark and was never seriously threatened thereafter.

The victory was worth $5,000 to Nelson.

Bill Goll, of New York, finished second, to earn prize money of $1,500.

Rainbow Named as Cup Defender After Beating Yankee by Second

Adams' Boat Almost Makes Up Lead in Thrilling Race to Finish.

Vanderbilt Craft Ahead by Minute and Half at Halfway Mark.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 31 (AP).—Rainbow tonight was named defender of the America's Cup against the fifteenth British challenger, Tom Sopwith's Endeavour, and for the second consecutive time responsibility for a successful defense was placed upon the shoulders of Harold S. Vanderbilt.

Four years ago he sailed Enterprise to Victory over Shamrock V, the late Sir Thomas Lipton's last green challenger.

Rainbow's nomination was announced after the most thrilling race in the history of the old 100 guinea mug, won first in 1851 by the schooner America in a race around the Isle of Wight.

Rainbow defeated Yankee today over a 30-mile, windward-leeward course by a breath-taking, one-second margin, the narrowest in the history of cup racing. It represented the fore and aft diameter of Rainbow's mast—30 inches.

Although the victory and defense nomination went to Rainbow and Vanderbilt, the vanquished Yankee and her skipper, Charles Francis Adams, former Navy Secretary, were clad in glory.

Mishaps Cost Yankee Lead.

During the race Yankee suffered two mishaps. The first deprived her of her lead. The second put her so far astern that she trailed Rainbow more than a minute and a half at the half way mark. Through Adams' bailing wizardry, all but one second of that lead evaporated before the finish line was reached.

Rainbow's call to defend the sailing supremacy of America came after she had thrice defeated Yankee and suffered one defeat by the Boston boat in the final trial series. Yankee entered the finals with an 8-to-3 lead over Rainbow on a basis of the earlier series, but she also began sailing troubled seas. Early this week she was forced to drop out of a contest by an accident to her rigging after she had overcome a long lead and passed Rainbow.

Contrasts between the two boats are many. Rainbow is new, built this spring, while Yankee is 4 years old, having unsuccessfully sought the defense nomination in 1930.

Yankee Gained Support.

Rainbow was financed by a group of millionaires, 17, it has been reported. Yankee was returned to the maritime arena by a few Boston people who could not forget that in one of the trials four years ago she set the record for the 30-mile triangular cup course. Financing was difficult, and until she began a startling string of victories her afterguard never knew where her next piece of canvas was coming from. After that, support became so generous that in some respects she was better equipped than Rainbow.

Giants Defeat Dodgers, 2 to 1

New Yorkers Gain in Race; Fitzsimmons Wins His 17th.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Giants resumed their pennant drive in the East today by defeating the Dodgers, 2 to 1, in the opener of a three-game series. Fred Fitzsimmons allowed five hits in winning his seventeenth game of the season and his fifth from Brooklyn.

An error by Sam Leslie in the eighth allowed Joe Moore, who had doubled, to score with the winning run off Van Mungo.

Brooklyn scored its run in the second in peculiar fashion. With Leslie on first, Len Koenecke topped a ball and claimed it struck his foot. Believeing it was foul, he didn't run, but Leslie made for second and went to third when Mancuso made a wild throw into center field. The relay caught Koenecke at first by a step. Joe Stripp then singled to bring Leslie in.

Navy Boxers Sign To Meet for Title

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 31 (AP).—Uncle Sam's sailormen rejoiced today over the announcement that Ken Overlin, U. S. S. Idaho sensation who has won 31 of his last 33 fights, has signed to meet Frankie Remus, of the U. S. S. Tennessee, in a ten-round battle to decide the professional middleweight championship of the Navy.

The fight has been brewing for two years, but with Overlin on the Atlantic Coast and Remus on the Pacific, it could not be arranged until the Tennessee steamed into Hampton Roads with the rest of the fleet several days ago.

Tom Hanes, acting as matchmaker for the King's Daughters' Milk Fund, announced the men had posted forfeits guaranteeing to make 160 pounds by 2 o'clock on the afternoon of September 8.

Ruffing Wins Duel With Russell

Bluege, Stone, Manush Start 8th With Hits, but Rally Fizzles.

Each Team Is Held to 6 Blows; Ben Chapman Is Co-Star.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Again today, Washington's champions of the American League, now only 27 full games out of first place, summoned the terrific power of their batting attack and scored a run against the Yankees, thereby escaping a shut out. The Yanks won the ball game, 3 to 1.

The difference between the Nats and the Yanks this afternoon, aside from those two runs, was Tony Lazzeri, who took his bat off his shoulder back in the second inning and knocked the Nats out of the ball game by nudging a line-drive home run into the left-field seats at a time when Ben Chapman happened to be on base.

The Nats never recovered from that wallop which laid waste an otherwise perfectly good pitching performance by Jack Russell, who had the misfortune to be cast against Charley Ruffing on a day when Ruffing was breezing his fast ball plateward with the greatest of ease and holding the Nats to six hits, all singles.

Yankees Get Six Hits.

Six hits was the allotment of the Yankees also, against the combined pitching of Russell and Al Thomas, who found his way into the game in the seventh inning, but after that second inning when Ruffing began to operate behind a 2-0 lead, Yankee base hits served only to delay their victory.

At that there was still some doubt as to how it would all work out in the eighth inning when the Nats started out like lions and went out like lambs to deliver Ruffing from his only serious trouble of the ball game.

It seems that the first three batters to face Ruffing in the eighth, Bluege, Stone and Manush, rapped singles to center and had reduced the Yanks' lead to 2-1, with Stone on third, Manush on first and, as yet, none out. But in a twinkling there were two out because Joe Cronin lifted a high pop fly to Catcher Jorgens near the Yankee dug-out and when Manush attempted to go to second after the catch, they got him out, too.

Bolton Strikes Out.

The tying run was still on second, however, but Ruffing left it there no longer than it required him to strike out Cliff Bolton for the third out.

Ruffing had just finished teasing the Nats in the seventh when he walked Susko and Travis with two out and found himself confronted with Pinch Hitter Dave Harris who waved his bat three times and walked back to the dugout mum-

Barcelona Pete, 3-to-2 Favorite, Wins Marlboro Feature Race in Stretch Drive

Three Races Are Won by Choices

Two Events Marred by Bad Starts; Aella Is Left at Post.

By Walter Haight.

TIME was when Barcelona Pete earned his way on the major tracks. Whether or not he is to return to the big time remains to be seen, but as long as the half-mile circuits are in operation and the opposition remains the same, the veteran can go right along winning straw and oats for himself and iron men for Owner B. F. Stephenson.

Yesterday, at nearby Marlboro he demonstrated that those legs which once carried him along with some of the best in training, have not lost all their snap. He was forced to take the last turn of the feature race on the outside to ease his sore muscles, but that fact made no difference in the outcome.

Dear Al: Marlboro Race Track.

For years there has been a belief among most race fans that if a colored jockey doesn't break his horse on top of the field and go winging all the way he has little or no chance of bringing home a winner. For some unknown reason it is taken for granted that the white riders cut over him, block him in other ways and do anything within their power to keep him from winning. Such is not the case. In the first place, it is absurd to think that a jockey riding a horse in the thick of a race has time to determine the complexion of the jockey moving up on him. Yesterday Skeets Holland, veteran Negro rider, rode three winners, and on each occasion came from far back in the fields to win in stretch drives. It is true that great colored jockeys of the type of Isaac Murphy and others are not being developed because few members of their race start riding now and those who do are seldom given the best mounts consistently. When you see a colored jockey drive his mount out on top of a field at the start, it is because he is trying to make a nickel horse beat a $2,500 one and not because he will not get an even break farther back in the field.

BILL.

First race—By Surprise and Uncle Billy clash in the opener and should carry the bulk of the play between them. I prefer them in the order named. By Surprise's first outing here was a sizzling victory, and she seems well placed again. Uncle Billy ran away from maidens. Dixie Princess won up North and could be dangerous here.

Second race—Easter Herald is asked to go a longer route today, but I'm stringing along. This one is at tops and appears capable of handling that 115 pounds. Westacton has that good last effort as a recommendation. Seems overweighted, however. Grand Baker could surprise.

Third race—Tuleyries Wand should make it four in a row in this. Won with something in reserve earlier in the week and meets only a fair field. Rustic Cuba will break the winning streak if it is to be broken. Stylish Mack for the show.

Fourth race—Nay Nay has missed in two tries here, but is as honest as anything in the race. Scotty Don hasn't been out since Cumberland and the question arises regarding his liking for the track. Potion won at a route and is a contender.

Fifth race—Wishing Star has rolled to three victories since the half-mile season opened. Meets his usual brand here and should scamper home at about even money.

Sixth race—Dona Dulcin drops down a peg here and I see no reason for a defeat. Has proven that she can handle this kind.

North-South Skeet Today Draws 100

APPROXIMATELY 100 skeet enthusiasts of the Atlantic Seaboard from Massachusetts to Atlanta have entered the North-South championship shoot of the National Capital Skeet Club on Bradley boulevard, which opens today. About 20 are from Washington and nearby Maryland.

Many of those entered are State or local champions and the competition promises to be brisk. Events have been arranged for the entire family, father, mother and the children.

Referees announced yesterday are John Couzens, of New York City, senior referee of the National Skeet Association; William Power, of Boston; Hughes Richardson, of Middlefield, Conn.; John Dugan, of Wilmington, Del., and George Hood, of Washington.

Three Events Today.

Three events will be held this afternoon beginning at 1:00. Two matches, one for men and one for women, with the .410 gauge and a junior match. Larry Williams, of Chevy Chase, junior champion for Maryland and the Middle Atlantic States, will compete in the latter event.

Senior events and the team matches will be held tomorrow, beginning at 9 a. m. Dinner will be served in the clubhouse, recently erected with century old barn timber.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JINNEE, $8.80, $3.10, $2.30; POLYDEE, $2.80, $2.10; ONLY FOOLIN, $2.30.

JINNEE away well, took command in the stretch and tired badly thereafter, and just lasted to win. POLYDEE, well up throughout, ran wide at stretch turn, and but for this might have won. ONLY FOOLIN had no excuses. BREAD KING stole a long lead in the first half-mile, but was eased up when beaten.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:42. Off at 2:44. Winner, H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CLEAR KNIGHT, $4.70, $3.20, $2.50; INFINITUDE, $7.20, $3.60; JUSTA TEACHER, $3.00.

CLEAR KNIGHT took command soon after the start, took a long lead, to win easily. INFINITUDE broke slowly, was sent up fast after going a half-mile, but was not good enough. JUSTA TEACHER had no excuses. REBEL CAT quit badly after flashing early speed.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:10. Off at 3:14. Winner, Mrs. E. E. Clemson's b. g. (4), by Wilderness—Fairy Girl. Trained by J. K. Mourar, jr. Value to winner, $200; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:27 1-5, 0:55 3-5, 1:21 2-5, 1:28 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FOREST FAUN, $19.80, $6.20, $3.60; NAY NAY, $3.30, $2.40; LAMPOON, $2.50

FOREST FAUN, within striking distance of the leaders to the stretch, came down center of the track and just got up to win. NAY NAY, well up throughout, was steered wide to run down back lane, but closed fastest of all. LAMPOON followed the pace for a half-mile, took command with a rush, and came again after being passed at the stretch turn. CHARMAINE showed speed for a half-mile and then retired. The start was very bad.

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:46. Off at 3:45. Winner, A. B. Berger, jr.'s blk. h. (8), by Hildur—The Widow Man. Trained by F. G. Simms. Value to winner, $200; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:25 4-5, 0:52 4-5, 1:17 4-5, 1:29 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STYLISH MACK, $14.90, $5.90, $4.40; SAMBO G., $4.70, $3.30; BRAW SCOT, $4.80.

Another poor start resulted with STYLISH MACK being one of those left. However, he was good enough to come on and win. SAMBO G., one of those favored by the break, had no excuses. BRAW SCOT closed gamely from a slow beginning.

GRAND BAKER and WANDERING JIM, off running, showed speed for a half-mile, and then chucked it up. AELLA'S rider didn't think it a go and had to be waved out of the stalls. He wisely took mount in hand to gallop behind the field.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Went to post at 4:15. Off at 4:15. Winner, B. F Stephenson's ch. g. (5), by Blue Pete—Barcelona. Trained by C. Costello. Value to winner $200; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:27 2-5, 0:54, 1:23, 1:50, 1:57.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BARCELONA PETE, $5.10, $2.70, $2.30; KINGBIRD, $2.90, $2.40; PORYPHYRY, $3.10.

BARCELONA PETE forced the pace throughout, ran wide at far turn, but came again to win in drive. KINGBIRD worked his way up slowly, but was not good enough. PORYPHYRY, off tardily, went up with a rush, and hung after getting to top in stretch. BOKIE B. sprinted into a long early lead, and was eased up when beaten.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:41. Off at 4:41. Winner, Mrs. J. K. Mourar's b. g. (3), by Wrack—Roman Princess. Trained by J. K. Mourar, jr. Value to winner, $200; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:26, 0:53 1-5, 1:22 1-5, 1:52, 1:59 3-5.

SELFISH GAIN	105	6	2	1h	4h	6	6	6	Brooks	19.70

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAY WRACK, $3.60, $2.70, $2.30; MY SCOTCH, $8.40, $3.80; CLIFTON'S AGNES, $2.80.

BAY WRACK, allowed to drop far out of it for three-quarters of a mile, was placed under whip rest of way home, to set up in final strides to win. MY SCOTCH ran an even race with BAY WRACK, had the winner's rush, CLIFTON'S AGNES stole a long early lead, but tired badly in last quarter-mile. JANE PORTER showed speed, but was eased up in last half-mile.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:14. Off at 5:16. Winner, H. Foote's br. g. (5), by Aga Khan—Flambino. Trained by M. W. Smith. Value to winner, $200; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:26 2-5, 0:51 4-5, 1:16 1-5, 1:50 1-5, 1:57 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—McDONALD H., $20.50, $9.10, $5.70; CRASHER, $12.80, $5.70; SAND BELL, $3.70

McDONALD H. broke slowly, went up fast on outside, was in tight quarters in run down back lane, but foushit his way clear, to come on to an easy score. CRASHER, in a wide race, was bothered by one on back lane, and closed well when clear. SAND BELL, away fast, was shut off at the quarter pole, went up fast on outside, and bothered field in doing so; came fast in stretch, and then hung. ROLLICK showed speed for a half-mile, was caught in a jam, but came again when clear.

Gilbert Hunt Faces Allison Today in First Round of National Tennis Singles

Perry Begins Defense of Crown

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Aug. 30 (Spl.).—The prospect of playing in the famous Forest Hills Stadium against one of the game's great masters held no terrors for 18-year-old Gilbert Hunt, the barnstorming boy from Washington, D. C., who faces Wilmer Allison in the first round of the National tennis championships here tomorrow.

Young Hunt viewed his approaching match with surprising unconcern, but made no prediction as to just how far he will carry the Davis Cup internationalist.

Welsh Draws Bye.

Barney Welsh, the other Washington entrant, recent winner of the National public parks championship at Minneapolis, drew a bye for the first round. In the second round Welsh meets a lesser-known opponent and should the 22-year-old Duke University net captain get through to the third bracket he is due to face Marcel Rainville, the Canadian Davis Cupper. The winner of this match will, in all likelihood, play Sidney Wood, America's Davis Cup mainstay.

Despite Hunt's record, which includes becoming a finalist in both the National Intercollegiate and National Junior championships, the Washington lad is being conceded only a bare chance of taking more than a few games in his match tomorrow. The M. I. T. youngster was defeated in both the college tourney and the junior event by Gene Mako, the up-and-coming Californian.

Perry Plays Today.

The appearance in the stadium of Fred Perry, the defending champion, in his first-round match against Carl Schweikhardt, appears to be the principal attraction tomorrow, although Schweikhardt is an unranked player. Cliff Sutter faces Elmer J. Griffin, New York veteran; George Lott plays the former boy-wonder of Philadelphia, Marco Hecht, and Lester Stoefen plays Lieut. James M. Farrin, jr.

Roderick Menzel, of Czechoslovakia, conceded a strong chance for the title, drew a bye, as did Frank Wilde, of England, and Vernon Kirby, of South Africa, the other foreign entries.

The downfall of Russell was commenced by Ben Chapman in the second inning when with one out he deposited a double in left field, setting the stage for Lazzeri who pushed his game-winning homer up into the left-field stands on the first pitch.

Jack Saltzgaver's impatience had cost the Yanks a run in the third. He had drawn a walk and began to scramble around the bases toward home when Babe Ruth's single trickled through Jack Stone's legs in right field. He made it all right, but neglected the formality of touching third base, an item that Joe Cronin remembered when he called for the ball and threw it to Bluege for a put-out.

The Yanks added their third run after the Nats had fizzled their game-winning opportunity in the eighth. Ruth walked and Thomas wild-pitched his runner, Byrd, to second base. Luke Sewell, who had been impressed into service as a second baseman by that time, threw out Gehrig, and Byrd raced to third whence he scored on Chapman's single.

Mannassas Horse Show Will Commence Today

Manassas, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—The Manassas Horse Show and Fair Association, colored, will hold its thirty-first annual exhibition on the grounds near here tomorrow and Monday. A "community" day program will feature tomorrow's events, with a retinue of ring classes for horses the Monday feature.

The Post Sandlotter

THE Arlington A. C. will have half an eye on the Fairfax-Middleburg game tomorrow and half an eye on Falls Church, which it meets in the northern Virginia, section A race. Arlington is scheduled to play Middleburg at Middleburg Monday afternoon and the game may mean a lot or nothing, according to tomorrow's developments. Arlington's pennant hopes hang on several "ifs." No. 1 is whether or not Fairfax can beat Middleburg. No. 2 is whether or not Arlington can beat Falls Church. If Middleburg wins while Arlington loses tomorrow, Middleburg takes the title, and Monday's game is an exhibition. On the other hand, if Middleburg loses while Arlington wins, Monday's game will be the first of a three-game series to decide the section winner.

Diamonds have been secured for the teams whose games for Sunday were originally listed without the field being named. National City League, junior class, Goode Cleaners vs. Clarendon Juniors, Monument, No. 4, at 1 o'clock; Midget class, Schwartz Cleaners vs. Simpson's Pharmacy, Mounment, No. 4, at 11 o'clock; District Independent League, Postal A. C. vs. Potomac A. C. on the North Ellipse at 1 p. m.

A game for tomorrow and a double-header for Monday is wanted by the MacGruder A. C., which is leading the second-half race in the junior division of the National City League. Call Hyattsville 8.

The Rex unlimited tossers have a field and want a game for tomorrow. Call Potomac 2334-J.

An outstanding Labor Day attraction finds the young Dor-A nine crossing bats with the strong Pig 'n' Whistle nine on the Riverdale diamond at 3 p. m.

Freddy Wahler's Congress Heights A. C. has listed the Mount Vernon Cycle & Sport Shop nine for a tussle today on the Congress Heights diamond at 3 p. m.

Hayes Playground representatives won the playground baseball championship yesterday when they took the measure of the Hoover nine by the score of 5 to 3. A furious batting rally in the last two innings overcame an early Hoover lead. Jim Vermillion's double with the bases loaded was the blow that did the damage.

Indian Head A. C. is desirous of arranging a game for Labor Day with a strong unlimited team. Call the manager at Indian Head 341 between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m.

The Miller Furniture nine expects to encounter strong opposition in the three-game series to be played with the Westvaco team of Covington, Va. A single game is scheduled for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on Sunday and a twin bill at Covington on Labor Day. The Millers will leave by automobile from 343 Tennessee avenue northeast today at 1 p. m.

The Silver Spring baseball team will play the Maryland A. C. tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Silver Spring field and will journey to Winchester Monday for a double-header at that place.

Young Riders To Compete In Show

Horsemanship Pupils Will Perform Today at Charlottesville.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Albemarle's annual juvenile horse and pony show will be held tomorrow on the estate of Jack Rinehart, on Ivy road, west of the university.

The event is sponsored by the Keithwood Riding School, a summer camp for children who come to Virginia to learn how to ride, jump and hunt. The past season has been the most successful in the school's history, with pupils in attendance from as far west as Ohio and from New England.

The children range in age from 6 to 16 years. The athletic program is varied. The youngsters are taught to take their mounts over jumps and are given experience in cross-country riding under the watchful eye of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Keith and Miss Mary Crews, of the University of Virginia, all of whom are known over the Virginia circuit of horse shows. They also learn to swim and track meets are held weekly.

The horse show, which comes as a climax to the season, is attended by parents of the children who come to witness the progress the youngsters have made during the summer.

Among the judges will be Whitney Stone, of Stone & Webster, New York City, and Algernon S Craven, of Greenwood, Va., member of the American Steeplechase Association, and former M. F. H. of the Albemarle County Hunt. The various classes are as follows:

Class 1—Saddle horses, for children 12 years and under; horsemanship to count 75 per cent and performance 25 per cent.

Class 2—Saddle horses, for children over 12 years; horsemanship to count 75 per cent and performance, 25 per cent.

Class 3—Jumping class, for children over 12 years; performance to count 25 per cent and riding 25 per cent.

Class 4—Open saddle class, for ponies 14½ hands and under, to be ridden by children 12 years and under; to be judged for style, action, performance and manners.

Class 5—Jumping class, open to pupils of the Keithwood Riding School, who have not jumped before this year.

Class 6—Open jumping, for ponies 14½ hands and under, to be ridden by children under 12 years; performance, riding and way of going to be considered.

Class 7—Touch and out class.

Vinson Rallies To Win D.C. Golf Title

Erases 2-Hole Lead of Young Dettweiler and Triumphs, 4 and 3.

When the climax came on the fifteenth green, the Manor ace needed par in for a 71. He had a 73 against Hurd, a 70 against Peacock, a 71 against Greene—five over par for four matches.

Vinson Loses Second.

After overshooting the first green, Vinson saved himself a half in 4 on the first hole by pitching dead. Dettweiler won the second with a birdie 3 by sinking a 30-footer to go 1 up, and canned a 12-footer on the third for another birdie 3, Vinson, hooking his drive into the woods, and then rolling in a 10-footer for his par. Dettweiler played a spectacular run-up shot from 125 yards away to put himself in a position for a birdie. An out-of-bounds shot cost Dettweiler a 6 on the fifth hole. Dettweiler went 2 up again on the seventh by playing his shot in orthodox figures, while Vinson's second caught a trap guarding the green. Vinson won back a hole on the eighth with a par 3 as Billy smacked his drive to the left of the trap to take a 4, and they rounded the turn with Dettweiler leading 1 up.

The strain began to tell on Dettweiler on the tenth and he missed a 5-footer to lose the hole to Vinson's par 4. A stymie cost Vinson the eleventh, which they halved in 5s, and Vinson reached the twelfth green in 2 for his birdie 4 to win as Dettweiler was short with his second and took a 5. Vinson went 2 up at the short thirteenth with a par 3 when Dettweiler sliced his tee shot to the right of the green. On the fourteenth Dettweiler smacked his second far to the left of the green, overran the carpet with his third, and lost to Vinson's par 4.

Match Ends on Fifteenth.

The end came on the fifteenth, a 375-yarder. Here Vinson played a seven iron 5 feet from the pin, and Dettweiler sent his second a few feet from the green, failed to get close with his third, and Vinson politely tapped in a 5-footer for a birdie.

Winning four of the last nine holes of the second nine, Vinson plunked in a 4-footer for a birdie 3 to beat Greene on the twentieth hole in their semifinals match.

Independents Play Eagle Nine Today

Vienna Meets Columbia Firemen Sunday.

Alexandria, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Buddy Zimmerman, coach of the Eagles, worked his players until darkness at Hayden's Field this afternoon in preparation for their game with the Mount Vernon Independents tomorrow at 3 p. m.

Jimmy Titcomb and Dick Ayers, both former scholastic stars, will pitch for the Birdmen and Mounts, respectively. The outcome of the game will have quite a bearing on the unlimited leadership here and the winner has been promised a crack at the Celtics.

Vienna and Columbia Fire Department nines will collide at Baggetts Sunday in a game for the entertainment of visiting firemen who will attend the National convention here September 1, 2 and 3. Les McMenniman or Charles ("Dazzy") Vance will get the mound assignment against their intra-State rivals. The strength of the Vienna team is unknown here, but a classy collection of ball players are expected to represent them. Noble Smith, manager of the Columbias, has signed several new men for the contest.

Merribloom Horse Show Winner

Gelding Takes 2 Ribbons in Rappahannock Competition.

FRONT ROYAL, Va., Aug. 31 (Spl.).—Good horses and well filled classes marked the opening day of the Rappahannock County Horse Show at Washington, Va., yesterday.

Two horses took two blue ribbons each today. Stanley Green, of Leesburg, won the open hunter class over 4-foot jumps, and the saddle horse class, with Merribloom, a bay gelding, and Ray S. Shoemaker's Captain Kidd, of Harrisburg, Pa., took blues in the class for 3-year-old half-bred hunters and in the Green hunter class.

The open class, over 4½-foot jumps, was won by Vagabond King, owned by Sam Lutz Alexander, of Leesburg. J. E. Barker, of Warrenton, took the blue with U-Win, over the outside course through in-and-out-jumps. His Hard Lines got the red ribbon in the open class over 4-foot jumps, and was third in the ladies' saddle, and green hunter classes.

The ladies' saddle class was won by Giggle Soup, owned by Miss Elizabeth Miller, of Washington, Va.

The class for 3-year-old half-breds suitable to become hunters, and limited to Rappahannock horses, was won by Dock, owned by R. F. Brown, of Sperryville, which was second also in the class for 3-year-old half-bred hunters.

Browns Win, 3-2, In 11-Frame Battle

Chisox Are Tied by Rally in Ninth.

St. Louis, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Browns took the opening game of the series from Chicago's White Sox today, 3 to 2, with an eleventh-inning rally.

Leslie Tietje went the full route for the visitors and appeared to be the winner until the ninth. Then with the visitors leading, 2 to 1, Bejma doubled to right, Clift sacrificed, and Bejma scored on Garms' single.

After a scoreless tenth the Browns put together two singles, a walk and a long fly for another tally and the winning score.

Three Brownie pitchers — Blaeholder, Andrews and Coffman—saw service, the last mentioned getting credit for the victory.

Gallagher Is at Peak For Bout With Galento

By Bill McCormick.

MARTY GALLAGHER, who will pit his Gaelic countenance against the murderous left hooks of Tony Galento for the benefit of the Police Chiefs at Griffith Stadium Monday night, already has achieved top physical condition for the 15-round encounter and is working faithfully to perfect an antidote for the Jersey Jarrer's anti-insomnia wallops.

Under the eagle eye of his manager, Jim McNamara, Marty went through a long and strenuous session at the Jewish Community Center yesterday against an assortment of sparmates, all short and dumpy like Galento. The squat sparring partners are to accustom the Washington heavyweight to hitting down, which he must do against Turn-'Em-Over Tony.

Gallagher has absorbed a few of the many instructions he has been given on how to outmaneuver Jack Dempsey's protege, but his biggest fault seems to lie in a too-great willingness to mix it up. McNamara is attempting to get him in the habit of jabbing and backing away with his left to wear Galento down, but against his animated punching bags Gallagher has displayed a disinclination to do any backing away.

The handsome Irishman is rapidly mastering the art of tying up a left, but still is susceptible to a certain degree to a left hook. That certain degree may prove his undoing against Galento, as one mistake is enough against the soporific socker. Galento is expected to enter the ring at a surprisingly low figure. In the first bout, he weighed more than 220 pounds, but a week ago he had been whittled down to 210 under the careful supervision of his new mentor, Jack Dempsey. Dempsey has said that he expects to pound his charge down to normal fighting weight, which he believes is about 195 pounds.

To bolster the District's first 15-round bout, Roy Manley and Bob Wilson will meet in a 10-round semifinal—the District's first semi-windup over that distance. Manley took a much-disputed decision from Wilson in a previous engagement, chalking up the only local win ever charged against the pink-headed Floridian.

Regatta Canoe Events Are Announced

Rules Drawn to Govern President's Cup Meet September 23.

DETAILS of the canoe races to be held during the President's Cup Regatta, September 23, were announced today by James W. Burch, chairman of the regatta's aquatic sports committee.

All races will be half-mile straightaways, over a course along Hains Point, finishing near the end of the point.

Racing type canoes will be used in all events except the tilt, which will be in standard canvas canoes with platforms. No entry fees will be charged.

The famous Sir Thomas Lipton Point Trophy will be awarded the club scoring the greatest number of points. The Washington Canoe Club International Single Blade Four Trophy will also be among the awards.

Gold, silver and bronze medals are to be awarded the crew members finishing first, second and third in each event excepting the tilts. Medals will go to the first and second crews in the tilts.

Should a protest develop, it must be made within one hour after the finish of the race, and the decision of the aquatic committee will be final.

Accommodations, including meals, for paddlers and their friends may be had at the nearby Government-operated tourist camp at reasonable prices.

The order of events are:

Picard Leads Hershey Field; Cuts Course Mark

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 31 (AP).—Henry Picard, young Charleston, S. C., pro, shot himself into a commanding four-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 72-hole Hershey Invitation Golf Tournament today by turning in a 141 total for the opening two rounds of medal play.

Picard's 67 in the morning beat the course record of 69 set by Al Espinosa, of Akron, last year. He went out in 34, 2 under par, and back in 33, 4 less than standard.

Hornsby Continues Ban After Talk With Hemsley

St. Louis, Aug. 31 (AP).—Rollie Hemsley, the Browns' first-string catcher, under suspension since the club visited Philadelphia, failed to gain reinstatement at a conference today with club officials.

After the conference, attended by Vice President L. C. McEvoy, Manager Rogers Hornsby and Hemsley, it was announced that Hemsley's case had been taken under advisement.

Hemsley was suspended by Hornsby after the catcher had been arrested by a Philadelphia policeman, who said Hemsley had been drinking.

Sammy West Out With Knee Injury

St. Louis, Aug. 31 (AP).—Sammy West, star center fielder of the Browns, may be kept out of the line-up for the rest of the season with an injured knee.

An examination today disclosed the injury, suffered in Philadelphia recently, will require the knee be put in a cast. West tripped on a drain pipe and crashed into a concrete wall, but continued to play.

The seriousness of the injury was not discovered until West was examined today by the club's physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland.

the stalls for the mile and a sixteenth test. Eddie Smith, riding Bokie B., attempted to steal the race, sending his mount a half dozen lengths ahead on the first trip around. Bokie B. began to fade after a half, and Porphyry moved into command.

It was not until the final swing for the stretch that Quattlebaum asked Barcelona Pete for his real speed. He began to cut down the distance between him and Porphyry, but when he went wide there was a moan from his backers. However, Quattlebaum soon straightened him out and the veteran shot through the stretch to catch and pass the leader.

An epidemic of bad starts, in contrast to the good breaks of previous days, developed. Two horses were left in the third race, but the whaling was nothing as compared to that when Aella, the favorite in the fourth race, failed to move at getaway time.

A crowd near the 5,000 mark watched the program run under ideal weather conditions.

Jinnee Spills Dope.

Jinnee saw to it that the favorite players did not cash a bet in the first race, at least on the win end of the wagering. The little son of Genie lasted to offset the closing rush of Polydee, the public choice, and take the 5½ furlong sprint by a head. Only Foolin' was third. Bread King, a long shot, opened a four-length lead during the first three furlongs, followed by Jinnee and Polydee. The pacesetter folded on the backstretch and Jinnee went ahead. Polydee was cutting him down approaching the wire. The winner paid $8.80.

Jockey Davis made it two in a row in the second race, giving the favorite, Clear Knight, a hustling ride. Infinitude, a long one, was second and Justa Teacher, third. A limit field of eight answered the bugle. Clear Knight paid $4.70.

The first bad start of the meet cropped up in the third race and saw Peacock Alley and The Gen left flatfotted at the post. Forest Faun proved the best of the field, coming from far back to take the purse in a thrilling stretch drive with Nay Nay and Lampoon. The dusky Skeets Holland rode the winner and made an excellent job of it. The combination paid $19.80.

Holland Rides Three.

Another poor getaway marked the fourth race, and this time Aella, the heavily played favorite, was the victim. With Aella merely trotting behind the field, Holland scored his second straight riding victory on Stylish Mack, a $14.90 proposition. He brought the ancient son of Hildur up with a rush in the stretch that nipped Sambo G. Braw Scot was third.

Holland rode his third winner of the day in the sixth race. He brought Bay Wrack from a furlong back to win going away from My Scotch, a long shot. Clifton's Agnes, which stole a ten-length lead, staggered into the show money.

Vines Hoping Stork Will Make It a Boy

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 31 (U.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, of California, former National amateur champion and now a star professional tennis player, told friends today that a little Vine is expected to make an appearance late in October. He hopes it will be a boy, Vines added.

Stocks Flatten Out in Lifeless Small Trading

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—The stock market flattened out into a lifeless drift today as preholiday stagnation settled over financial quarters.

With the Labor Day recess in the offing and a big textile strike looming, traders withdrew to the sidelines. One of the dullest months in the memory of the present generation in Wall street came to an end appropriatively in an almost motionless stock market.

Rallying Power Feeble.

Rallying power in stocks was feeble despite four sessions of slow decline. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 stocks dipped one-tenth of a point to 72.6. Volume shrank to 400,190 shares, compared with 649,410 yesterday.

Metal shares picked up small gains as speculators watched the rise in the open market price for gold in London. The metal attained a record price of 140 shillings 11½ pence an ounce.

Bulls on the metals saw a chance for renewal of inflationary agitation in the United States in the decline of sterling, which has fallen about 11 cents in the last week. U. S. Smelting rallied 2½ points and American Smelting, McIntyre, Dome and Alaska Juneau finished fractionally higher.

Leaders Move Narrowly.

Pivotal issues, including American Can, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Standard of New Jersey and American Telephone, moved narrowly, finishing with little change. Scattered firm spots included American Chicle, California Packing, Union Pacific and U. S. Gypsum.

Hopes for seasonal business expansion were projected into September. The day's trade news provided no tangible indication of an upturn. While retail trade has gained momentum, according to Dun & Bradstreet's Weekly Review, heavy industry remains in its summer rut.

The textile strike set for tomorrow darkened prospects for early business improvement.

Additional modest exports of gold were matched by imports of silver. It was believed the movement of the metals chiefly reflected U. S. Treasury buying of silver in the world market.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Quiet irregularity developed on the stock exchange today. General buying improved gilt-edged securities and caused American and foreign rails and rubber shares to harden. Gold mining shares eased despite the new high record price for bar gold, and German bonds weakened on Dr. Schacht's moratorium speech. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Dr. Schacht's speech and news of the textile strike in the United States had a disquieting effect upon the bourse today. Industrials and rentes fell in a rather active session. The pound sterling continued to slide and lost 53 centimes from Thursday's closing price. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse opened weak, with small business. The closing was dull.

New York, Aug. 31.—Uncertainty in the business outlook is of a nature that can be dispelled only by a clear and unmistakable definition of the Administration's purposes, says the September issue of the American Bankers' Association Journal in its business review.

Hope for a substantial upturn in loans to industry rests on a definite reassurance to business concerns which are potential borrowers as to the rules under which they are expected to operate and this should be enough to increase the demand for credit, the journal says.

"Demand for credit continues at low ebb in spite of unusual efforts by banks to discover desirable borrowers and despite the strong and constant support accorded by business and banking to sound elements in the Government's plan," the review continues.

Effects of Drought.

"The drought registered its effects in a heavy decline in the wholesale and retail trades in the Central West, particularly in the St. Louis and Minneapolis districts, but on the whole the immediate effects of the calamity were less pronounced than anticipated.

"The Atlanta district continued to show increased sales over last year—a condition which has existed from the beginning of the Government's cotton bounties. Trade in Dallas showed its first marked decline since January. Richmond enjoys considerable improvement over last year.

"In New York and New England trade continues far better than might be expected though it was becoming increasingly spotty. New England had the best tourist season in several years as reflected in satisfactory retail trade. Philadelphia similarly showed improvement in the volume of retail trade

Domination of Steel.

"The industrial situation was dominated by the depression in steel. The general average output for the industry was around 26 per cent of capacity, slightly increased in mid-month by a demand for tin plate for canning beef taken off the live stock market by the Government as a relief policy but later reduced by the prospect of a lower output in normal fruit and vegetable canning.

"Fall demand for automobile steel is now expected to be late as a result of the policy of automobile manufacturers in postponing bringing out their new models. There is little demand for any other sort of steel products, continued delay in the public works program reducing the demand for structural steel below anticipation. The drought also has dimmed the fairly bright prospects of agricultural implement makers.

"Depression continues in the textile industries. Although prices of cotton goods have risen sharply as a result of the report of a short cotton crop there has been little increase in demand for cotton cloth and production continues on a restricted basis. There has been a slight increase in the demand for rayon though as yet it has not been registered at the mills.

"The shoe trade is in the doldrums because of the uncertainty in the hide trade resulting from the slaughter of cattle in accordance with the Government's relief program. Manufacturing activity in general has been highly irregular and spotty with some decrease in employment."

Bonds Decline; Federal Sales Lead Volume

Changes Remain Small as Trading Rises to $12,814,000.

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—Principal interest in the bond market today centered in Government issues which were active and rather heavy. Domestic corporate loans showed no important changes in quiet trading.

Transfers aggregated $12,814,000, par value, of which the Governments accounted for $7,960,000. This compared with $11,929,000 on Thursday, in which the turnover in Governments was $6,620,000.

Federal Financing Shadow.

While there was nothing in the day's news to directly influence the Federal list, the close proximity of the start of the Treasury's next major financing program, on September 15, was seen as an unsettling influence.

In addition, the continued sharp decline of the British pound sterling, with its implications of a "currency war," was believed to have been a disturbing factor.

With only three exceptions, all classes of Government bonds lost one thirty-second to nine thirty-seconds of a point on the day, with usually heavy trading in Home Owners 3s and 4s.

One block of $1,125,000 of the latter bonds changed hands at 98.2, at which price they were four thirty-seconds off. In subsequent trading, however, the issue strengthened and closed at 98.4 for a decline of two thirty-seconds from the previous day.

Price Changes Small.

Price changes in prime investment bonds were insignificant and reflected the trading position of the moment. American Telephone 5½s advanced ⅛ of a point to 110¾, while the convertible 4½s yielded the same amount to 108½. The same narrow fluctuations occurred in obligations of California Packing, Chicago Union Station, Consolidated Gas, Liggett & Myers, Shell Pipe Line and West Penn Power. Pacific Telephone first 5s declined a point to 107½ and New York Central gold 4s advanced ¾ to 96⅞.

Lower-priced bonds moved in an irregular fashion, although many ended slightly lower, including some obligations of the International Telephone, Pere Marquette, Missouri Pacific, New Haven and Southern Pacific. Studebaker 6s gained 1⅛ points to 42¼ and Denver & Rio Grande 4½s were 1⅜ higher at 45⅞.

Further sharp decline in German bonds carried the Dawes 7s to a new low at 35. French bonds were quiet and Argentine issues were inclined to ease.

Stocks—Small, lifeless trading in stocks resulted in an average loss of one-tenth of a point. Pre-holiday stagantion was blamed. Rallying power in issues proved feeble. Sales volume dropped to 400,190 shares.

Bonds—Federal loans led activity in the bond market. Prices declined slightly, making an average loss of one-tenth of a point. Sales increased to $12,814,000.

Curb—Prices were mixed in dull curb exchange trading. Few shares fluctuated more than a point. Transfers were decreased to 99,000 shares.

Wheat—Forecasts of private experts that the crop failure in the United States will be without parallel in history failed to stir the grain market. September wheat sold at 1.02; December at 1.03½.

Cotton—After a session of irregular fluctuations prices finished slightly higher. October sold at 13.16. The general market advanced 6 to 11 points. December closed at 13.28.

Sugar—Raw sugar sold at 2.75; refined was unchanged at 4.75.

Gold—Bar gold sold at 140 shillings and 11½ pence in the London market.

Dollar—The United States dollar was higher on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.99¼ to the English pound; 6.69½ cents to the French franc, and 39.90 cents to the German mark.

Goods Markets.

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—Cotton goods were firm today with the demand confined largely to goods wanted for prompt shipment. Rayon fabrics were in more active demand, while Rayon yarns continued quiet. More business passed in finished and unfinished silk lines. Threats of a strike in woolen mills stirred up some buying interest in local markets, but no forward business of moment was offered. Burlaps were steady and quiet.

Rubber Closes Quiet.

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—Crude rubber futures closed quiet and steady, 6 higher to 3 lower: September, 15.71; October, *15.84; December, 16.11@16.12; January, *16.23.

Curb's Prices Turn Mixed In Dull Sales

Few Shares Change Much as Transfers Decline to 99,000 Shares.

New York, Aug. 31 (AP).—Prices were mixed in dull curb exchange trading today. Few shares fluctuated more than a point and movements were erratic.

Quotations were a bit easier from the opening and the lower drift generally prevailed until the last hour, when recoveries appeared in a number of issues.

Alcohols were resistant. Utilities and metals showed irregularity. Consolidated Mining lost 9 points in a small transfer, while Aluminum Co. of America and Singer Manufacturing were off around 2 each. Distillers Corporation-Seagrams rose a point net. Hiram Walker, American Gas & Electric, Swift International and Glen Alden Coal showed fractional improvement.

Small recessions prevailed in American Cyanamid B, Newmont, Lake Shore, Swift & Co. and Technicolor. Electric Bond & Share common closed a shade lower but the preferred was down 1⅜ points.

Transfers approximated 99,000 shares, compared with 115,000 yesterday

Crop Failure Reports Fail To Stir Wheat

Market Closes Unchanged to 1 Cent Below Previous Day's Figure.

Chicago, Aug. 31 (AP).—Forecasts of private experts that the crop failure in the United States this year will be without parallel in history failed to stir the grain market out of its lethargy today largely because these predictions, though sensational, were expected.

Instead, traders generally disregarded the grain production estimates except to satisfy themselves that widespread drought has seriously depleted the Nation's crop yield even since August 1. Except for occasional sharp breaks followed by rallies of equal strength, wheat drifted listlessly lower.

The pressure of liquidation in September futures contracts due to proximity of the delivery time tomorrow weakened sentiment to a marked extent.

Wheat Closes Unchanged.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1 cent lower than yesterday's finish, September options showing the greatest loss. New September ended at $1.02@$1.02⅛, off ¾ to 1 cent. December new finished at $1.03½@$1.03⅝ and May at $1.04⅞@$1.05.

Corn showed weakness throughout the session and at the end was ¾ to 1½ cent lower, December 79¾ to 79⅞ cents. Oats were ¼ to ⅞ down, rye ¾ to 2¼ off and barley was ½ lower to ½ higher.

Wheat in early trading tended to go higher as a result partly of firmness at Liverpool and Winnipeg. Wet weather in parts of the Canadian West was expected to check harvesting operations and movement of the crop. A disquieting factor, however, was announcement of a private estimate placing the wheat crop of the Canadian West at 265,000,000 bushels, compared with 251,000,000 last year and local trade expectations of 249,000,000.

The much-anticipated corn crop estimate fell on the market with little effect. The average of four predictions placed 1934 corn production at 1,459,000,000 bushels, compared with an August 1 average of 1,658,000,000, and the government's August 1 prediction of 1,607,000,000.

'34 Figure Is Low.

The corn harvest in 1933 was 2,344,000,000, whereas the normal crop is more than 2,500,000,000. This year's predicted figure, although very low, was about in line with trade expectations and there were some bullish interests that showed a trace of disappointment that it was not lower.

Profit-taking sales slipped corn prices lower after the estimates were announced. Mention of possible damage by farm worms and chinch bugs to Iowa and Illinois corn was contained in the reports.

The market was restricted to some extent by the pending textile workers strike and a sharp break in sterling.

Wheat traders paid little attention to the spring wheat crop estimates. The predictions averaged 84,000,000 bushels compared with the Government forecast of 90,400,000 on August 1. Last year 176,000,000 were harvested while the five-year average is 254,000,000. This indicates a total 1934 wheat crop, both spring and winter, of 485,000,000 compared with a five-year average of 886,000,000.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, holding a District Court. In re condemnation of land for the extension of Garrison street, between Thirty-ninth street and Belt road northwest, in the District of Columbia. Docket No. 2301. Notice and order of publication. Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners of the District of Columbia (pursuant to a certain provision of the Act of Congress approved July 1, 1913, entitled 'An Act making appropriations for the expenses of the government of the District of Columbia, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, and other purposes,' whereby they are authorized to open, extend or widen any street, avenue, road or highway to conform with the plan of the permanent system of highways in that portion of the District of Columbia outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown adopted under the Act of Congress approved March 2, 1893, as amended by the Acts of Congress approved June 28, 1898, and May 28, 1926, respectively, by condemnation under the provisions of subchapter IV of chapter XVI of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia), have filed a petition in this Court praying the condemnation of the land necessary for the extension of Garrison street, between Thirty-ninth street and Belt road northwest, in the District of Columbia, as shown on a map or plat filed with the said petition, and praying also that this Court empanel a jury in accordance with the law provided for in such cases to assess the damages which owner of land to be taken may sustain by reason of the said extension of Garrison street, between Thirty-ninth street and Belt road northwest, in the District of Columbia, and the condemnation of the land necessary for the purposes thereof, and to assess the benefits resulting therefrom, plus all or any part of the costs and expenses of said proceedings, upon any lands which the jury may find will be benefited, as provided for in and by the aforesaid Act of Congress approved May 28, 1926. It is by the Court, this 22d day of August, 1934, ordered that all persons having any interest in these proceedings, be and they are hereby warned and commanded to appear in this Court on or before the 25TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1934, at 10 o'clock a. m., and continue in attendance until the Court shall have made its final order finding and confirming the award of damages and the assessment of benefits of the jury to be empaneled and sworn herein; and it is further ordered that a copy of this notice and order be published twice a week for two successive weeks in the Washington Evening Star, The Washington Post and the Washington Herald, newspapers published in the said District, commencing at least twenty days before the said 25th day of September, 1934. It is further ordered that a copy of this notice and order be served by the United States Marshal, or his deputies, upon each of the owners of the fee of the land to be condemned herein, as may be found by the said Marshal, or his deputies, within the District of Columbia, and upon the tenants and occupants of the same, before the said 25th day of September, 1934. Walt Mason, Himself

The Desperadoes.

The followers of sin will all be gathered in, and they will fry or somehow die, they can not hope to win. The law is at their heels, with cord tires on its wheels, with writs and torts, decrees of courts, and sheriff's crimson seals. The law has time to burn, and it can twist and turn, and loaf or speed as it may need, and all new wrinkles learn. The law has men so brave they do not fear the grave; they'll take a chance and blithely prance to catch the fleeing knave. We've seen in recent weeks a lot of sinful freaks cash in their checks with wounded necks and bullets in their beaks. There was the dauntless Clyde, with Bonnie at his side; they had their fun with gat and gun, and then they up and died. Their weapons popped and roared until the law was bored; then it stepped in with trap and gin, and two frail spirits soared. And there was old Fred Burke, he did much deadly work; he's in the pen with buried men, and must grieve and irk. And Sankey for a while pursued his course of guile, until the law got sore and raw, and smote him on the tile. Now Dillinger is gone, the brisk and buoyant John; no more he'll pack the banker's sack across the dewy lawn. And I could mention more who died upon the floor or, bleak and pale, went off to jail to wait the hangman's chore. Once they were normal boys, who tinkered with their toys, and played croquet at close of day, and raised a cheerful noise. What impulse, strange and strong, had set them going wrong, to find release from ways of peace, where life's a pleasant song?

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Ah, Wall Street Arrives — By Harry J. Tuthill

SURE ENOUGH, GEORGE. JUST AS YOU SAID IN THE BASEMENT WHEN YOU HEARD THE BELL RING. IT'S SOMEONE AT YOUR DOOR, AND I KNOW IT'S THAT MAN FROM WALL ST.
SH-H! DON'T LET HIM SEE YOU, IKE.
WE'LL GET INTO THE HOUSE THROUGH THE REAR DOOR.
WHOO! WHAT RUNNING. LISTEN GEORGE, DON'T KEEP HIM WAITING ANY LONGER. HE MAY GET SORE AND LEAVE.
PULL YOURSELF TOGETHER, IKE. KEEP CALM. TESSIE HAS GONE TO THE DOOR NOW.
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. 9-1
OH JOSIE DARLING, IT'S THE MAN FROM WALL ST. IN ANSWER TO THAT FAKE TELEGRAM, TO SEE IKE.
KEEP COOL, IKE! STAY RIGHT HERE. MAKE HIM WAIT. STEADY, IKE, STEADY.
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N.Y.
EASY, IKE, EASY. DON'T LOSE YOUR HEAD. LET ME DO THE TALKING.
WELL OF COURSE IF YOU GENTLEMEN ARE AS BUSY AS YOU SAY YOU ARE I COULD COME BACK MONDAY, BUT..
AHEM! WELL I GUESS WE COULD....
YES, MONDAY WOULD BE BEST. GOOD DAY, SIR.
WHAT! WHAT! YOU TOLD THAT MAN WHO CAME HERE TO OFFER YOU MONEY FOR THAT SCRUBBY 40 ACRES TO COME BACK MONDAY? IKE!
GEORGE TALKED TO HIM AND.....
OH GEORGE, WHY DO YOU INTERFERE SO MUCH IN OTHER FOLKS' AFFAIRS?
DON'T WORRY IKE, HE'LL BE BACK.

JOE JINKS, Featuring Dynamite Dunn — On to Battle — By Llanuza

SAY, DID YOUSE HEAR ABOUT DYNAMITE DUNN, KNOCKIN' OUT TWO OF HIS SPARRIN' PARTNERS YESTERDAY?
BAH! THEY MUST 'AVE BEEN POOSHOVAIRES!
IS DAT SO? WELL, THEY WERENT! THEY WERE BIG AND TOUGH — I BET YOUSE COULDN'T LICK 'EM!
WHAT?
Tm. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.: © 1934 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
LEESIN, STOOPID! ANYBODY DYNAMITE DUNN CAN LICK, PEPITO CAN LICK — WEETH ONE HAND! WHERE ARE THEES FELLAIRES — I DO IT RIGHT NOW!
OKAY!
STILLMAN'S GYM!
AN' GO QUEEK!
AND SO JOE'S SCHEME WORKED PERFECTLY

NAPOLEON AND UNCLE ELBY — By Clifford McBride

THIS IS THE THIRD TIME I'VE TRIED TO START THIS FIRE. I'D BETTER FIND SOMETHING THAT'LL BURN. THESE STICKS ARE TOO GREEN.

MIDNIGHT
THIS AMERICAN GIRL IN EDGIE'S BOOK — HE'S MADE HER EXACTLY LIKE ME — HE EVEN CALLS HER DUXIE!
OW! — AN' DOES THAT SCIENTIST'S DAUGHTER GET TH' FELLOW AWAY FROM YOU — I MEAN FROM HER?
12:30 A.M.
OH, DEAR, YES! — SHE'S GOT TH' MAN IN HER CLUTCHES — SHE RUINS HIM — HE JUMPS OFF A CLIFF — !!!
1:30 A.M.
— BUT THEN SHE REALIZES SHE LOVES HIM — SHE GET'S ME — I MEAN, HIS AMERICAN SWEETHEART — TO NURSE HIM BACK TO HEALTH — BUT AS SOON AS HE GETS WELL — SHE GETS HIM IN HER CLUTCHES AGAIN
OH, DEAR —!
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.
2:30 A.M.
BUT, OH — WHAT A BEAUTIFUL HAPPY ENDING! — TH' AMERICAN GIRL AND TH' FELLOW ARE REUNITED JUST AS THERE'S AN' EXPLOSION AND TH' LABORATORY WITH TH' SCIENTIST'S DAUGHTER IN IT BLOWS UP!

THE GUMPS — Weakening

TWO WEEKS FROM MONDAY AND THIS TRIAL IS ON — WELL, IF MAMA DE STROSS THINKS SHE CAN GET $10,000,000. OUT OF ME WITHOUT A STRUGGLE SHE'LL BE SADLY MISTAKEN — IT'S A TOUGH BATTLE I KNOW — 9-1
WHEN YOU THINK OF ALL THE COURT COSTS AND THE EXPENSE THAT GOES WITH IT — THE TIME SPENT AND MY MONEY ALL BEING TIED UP — AND THE LAWYER'S FEE — I WONDER WHAT THAT WILL BE BEFORE I GET THROUGH — AT THE RATE HE'S GOING IT WILL BE MORE THAN THEY'RE SUING FOR —
I WONDER IF SHE'D TAKE HALF IF I PAID HER IN CASH — I SUPPOSE I'LL WIND UP BY BEING JUST BLAMED FOOL ENOUGH TO GO OVER AND OFFER TO SETTLE —

DICK TRACY — A Buyer

YEAH! SHE WANTS TO SELL THE PLACE, ADOLPH, SHE TOLD ME SO. AND AS LONG AS YOU MENTIONED YOU'D LIKE TO START A LUNCH ROOM — I THOUGHT YOU'D LIKE TO TALK TO HER.
The COFFEE POT
YES, I KNOW ADOLPH.
JIM, HERE, WAS TELLING ME YOU WANT TO SELL THE "COFFEE POT." OF COURSE I COULDN'T OFFER YOU A FANCY PRICE...
MORTIMER! WE'VE EVEN GOT THE LOCAL COPS WORKING FOR US!
YEAH THAT'S RICH, ISN'T IT.
WHAT UNJUST TURN OF LUCK ENABLES THESE TWO CROOKS' EVERY PLAN TO WORK OUT WITH CLOCK-LIKE PRECISION! WE SHALL SEE!

WINNIE WINKLE, the Breadwinner — Second Childhood

WELL, FOR CHRIS'MAS SAKE! WHAT'S COME OVER YOU? SECOND CHILDHOOD ???
SEPT. 1
I'M GOING TO EMILY PRENTIS'S COSTUME PARTY TONIGHT AND I'M JUST TRYING IT ON!!
GOSH! BUT EMMY PRENTIS LIVES WAY OUT OF TOWN!
I KNOW IT, BUT YOU DON'T SUPPOSE I'D TRAVEL ON THE TRAIN WEARING THIS COSTUME?
WHY NOT? YOU'D BE A SUCKER IF Y'DIDN'T!
WHY, YOU COULD TRAVEL FER HALF FARE!!
